SOME say vaccination is not useful or necessary. Consider a case made public by Dr. Mathias Nicoll, New York State Health Commissioner.

Forty-three cases of smallpox have recently developed in New York. In one case all members of a large family, except one, were vaccinated. The one said he was healthy, didn't believe in smallpox, had conscientious objections. They gave him his choice, vaccination or twenty days quarantine.

He took the quarantine and, the twenty days ended, had developed a serious case of smallpox. All of his family, also exposed to the contagion, but vaccinated, had no smallpox. That fact outweighs a good deal of theory.

SENATOR CARAWAY, who controlled the Arkansas delegation in the last Democratic convention says, "Governor Smith cannot be elected President because he is a Catholic and a wet," and adds, "If Governor Smith were a Baptist, Methodist, or Presbyterian, he could be elected President, but his Catholicism is against him."

Republicans will be glad that this is said by a Democratic Senator, not by a Republican. A similar remark by the Reverend Mr. Burchard cost James G. Blaine the presidency. Senator Caraway professes to believe that a Democrat will be elected president in 1928, not McAdoo or Smith, but one whose name is now not mentioned. He is mistaken about that. If the Democratic convention rejects Governor Smith, solely because he is a Catholic, no Democrat will be elected in 1928.

THE strength of Governor Al Smith is underestimated by some of his Democratic brethren. He knows politics and many influential friends througout the nation. The thing to increase his strength is the statement that he cannot be elected president because he happens to be a Catholic.

The people want to keep government, politics and elections apart from religious questions.

SENATOR CARAWAY tells the newspapers, "The recent arrival of many Cardinals and their sumptuous passage across the country in a monarchial train did not help to soften matters. It served to stir up the old issues which have so long disturbed our political life."

Governor Smith is not responsible for the special train in which the Cardinals went to Chicago. That was arranged by the New York Central.

Economy Ideas In Sewing

Do you know that a man's shirt that is worn at the collar and cuffs will make a little three or four-year-old girl a nice dress?

That you can cover the line of a let-out hem with a row of running stitch embroidery, so that rickrack braid, sewn on over the mark, will add to the attractiveness of the dress? No one will ever suspect it is let down.

That you can make a pretty apron for your little girl out of just one-half yard of material?

These are only a few of the suggestions, together with directions for carrying them out, that are contained in the Sewing booklet which this bureau offers for distribution.

Your copy is waiting. Enclose FOUR CENTS in stamps for return postage and handling.

CLAUDE M. CONNORS, 26, PLUNGES FROM STACK IN STEEL MILL YARD

Scaffold Collapses When Pittsburgh Construction Company Employe Drops Heavy Piece of Timber.

VICTIM'S BODY BADLY CRUSHED

Coroner George Arner of Chester, Who Conducts Inquest, Returns "Accidental Death" Verdict.

Claude M. Connors, 26, Bessemer, Pa., employed by the Emerson Construction company, Pittsburgh, Pa., was killed yesterday afternoon in a 225-foot fall from a stack on which he was working in the yard of the Weirton Steel company at Weirton, W. Va.

Connors, whose body was badly crushed, was taken to the Ohio Valley hospital, Steubenville, where he died two hours later.

Body Shipped To Bessemer.

The accident occurred when the scaffold on which Connors was working collapsed after one of the supports was struck by a heavy piece of timber which the workman had thrown over his shoulder to the ground.

Coroner George A. Arner, of Chester, conducted an inquest last night and returned a verdict of "accidental death."

The body of Connors, who was unmarried, was shipped today to his home in Bessemer.

Fire Chief Plans Shower Party for Children Tomorrow

Heeding the suggestion made by The Review-Tribune, Fire Chief Bryan today announced plans for a shower party to be given on Broadway in front of the down town postoffice between 2 and 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. Two members of the night platoon will man the hose. Broadway will be closed between Fourth and Fifth streets during the period in which the children will frolic beneath the cooling spray.

All children over the age of two years are invited. A bathing suit is the only requirement.

Several shower parties were staged in East Liverpool last year.

GIRL'S SLAYER AT COSHOCTON SAFE FROM MOB

Fear of Attempt to Storm Jail Subsides.

Robert F. Thompson, 54, Admits Brutal Murder.

COSHOCTON, Aug. 3. — "Robert Thompson has been removed from jail here. I will not say where he was taken or when, but it was safer away from here," was the announcement made at noon today by Sheriff Marquard here.

COSHOCTON, Aug. 3.—Quiet reigned today here after a night of nervousness. Fear of a mob storming the county jail to reach Robert F. Thompson, 54 years old, self-admitted slayer of Gertrude D'Orstroph, 10, whose mutilated body was found Saturday afternoon, had subsided and special guards returned to their homes after an all-night vigil.

No appeal will be made for troops, according to officials today.

Several hundred men and women gathered about the jail last night as rumors reached the town of a mob

Mrs. Sarah Shapiro Named in $20,000 Auto Crash Case

Mrs. Sarah Shapiro, 529 Mulberry street, has been named defendant in a suit for $20,000 damages filed in common pleas court, Lisbon, by Thomas A. Shegog, ceramic engineer, who was injured in an automobile accident at the foot of Broadway, on June 2, last.

Shegog who is represented by the law firm of Anderson, Lamb & Marsteller, Youngstown, charges that his injuries are of a permanent nature. Carelessness on the part of the driver of the machine is charged in the petition.

NAGEL LAUDS MODERN YOUTH

Y. M. C. A. Secretary Speaks at Rotary Luncheon.

The youth of today is no worse—in fact, a little better if anything—than the youth of yesterday, W. H. Nagel, general secretary of the Y. M. C. A., told 40 members of the Rotary club luncheon meeting in the banquet hall of the Y at noon today.

Attorney Blaine Cochran rendered a solo, "Rose Marie." As an encore he and Mrs. Danks Cochran, accompanist, sang "Indian Love Song" from the opera, "Rose Marie." Malcolm Thompson presided at the meeting.

Announcement was made that Dr. Carnes, Canton steel official, would be the speaker at next Tuesday's meeting. J. Donald Thompson will be chairman.

In his defense of the modern youth, Secretary Nagel declared that the young man of today has more temptations to face than the youth of 40 years ago.

"One of the greatest temptations facing the young man of today is what to do in his leisure time," he said. The working hours have been reduced to eight, seven and six hours. The young man has no way to put in his leisure time like the mature

Detective Slater Predicts Arrest of Patrick E. McDermott.

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 3.—Joseph Cleary, Columbus detective sent to Canton by Governor Donahey to aid Canton and Stark county authorities in solving the murder of Don R. Mellett, editor of the Canton Daily News, was summoned today to appear at the governor's office here tomorrow morning for a conference.

The governor explained his action as "taking cognizance of the rumors coming from Canton."

He did not say Cleary would not return to the scene of the investigations in Stark county, but said:

"We sent Cleary to help and cooperate up there. If they don't need him any longer, we will keep him here. I am going to communicate with Acting Police Chief Earl Hexamer and Prosecutor McClintock and may keep him here."

Lowell Mellett Visits Columbus

Lowell Mellett, brother of the slain editor, spent an hour conferring with Governor Donahey here this morning. At the conclusion of the conference, he left for Washington, D. C. where he is editor-in-chief of the Scripps alliance.

Neither Mellett nor the Governor would comment on the visit except to say they had talked about the murder.

Mellett was accompanied on his visit to the governor's office by William Pontius, Canton politician.

"We talked over the whole case. Mr. Mellett was here on other business and just dropped in" said the governor.

McDermott's Capture Imminent.

CANTON, O., Aug. 3.—Patrick E. McDermott, wanted in connection with the Don R. Mellett murder case, will be captured.

That was the declaration today of Ora E. Slater, chief of the agencies investigating the crime in answer to reports that McDermott had been murdered and other reports to the

EVERETT SANDERS IS IN HOSPITAL

BOSTON, Aug. 3.—Much relieved after a physical examination disclosed that he was not dangerously ill, Everett Sanders, secretary of President Coolidge, was resting comfortably today at the Corey Hill hospital, Brookline.

Secretary Sanders came to Boston at the suggestion of Major Coupal, the president's personal physician, to be examined by Dr. Arthur L. Chute, Back Bay specialist. The latter said there was a possibility that Sanders would be able to return to the summer White House in a week.

Seize 3,700 Gallons of Alleged Liquor.

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 3.—Five men were in custody here today the result of two liquor raids headed by Deputy Administrator N. S. Clark. In one of the raids the dry agents captured a truck loaded with 3,750 gallons of alleged alcohol.

Tremor Stops Clocks, Halts Street Cars and Interrupts Telephone Service—No Casualties are Reported.

TOKIO, Aug. 3.—Thousands of persons rushed to the open as the most severe earthquake in two years struck Tokio today. The earth tremor stopped clocks, halted street car service and interrupted telephone service.

Plaster was shaken from a few buildings.

There were no casualties and property damage was negligible.

The tremblor centered about 20 miles from this city.

Attorney L. M. Kyes Will Make Address At Kiwanis Meet

Attorney L. M. Kyes, East Palestine, will address members of the Kiwanis club at the noon meeting in Larkins' annex, Market street, Thursday. His subject will be "One Hundred and Fifty Years of American Government." Kyes is a past lieutenant governor of Ohio Kiwanis.

Joint meeting of Kiwanians with the Clarkson grange, which was to have been held tomorrow evening, has been postponed until Wednesday, Sept. 1.

Garage Bandits Get $350.

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 3.—Police today searched for three bandits who waylaid Mr. and Mrs. Sam Russell in their garage last night and robbed them of $350.

City Planners Urge Ban Here On Term "Alley"

The term "alley" in the downtown district will be discarded if recommendations adopted by the city planning commission are approved by council.

The commission, at a meeting in the Chamber of Commerce rooms in the Little building last night, advocated the substitution of the words, "lanes," "ways" or "places."

The word "alley," it was pointed out, is objectionable to many persons as their mail address. Other cities, it is declared, have dropped the appellation.

Mrs. W. A. Hill, 70, Widow, Dies at Her Youngstown Home

Mrs. W. A. Hill, 70, widow of Wilfred Hill, former resident of East Liverpool, died yesterday at her home, 287 Grant street, Youngstown, of complication of diseases.

Mrs. Hill, whose husband was at one time engaged in business here, is survived by one son, Wilfred; two brothers, Robert McGahey, East Liverpool, and William McGahey, Wellsville, and one sister, Elizabeth McGahey, Youngstown.

Funeral services will be held in the home at 10 o'clock Thursday morning. Burial will be made at New Bedford, Pa.

MAN ENDS OWN LIFE WHEN HE IS SOUGHT FOR DOUBLE MURDER

Chilo Divorcee, 32, and Youth Slain in Automobile.

BODIES RIDDLED

Motorists Killed as They Flee From Pursuer.

CINCINNATI, O., Aug. 3.—Ray Ross, 45, of Felicity, Ohio, killed himself at his home early today with a revolver shot when Sheriff Fred Crosswell, of Clermont county, went to arrest him in connection with the slaying last night of Mrs. Mamie Metzger, 32, divorcee, of Chilo, Ohio, and Otto Ites, 18, of near Bethel, Ohio.

Farmer Finds Bodies.

The bullet-riddled bodies of the two were found in an automobile in front of the Joseph Broadwell farm house at Rural, Clermont county, by the farmer and his wife after they had been awakened by a volley of revolver shots.

Ross shot himself when the sheriff went to his home, dying instantly, according to a report from the sheriff's office at Batavia.

Jealousy is Blamed.

The cause of the tragedy, it was later learned, was Ross' infatuation for the Metzger woman, and his jealousy of young Ites' attentions toward her.

Ross stood at the head of the stairway in his home as he fired the shot into his breast. His wife told Sheriff Crosswell he had a few moments before made a full confession of his crime to her. There had been domestic trouble in the Ross home, Mrs. Ross having known her husband was infatuated with the Metzger wo—.

The sheriff was led to seek Ross through a suspicion on the part of the girl's father, Dide King, who identified his daughter.

The Kings had formerly been residents of Aberdeen, Brown county. Other principals in the tragedy had always lived in Clermont county.

According to the story told by Broadwell and his wife they saw an automobile shoot away in the darkness as the lights went up in the farm house. They ran out into the yard immediately to examine the remaining car. It was headed into the yard with its lights shining into the farmhouse, as though the two in the car had sought to escape their pursuers by turning into the farm yard.

Mrs. Broadwell recognized the slain woman as Mrs. Metzger.

BEATTY RALLY HERE FRIDAY

Pottery Jobber Will Speak in Eagles' Auditorium.

J. C. B. Beatty, East Liverpool pottery jobber, will close his campaign for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination with a rally in the Eagles' auditorium, Broadway, at 8 o'clock Friday evening, he announced today.

"I will close my campaign without revenge and without mercy," said Beatty. "I do not know what I will say, but I do know that I will not be misunderstood."

The Eagles' band will give an open air concert preceding the meeting.

This will be Beatty's third speech of the campaign. He spoke at a Lions' club luncheon in Toledo last Thursday, while earlier in the month he made an address in Dayton.

NEW YORK GIRL IS FORCED TO QUIT ENGLISH CHANNEL SWIM WHEN WITHIN TWO MILES OF HER GOAL

DOVER, England, Aug. 3.—Grim tragedy and possibly death came close to ClaraBelle Barrett, New York swimming instructress, as she plunged through the thick fogs and heavy seas of the English Channel last night, in a brave but futile effort to swim the channel.

When Miss Barrett gave up her attempt at 5:20 this morning after having been in the water for 21 hours and 40 minutes, having covered 40 miles, she showed for the first time signs of the great strain—she wept in a womanly fashion.

But during the swim, according to Captain Learmount, who acted as her pilot, she faced grave danger, without the slightest indication of being un-nerved, even when she came close to being run down by a channel steamer.

"Fog made it difficult for us," said Captain Learmount." At times we were unable to see more than five yards ahead. For many hours Miss Barrett swam bravely on, heading into the fog.

"Then we heard a siren. It was the Boulogne cross-channel packet. She was headed for us, and she came so close that we had to pull out of her way in a hurry.

"It was an experience that would have unnerved most women, but it didn't bother Miss Barrett, she just swam on into the fog again, she's a very brave woman."

Gertrude Ederle gave up her attempt last year after being in the water eight hours. She covered in that time 23½ miles.

The launch bearing the exhausted swimmer turned about and put into Dover at 8 o'clock this morning. A large holiday crowd, waiting at the wharf, cheered Miss Barrett enthusiastically.

Treacherous Tides Baffle Her.

Miss Barrett is 32 years old. She is the giantess among the channel aspirants, being six feet tall and weighing 210 pounds. Her period of training was considerably abbreviated because of lack of funds and it was said that for the same reason she was forced to start from the English side, considered by experts the more difficult side from which to start the swim.

Miss Barrett, like the scores who have preceded her, owed her failure to the treacherous tides.

At the end of 16 hours, with the tide behind her, she was making remarkable progress, and it seemed likely that she would achieve her goal.

But a shift in the tide, and the American girl found herself swimming hard but making no progress. To prevent a useless expenditure of energy she swam downstream with

There had been domestic trouble in the Ross home. Mrs. Ross having known her husband was infatuated with the Metzger woman.

The sheriff was led to seek Ross through a suspicion on the part of the girl's father, Dide King, who identified his daughter.

The Kings had formerly been residents of Aberdeen, Brown county. Other principals in the tragedy had always lived in Clermont county.

According to the story told by Broadwell and his wife they saw an automobile shoot away in the darkness as the lights went up in the farm house. They ran out into the yard immediately to examine the remaining car. It was headed into the yard with its lights shining into the farmhouse, as though the two in the car had sought to escape their pursuers by turning into the farm yard.

Mrs. Broadwell recognized the slain woman as Mrs. Metzger.

BEATTY RALLY HERE FRIDAY

Pottery Jobber Will Speak in Eagles' Auditorium.

J. C. B. Beatty, East Liverpool pottery jobber, will close his campaign for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination with a rally in the Eagles' auditorium, Broadway, at 8 o'clock Friday evening, he announced today.

"I will close my campaign without revenge and without mercy," said Beatty. "I do not know what I will say, but I do know that I will not be misunderstood."

The Eagles' band will give an open air concert preceding the meeting.

This will be Beatty's third speech of the campaign. He spoke at a Lions' club luncheon in Toledo last Thursday, while earlier in the month he made an address in Dayton.

NEW YORK GIRL IS FORCED TO QUIT ENGLISH CHANNEL SWIM WHEN WITHIN TWO MILES OF HER GOAL

DOVER, England, Aug. 3.—Grim tragedy and possibly death came close to ClaraBelle Barrett, New York swimming instructress, as she plunged through the thick fogs and heavy seas of the English Channel last night, in a brave but futile effort to swim the channel.

When Miss Barrett gave up her attempt at 5:20 this morning after having been in the water for 21 hours and 40 minutes, having covered 40 miles, she showed for the first time signs of the great strain—she wept in a womanly fashion.

But during the swim, according to Captain Learmount, who acted as her pilot, she faced grave danger, without the slightest indication of being un-nerved, even when she came close to being run down by a channel steamer.

"Fog made it difficult for us," said Captain Learmount." At times we were unable to see more than five yards ahead. For many hours Miss Barrett swam bravely on, heading into the fog.

"Then we heard a siren. It was the Boulogne cross-channel packet. She was headed for us, and she came so close that we had to pull out of her way in a hurry.

"It was an experience that would have unnerved most women, but it didn't bother Miss Barrett, she just swam on into the fog again, she's a very brave woman."

Gertrude Ederle gave up her attempt last year after being in the water eight hours. She covered in that time 23½ miles.

The launch bearing the exhausted swimmer turned about and put into Dover at 8 o'clock this morning. A large holiday crowd, waiting at the wharf, cheered Miss Barrett enthusiastically.

Treacherous Tides Baffle Her.

Miss Barrett is 32 years old. She is the giantess among the channel aspirants, being six feet tall and weighing 210 pounds. Her period of training was considerably abbreviated because of lack of funds and it was said that for the same reason she was forced to start from the English side, considered by experts the more difficult side from which to start the swim.

Miss Barrett, like the scores who have preceded her, owed her failure to the treacherous tides.

At the end of 16 hours, with the tide behind her, she was making remarkable progress, and it seemed likely that she would achieve her goal.

But a shift in the tide, and the American girl found herself swimming hard but making no progress. To prevent a useless expenditure of energy she swam downstream with

Gilboa Dam In Catskills Stores Water For Metropolis

Project, $182,000,000 Engineering Feat, Will Insure Supply for 10 More Years.

NEW YORK.—The completion of the new Gilboa dam in the Catskill mountains marks the culmination of one of civilization's greatest engineering fears.

Twenty years of work, the longest tunnel in the world, the destruction of eleven villages, and the expenditure of $182,000,000 are some of the outstanding factors involved in this gigantic effort and New York's greatest water project.

When the gates of Gilboa Dam have been closed, New York City will have a potential water supply of one billion gallons a day with which to satisfy the needs of six million people. At present, the city consumes eight hundred million gallons a day, or looking at it from a standpoint of density, eight pounds of water for each pound of human flesh.

Ten villages have been effaced by that gentle but firm device of the law—Eminent Domain, to make room for and allow the unhindered functioning of the great system. An eleventh, Gilboa, is now undergoing the process of demolition.

Reverse Flow of River.

Gilboa, about 120 miles northwest of New York City, lies on both sides of the Schoharie river. The dam bisects the village and when closed will reverse the northward flow of the river. Then, the waters piling up against the dam will form a new reservoir about six miles long and one wide.

At the furthest end of the reservoir, the waters will rush into the eighteen mile Shandaken Tunnel for a long, dark ride under the mountains. This tunnel, the longest in the world, is in some places as much as 630 feet below the surface of the valley.

From the tunnel, the waters of the Schoharie flow into the Esopus river. Together they flow southward for a distance of fifteen miles until abstructed by the Ashokan dam, forming great storage reservoirs. The Ashokan reservoir is about fourteen miles west of Kingston in Ulster county.

Cross Under Hudson.

After aeration and chlorination at Ashokan, they travel eighty miles through the Catskill aqueduct, crossing the Hudson river a few miles above West Point through solid rock 1,000 feet below its surface. Reaching the Kensico reservoir in Westchester county, thirty miles nort of New York City, purification again takes place and distribution through city water mains is the next nd last step.

Compulsion, caused by the ever growing needs of a rapidly increasing population, prompted the construction of this mighty system. In the nineties, the city was so often faced by shortages of water that in 1902 definite steps were taken to formulate plans to avert these.

In 1905, the Board of Water Supply of thes tate was created by the legislature and in the following year work on the project was begun. With the closing of the Gilboa dam, New York is provided with a supply which will be ample until 1935.

New Coolidge Story Is Told by Stearns, His Intimate Friend

WASHINGTON.—Just another little story of our President, as told by his most intimate friend, Frank W. Stearns, of Boston:

"When President Coolidge was elected Governor of Massachusetts, he had seventy major appointments to make. For two weeks I sat in his office, listening to discussions of the various candidates and hearing various men urged for appointment.

"One night the President came in and said: 'Frank, here's something that might interest you. It's the patronage slate. I've already given it to the newspapers.'

"I took the list, still folded, to my room and for two hours conducting a little guessing contest with myself to see whether, on the basis of what I had heard, I could name the appointees. Finally I completed my list and compared the two.

"Of the seventy names, I had exactly three right, but unfortunately had been unable to pick the right job for any of the three."

KYNE DRAMA AT COLUMBIA

Pacific Fleet Boxer Stars in "Rustling for Cupid."

George O'Brien, who has the masculine lead in "Rustling for Cupid," Fox Films latest release which will show at the Columbia theatre for two days, was light heavy weight champion of the Pacific fleet while he was in the navy during the war, and in selecting the cast for this Peter B. Kyne drama of New Mexico ranch life, especial attention was given to the character of Jack Mason.

O'Brien has the role of Brad Blatchford and Blatchford has a terrific fight with Mason, Sid Jordan, who has given practically every star in the films a battle during his Hollywood career, was finally selected to take part of Mason. This insured a real battle.

When the fight was staged on location it was the "main event" and every man along that section of the border assembled to watch the mill.

The battle proved all that the "advance agents" had claimed for it and both O'Brien and Jordan had to take a day off to recover.

Anita Stewart has the feminine lead and others in the cast are Russell Simpson, Edith Yorke, Herbert Prior, and Frank McGlynn, Jr.

Q. Please advise the speed per hour made by the fastest trains in the New York subway. C. W. S.

A. The American Electric Railway Association says that the average speed made by the fastest express train in the New York subway is 24 miles per hour.

Q. Are tobacco, pepper, or hellebore good preventives for clothes-moths? C. T. C.

A. The following substances often recommended for clothes-moth control are worthless: Tobacco extracts, lavender flowers, cayenne pepper, allspice, angelica root, black pepper, pyrethum stems, air-slaked lime, powdered sulphur, salt, quassia chips, borax, colocynth pulp, eucalyptus leaves, white hellebore, formaldehyde, sodium bicarbonate, sodium carbonate, lead carbonate, lead oxid, red cedar leaves.

Q. Is there a monument to Major L'Enfant who planned the city of Washington? C. G. H.

A. An old fashioned type of tombstone marks the grave of L'Enfant. Other than this we have no memorial to him.

Q. Is the axis of the sun inclined with respect to the plane the sun makes with the earth? P. H.

A. The Naval Observatory says the axis of the sun is inclined seven degrees to the plane of the ecliptic.

Q. How would a young man be classified who was born in this country, but whose parents were Canadians and grandparents French? H. H. W.

A. Beginning with 1890, the census reports have classified all white persons whose parents (or one of whose parents) were born in foreign countries according to the country of birth of the parents. The most important use made of the information with regard to the country of birth of the parents is in connection with the classification of what we term the foreign white stock, by country of origin. This classification extends only to the second generation of the descendants of the foreign stock. The person mentioned would, therefore, be classified in the census returns as native with parents born in Canada. In the case of Canada alone, in the tables classifying the foreign white stock by country of origin, a separation is made according to language; that is, persons born in Canada are shown as either "Canada-French" or "Canada-Other." The man about whom you inquire would therefore have his French origin indicated in this manner.

Q. Where is General Lee buried? M. D.

A. The body of General Lee lies in a sarcophagus at Lexington, Va.

Q. For what purpose were the stone houses in Mammoth Cave built? R. G. C.

A. These houses were built almost a century ago by sufferers from tuberculosis who believed living in the cave would cure them. Another story is to the effect that miners who took saltpetre from the cave for powder-making during the war of 1812 built the houses, but while such mining did take place, it is probable the miners lived outside the cave. The fallacy of the underground cure theory for tuberculosis was soon demonstrated and some of the stone huts remain unfinished.

Q. Who was the first layman to be appointed chancellor in England? T. G. D.

A. In 1529, when Wolsey fell, Sir Thomas Moore succeeded him. The latter was the first layman to enjoy this honor.

Q. Are people more apt to be overcome by heat on a dry day or on a damp day? C. H. M.

A. At the same temperature, moist air is more productive of heat prostration than is dry air.

Q. What are places called where bicycle races are held? C. M.

A. They are known as velodromes.

Q. What is the best kind of wood for fuel? D. W. F.

A. Shell bark hickory ranks first in fuel value, with chestnut, white oak, white ash, and red oak following in the order named.

Q. What is the "apron" on a locomotive? A. R. N.

A. The sheet iron plate covering the space between the locomotive and the tender.

Q. Where is the largest art school in America? M. E. R.

A. The Art Institute, Chicago, has the largest art school in America.

Q. Who were the cliff dwellers? J. W. D.

A. The term "cliff dwellers" is used to designate the supposed extinct builders of the numerous cliff ruins scattered throughout the canons of the southwest, along the upper rivers of the Colorado and Rio Grande, in Utah, Colorado, Arizona and New Mexico. For a long time their origin was a subject of much discussion, but recent investigation has proved that these ruins are not the work of any extinct race, but were built by the immediate ancestors of the modern Pueblo Indians, some of whom, notably the Hopi, still have their villages on the summits of almost inaccessible mesas. Evidences of cliff dwellers have also been found in various parts of Europe, having existed during an early period in the history of men.

Q. Where is Moraine Park? B. E. C.

A. The National Conference on State Parks says that Moraine is a proposed state park in eastern Wisconsin and is known as Kettle Moraine park.

Q. What states have school ships? C. V. G.

A. Three states have school ships. They are Pennsylvania, New York and Massachusetts.

WHITE HOUSE IS DOLLED UP FOR COOLIDGES

President and Wife Will Find Spic and Span Home.

WORKMEN BUSY

Small Army on Job Makes Structure Glisten.

WASHINGTON.—President and Mrs. Coolidge will return from their summer vacation to a spic and span White House.

A small army of workmen has improved the president's absence by renovating the big structure inside and out. Indeed, their work is so thorough that Washington wags are asking if the president's first speech on his return won't be a lecture on economy to the custodians of his residence.

Three coats of white paint will make the building glisten in the bright morning sun. The great East Room, scene of the brilliant functions of state, is also being painted, the first time in twelve years. The house keeper's quarter's are being renovated for the first times since 1902.

Much to Be Done.

The more workmen explore the White House the more things they find to do, and if the president remains away long enough he may find his economy program in great danger. For all presidents have been personally economical. They may have approved appropriations for rivers and harbors in creeks that go dry in the summer, but they have hesitated to let those in charge of public buildings spend much money on the White House.

An ordinary crushed stone roadway leads up to the entrance of the White House through a beautiful and spacious yard filled with flowers and trees. More than once dust rolled up by automobiles has poured in through open windows. Now, six thousand dollars is being spent on a new roadway, one that experts say will be dustless and withstand the summer heat.

New Electric Elevator.

A new electric elevator is being installed, to replace the automatic one that is said to have stopped any place from the basement to the roof, sometimes under most embarrassing circumstances.

An elaborate refrigerating plan that will supply ice and cool the entire building is being installed.

The roof, which army engineers say may fall in some day, is not being touched and won't until the president is ready to find another place to live for several months. The White House, being old, is peculiarly constructed. The entire top floor is said to be suspended from the roof, so that when the roof is repaired the floor will have to be torn down.

What if you had to wait as long for the doctor to come as he has to wait for his money?—Zanesville Signal.

WHITE HOUSE IS DOLLED UP FOR COOLIDGES

WORKMEN BUSY

Small Army on Job Makes Structure Glisten.

WASHINGTON.—President and Mrs. Coolidge will return from their summer vacation to a spic and span White House.

A small army of workmen has improved the president's absence by renovating the big structure inside and out. Indeed, their work is so thorough that Washington wags are asking if the president's first speech on his return won't be a lecture on economy to the custodians of his residence.

Three coats of white paint will make the building glisten in the bright morning sun. The great East Room, scene of the brilliant functions of state, is also being painted, the first time in twelve years. The house keeper's quarter's are being renovated for the first times since 1902.

Much to Be Done.

The more workmen explore the White House the more things they find to do, and if the president remains away long enough he may find his economy program in great danger. For all presidents have been personally economica. They may have approved appropriations for rivers and harbors in creeks that go dry in the summer, but they have hesitated to let those in charge of public buildings spend much money on the White House.

An ordinary crushed stone roadway leads up to the entrance of the White House through a beautiful and spacious yard filled with flowers and trees. More than once dust filled up by automobiles has poured in through open windows. Now, six thousand dollars is being spent on a new roadway, one that experts say will be dustless and withstand the summer heat.

New Electric Elevator.

A new electric elevator is being installed, to replace the automatic one that is said to have stopped any place from the basement to the roof, sometimes under most embarrassing circumstances.

An elaborate refrigerating plant that will supply ice and cool the entire building is being installed.

The roof, which army engineers say may fall in some day, is not being touched and won't until the president is ready to find another place to live for several months. The White House, being old, is peculiarly constructed. The entire top floor is said to be suspended from the roof, so that when the roof is repaired the floor will have to be torn down.

What if you had to wait as long for the doctor to come as he has to wait for his money?—Zanesville Signal.

300 BALLOTS CAST AT NOON

Battle for Two County Offices Expected to Bring Out Vote.

Approximately 300 ballots had been cast at noon here today in the primary election in which county officers will be named in addition to candidates for congress and state senate. Electors of the Rock Springs park precinct are also balloting on the proposed bond issue of $75,000 for the erection of a new school building in Newell.

Voters are chiefly interested in the contests for county clerk between Robert R. Hobbs and James Gracie and N. W. Ballantyne and M. N. Price for county commissioner. The above candidates made a complete canvass of the county.

Congressman Carl Bachman, of Wheeling, seeking renomination, is pitted against Ben L. Rosenbloom, former representative in congress, while State Senator Wright Hugus has opposition in George C. Beneke and George H. Miller.

Light Democratic vote is predicted as there is no opposition for county offices. Edmund M. Conaway and George W. Oldham, are in the field for the nomination for congress, while Samuel P. Christian and Robert D. Frame, are opponents for state senator of the minority party.

OFFICERS RAID FISHING CAMP

A fishing camp along the Ohio river, at East Steubenville, W. Va., said to have been a rendezvous for Steubenville miscreants for some weeks was cleaned out last evening by a squad of Brooke county officials.

Seven prisoners, including one woman and the proprietor, were arrested, charged with being drunk and disorderly, and incarcerated in the Brooke county jail, to await preliminary hearing.

Those arrested were Jane Brown, Tom Stafford, proprietor; Andy Sortis, Jabby White, Pat Flemer and Mike Smith.

The raid came as the result of a long series of complaints from people living near East Steubenville who had observed activities at the camp for some time.

Auto Traffic Heavy.

Automobile traffic was heavy yesterday over the improved road between Hookstown and Laughlin's corner. The highway was thrown open to traffic Saturday.

EARLY HISTORY OF PALESTINE IS UNCOVERED

Explorers Dig Up Complete Story of Old Lands.

DR. KYLE WRITES

Ancient Fenced City is Believed That of Judah.

ST. LOUIS.—The most complete unbroken history of civilization in Palestine revealed by any city of the land yet uncovered—a history that reached before 200 B. C.— was unearthed by explorers last April and May, according to an interesting letter just received here from Dr. M. G. Kyle, president of the Xenia Theological Seminary, who assisted in the research work.

Dr. Kyle, who will return to the United States soon, was aided in his explorations by the American School of Oriental Research at Jerusalem. His letter tells of the finding of great quantities of ancient pottery and the discovery of quaint gates and an ingenious water supply system in the ancient city of the Canaanites and Israelites.

Fenced City of Judah.

"The site selected as that of the ancient 'fenced city, Kirjath Sepher, proved beyond cavil to be that greatest 'fenced city of Judah,' and the last to fall before the 'whole army of Joshua," the letter recites.

"There are eleven points, requirements indeed, which the identification of this city at any place must meet, five archaelogical and six topographical. Tell Beit Mirsim, the site selected as Kirjah Sepher, satisfies completely each one of these eleven requirements and there is no other ruin that satisfactorily meets even one of these eleven. Daherjeh, the place marked on maps of Palestine as Kirjath Sepher, has nothing whatever to commend it, except that it is a convenient place for travelers to visit.

"The item in the identification of Tell Beit Mirsim as Kirjath Sepher that is most interesting to the public is that the two wells, the 'upper spring and the nether spring' mentioned in Joshua (15:18-19) are here and unmistakable. Their age can only be reckoned by milleniums. Six successive curbs have been put around these wells, each in turn worn into deep grooves by the running the the ropes in drawing water; these grooves in hard limestone are sometimes three or four inches deep.

Beautiful Pottery.

"But what makes this place so interesting even when identified? It was a typical 'fenced city' of the old Canaanites and of the Israelites—and in such a complete state of preservation that it is possible to see, by clearing away the rubbish, exactly what the walls and the gateway were like.

"The city crowns a conical, isolated hill that seems as if it had been dropped down in the midst of a valley. The wall sloping in the lower part and with perpendicular parapet, still stands about thirty feet high, though the parapet has been almost wholly thrown down; so that with the parapet the whole wall must have been between forty and fifty feet in height."

COUNCIL HOLDS REGULAR MEET

Council met in regular session last night in the municipal building.

Principal business transacted was authorization of the legislation necessary for the improvement of Carolina avenue. The plan is to improve the street by concrete with a brick base.

It was announced that a bond issue of approximately $125,000 to cover the cost of the work would be submitted to the voters at the election in November.

EAST LIVERPOOL—AMERICA'S POTTERY CENTER

TUESDAY, AUGUST 3, 1926.

Are You Registered?

With the Republican and Democratic primaries but one week distant, East Liverpool voters should ask themselves "Am I registered?"

In order to vote for candidates for state, district and county nominations and pass judgment on a proposed constitutional amendment relative to the assessment of the cost of public improvements, electors in registration cities must be enrolled.

If a voter qualified at the quadrennial enrollment preceding the presidential election in 1924, or at a subsequent registration, he is entitled to the suffrage privilege at the primaries. Otherwise, he must register on one of the two days designated for this purpose.

Friday and Saturday are registration days. From 9 A. M. to 8 P. M. and 5 to 10 P. M. on each day, registrars will be on duty in the city's 21 precincts to enroll electors and issue transfers. Transfers, too, will be granted from 5 to 9 P. M. on Monday, August 9.

Don't disfranchise yourself by neglecting to register.

Prosperous Canada

Canada is evidently thriving. Figures from Ottawa say that the Dominion now has "the largest favorable per capita trade balance in the world."

No wonder Canadian money is at par, or higher—the only money this is sometimes worth more in exchange than our own.

Canada is doing a heap of business, by the way, with the United States. For the year ending with last March it amounted, incoming and outgoing, to $1,095,000,000, an increase of $158,000,000 over the previous year.

Canada's trade with this country, as it happens, is not "favorable" to her in the usually accepted sense. She bought from us this last year $100,000,000 worth of goods more than she sold us. Canada is out best customer outside of Great Britain. Yet Uncle Sam is a pretty good customer for Canada, too. We bought $485,000,000 worth of stuff from her during the 12 months ending with March.

Counting the millions that Americans spend in Canada, our good northern neighbor probably does better than an even break with us in the matter of trade. Which is an additional reason why the American tourist in Toronto or Quebec is occasionally amazed to find that his dollar is only worth about 98 cents.

Dickens Still Read

The works of Charles Dickens, says The Publisher's Weekly, are more widely read than those of Thackeray, Eliot and Scott put together.

Perhaps the most interesting thing about that bit of news is the apparent fact that those authors are still read. One gets the impression from most current book news and from browsing in book stores that those four literary lights are regarded as antiquated and not worth the time that might be spent on Sherwood Anderson, Theodore Dreiser and the rest of the present-day fashionable ones.

Yet they still have readers. That should inspire current writers. If their works are as good as Dickens', Thackeray's, Eliot's and Scott's, they'll still have readers, too, when they are the old-timers and a new crop of fiction is the rage.

In The Swim at 87

An 87-year-old French woman recently won an endurance contest in swimming. It was during an unduly hot spell when a group of women decided to go in bathing to cool off and incidentally organized some water contests. The aged swimmer who won the endurance test by swimming for an hour, finished her swim without any sign of fatigue.

She told interested spectators later that she had begun swimming at the age of four and was at one time a champion swimmer. At about 67 years she had given up the pastime, but is now tempted to resume it, at least during warm spells.

How many other octogenarians who gave up swimming 20 or more years ago could plunge into the water and duplicate this swimmer's record? Perhaps not a great many, yet at the rate grandparents are retaining their youth and youthful interests, it is likely to become more rather than less common.

The Popular Shade

You may not believe it, but the black stockings still outnumber those of any other color.

Rayon (artificial silk) manufacturers report that black leads white, champagne, atmosphere, grain, French nude, flesh, peach, dove gray and moonlight in popularity. The approach of autumn should further stimulate production and purchase of the more sedate color.

Information on men's socks is lacking, but nobody cares, anyhow. Black has always been preferred by the men folk, and the individual with a flair for the passionate in socks is rare indeed.

Moreover, men's hose were made to be worn, and darned, rather than to be seen, and that makes all the difference in the world.

NO TEMPORIZING WITH SEEMING DISCREPANCIES.

Before leaving his country home on Long Island for New York one morning an actor of convivial habits made his wife a solemn promise that under no circumstances would he suffer himself to be tempted into touching strong drink during his day in the city. He was due home at 6 o'clock. It was nearly seven when he appeared in the distance and it was plain that he was having difficulty in navigating.

His wife, burning with indignation, met him at the foot of the porch steps.

"Bob," she snapped, "you broke your word to me—you've been drinking."

"Dearie," he stated, with an earnestness marred only by a slight thickness of speech, "I am not going to lie to you—I have indeed been drinking. But wait, until you hear the reason why I have been drinking and then, dearie, you will understand all.

"I kept my pledge in town—all day I kept it. This one and that one offered me a drink, but each time I said No. When I got off the train I was sober as a judge. But on the way home I passed Joe Page's house and he called me in and told me a most terrible story. He and his wife have had a terrible quarrel and she's left him and gone to her people. He was desperate—heartbroken, half crazy, all that sort of thing. He was actually threatening to commit suicide.

"As a friend I went in with him to try and calm him and then nothing would do but that I should take a drink with him. He said if I drank with him it might help to make him forget for a little while the shipwreck of all his happiness. What could I do, dearie? It was an emergency—I had to so something for poor old Joe Page if I could. So I drank with him. Then he insisted that I should drink some more with him. And I did. Finally I got him quieted down and now he's gone to bed. And here I am, dearie, slightly under the influence of liquor I admit, but I have probably haved a human life."

Tears overcame him; he sobbed and wiped his eyes.

'Is' that so?" stated his wife in cold and unmoved accents. "Well, would you alter your statement any if I told you that the Pages are over here for dinner and are in the house now, perfectly normal and happy except that they are somewhat annoyed at having had to wait nearly an hour for you to get here?"

"Madam," he answered firmly, "that's my story and I'm going to stick to it!.'

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY
By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—Last night I watched the odd assortment of humans who collect in a cafe in Greenwich Village catering to attic art. They are ludicrous in their posing, and yet no group to me inspires such undercurrent of sympathy for wasted lives.

For indeed many of these young men and women have a natural gift for the arts. They came to New York mostly from small towns bursting with ambition and were lulled by the false glamour of a catch-penny existence. They saw the easy life of fake martyrs to art.

These are those unwashed souls who pose as starving for an ideal when they are in reality impecunious beggars who have not touched a pen, paint brush or bit of clay in years. They have drifted into a life that may be lived without toil.

For a few dollars a week, borrowed here and there from sympathetic listeners, they exist. Their simulation of artistic endeavor lifts them above their real status of stationary hoboes. And so they grow long hair, don wide Latin Quarter hats and smocks and laze through life.

There was the gray-haired woman coiffured into a masculine bob in a mannish garb of tweeds and with pince-nez. A sallow youth with goatee—not more than 23—who wore a heavy gold bracelet. A girl with heavily kohled eyes in a flaming red sweater, and who for no obvious reason carried a riding crop.

There were those in velvet tams—sighing for European places they knew only by reputation. Youths in wide pants—artists for the evening—who would punch department store time clocks next morning. A weather-beaten old fellow who had actually done notable work, but preferred to cast his lot with the salamanders.

Most of them had arisen as the sun went down and would spend the night in the heavy pall of blue smoke, discussing outlandish isms and cosmic urges. The next day they would repeat the formula and it would be difficult to convince one of them that this was not life with a glittering capital "L."

A city can hide a chronic loafer, and indeed at times give him an air of importance he can never hope to achieve in a smaller community. A loafer is tagged over night in a country town. In New York are numerous nimble-witted men who haven't worked for years. They are known as being "in Wall street" or following some other vague pursuits, and there are no questions. The city is too big to notice affairs of an individual.

Many of us secretly admire the successful loafer. I think of one who has not worked to my certain knowledge for ten years. He is not a remittance man, yet wears good clothes, seems to have spending money, and his habits appear above the average. If he is unhappy he does not show it, and he is the sort people enjoy having around. I once asked him his business of profession and he, smiling enigmatically, replied "That worries a lot of people," and changed the subject.

Laziness, it would apear, is about the easiest of all vices to acquire. Sociologists who try to learn the underlying causes of poverty among able-bodied men, say that once a lazy man learns he can exist for six months without work he rarely wants to work again. He becomes a useless member of society and reformation is almost hopeless.

And then there is the really industrious editor in New York who has unique ideas regarding the folly of thrift. He has figures to show the large majority of thrifty eventually have their money taken from them in wild-cat schemes. Yet this editor remains thrifty. There's a lot of fun saving, even if they do take it away from us.

HASKIN'S LETTER
By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

The Home of Jefferson—I.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 3.—With improved highways and hotels, the intelligent activities of the association in charge of the property, and the interest awakened by the sesquicentennial year of the Declaration of Independence, the old Virginia home of Thomas Jefferson has suddenly become a shrine of American pilgrimages which have come to exceed 40,000 per year. Monticello, alone and serene on its mountain top near Charlottesville, had not one tenth as many visitors even ten years ago.

It has happened that Virginia awakened to the need of good roads at just the time the nation discovered in Monticello one of the remarkable and completely preserved memorials of the birth of the United States. Hence the Jefferson shrine, long a most isolated spot, is now just a delightful little motor trip from Washington, and somewhat more accessible from Richmond, while Baltimore and even Philadelphia are considered bases from which to start expeditions to the home of the Declaration's author. The journey to Monticello from any of these cities necessarily lies through lands of great historic interest, battlefields of the Revolution and the Civil War, and past the homes or birthplaces of famous Americans.

From Washington, which is the greatest center of pilgrimages to Monticello, three chief routes are offered, with numerous variations over part of the way. One is via Fredericksburg, Va., and the Chancellorsville and Wilderness battlefields. Another is via Fairfax, Manassas, Bull Run, Warranton, Culpeper, and Orange.

The third is via the Shenandoah Valley, and while it is the longest route it is usually followed for either the going or return trip, as it leads through three states in a day's motoring and passes the scenes of Jubal Early's raids, Frederick, Maryland, the Barbara Fretchie town, Harpers Ferry and Charlestown, West Virginia, where John Brown was captured and where he was tried and hanged, and Winchester, Virginia, whence Sheridan rode in haste, and along the course of his ride to Cedar Creek battlefield where he stayed the Union retreat and turned the rout into a victory.

A Valley of Battles.

Every town in the Shenandoah Valley from Winchester to Staunton saw battles and skirmishes of Stonewall Jackson's campaigns. At Newmarket many monuments mark the fields of combat. Natural wonders also mark the journey, the famous caverns of Luray and Newmarket among the number. The student of history will also be harking back to the earliest colonial settlements, the Indian wars, and the days when pioneers of this valley trekked westward after Daniel Boone, and men like the grandfather of Abraham Lincoln started from here over the wilderness Trail to Tennessee and Kentucky.

At Staunton many will turn aside a few blocks to see the old manse of the Presbyterian church, where Woodrow Wilson was born. From Staunton the way to Charlottesville lies over the Blue Ridge, where a fine highway winds above the valleys, giving magnificent panoramas of the richest farm lands of old Virginia.

Charlottesville has for years been a thriving city, but the reviving interest in the great founder of American liberties has helped to give it a more modern aspect as better hotels and greatly increased auto traffic have filled its streets with travelers. As the home of the University of Virginia, founded by Jefferson, it has long been an important city in the hearts of Virginians, and as the center of a very rich agricultural region it has enjoyed more or less steady prosperity.

Nowadays it is just a little bit inclined to be booming, and its narrow old business street is too crowded for comfort. At one end of this street starts the road to Monticello, the mountain top which looms up at the point of a spur of the Blue Ridge which has struck off to the east. At the other end are the grounds of the beautiful old University.

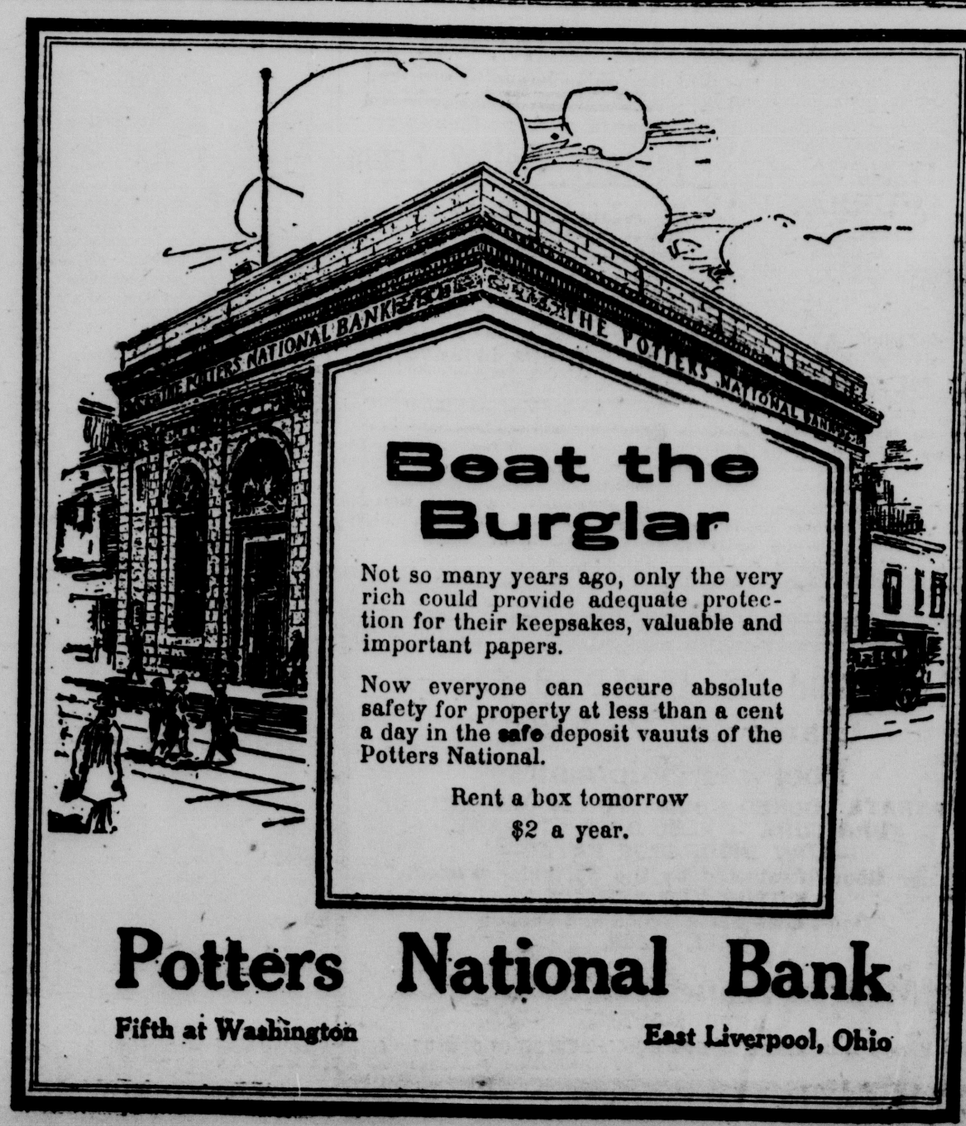

Charlottesville has other claims for fame besides the distinction brought to her by Jefferson. Here were the homes of George Rogers Clark, conqueror of our first Northwest, the territory that is now Ohio and Indiana, Illinois and Michigan, and Wisconsin and Minnesota. From this and other colonial and pioneer towns of western Virginia went out those hardy explorers and settlers of the West, and the fighters who with Clark wrested those lands from the allied enemy, the red coats of Britain and the red skins of the natives, and were the heroes of such tales as have been recorded in "Alice of Old Vincennes." A magnificent statue of Clark stands near the grounds of the University.

Two Other Discoverers Honored.

A few blocks to the east at atriangle of streets is the joint statue of two other great discoverers of the West Meriwether Lewis and William Clark. They were Charlottesville men. Clark was a younger brother of George Rogers Clark. All were friends of Jefferson, and the learning and foresight of the third President which prompted his purchase of the Louisiana Territory was the inspiration of the famous Lewis and Clark journey across the continent to the mouth of the Columbia River in 1804 and 1805. The Lewis and Clark monument portrays the two explorers in the costumes of their day, facing the great West in which they were pioneers.

Charlottesville is full of reminders of the Sage of Monticello, and the routes leading to it from the east and northeast are as abundant in inspiring memories as the Shenandoah high road. From Richmond comes a beautiful, winding, rolling boulevard along the route Jefferson traveled to attend the meetings of the delegates of his colony, and later to take his place as Governor of Virginia. It comes through Shadwell, the birthplace of Jefferson, and passes near the homes

TUESDAY, AUGUST 3, 1926.

Are You Registered?

With the Republican and Democratic primaries but one week distant, East Liverpool voters should ask themselves "Am I registered?"

In order to vote for candidates for state, district and county nominations and pass judgment on a proposed constitutional amendment relative to the assessment of the cost of public improvements, electors in registration cities must be enrolled.

If a voter qualified at the quadrennial enrollment preceding the presidential election in 1924, or at a subsequent registration, he is entitled to the suffrage privilege at the primaries. Otherwise, he must register on one of the two days designated for this purpose.

Friday and Saturday are registration days. From 9 A. M. to 8 P. M. and 5 to 10 P. M. on each day, registrars will be on duty in the city's 21 precincts to enroll electors and issue transfers. Transfers, too, will be granted from 5 to 9 P. M. on Monday, August 9.

Don't disfranchise yourself by neglecting to register.

Prosperous Canada

Canada is evidently thriving. Figures from Ottawa say that the Dominion now has "the largest favorable per capita trade balance in the world."

No wonder Canadian money is at par, or higher—the only money this is sometimes worth more in exchange than our own.

Canada is doing a heap of business, by the way, with the United States. For the year ending with last March it amounted, incoming and outgoing, to $1,095,000,000, an increase of $158,000,000 over the previous year.

Canada's trade with this country, as it happens, is not "favorable" to her in the usually accepted sense. She bought from us this last year $100,000,000 worth of goods more than she sold us. Canada is out best customer outside of Great Britain. Yet Uncle Sam is a pretty good customer for Canada, too. We bought $485,000,000 worth of stuff from her during the 12 months ending with March.

Counting the millions that Americans spend in Canada, our good northern neighbor probably does better than an even break with us in the matter of trade. Which is an additional reason why the American tourist in Toronto or Quebec is occasionally amazed to find that his dollar is only worth about 98 cents.

Dickens Still Read

The works of Charles Dickens, says The Publisher's Weekly, are more widely read than those of Thackeray, Eliot and Scott put together.

Perhaps the most interesting thing about that bit of news is the apparent fact that those authors are still read. One gets the impression from most current book news and from browsing in book stores that those four literary lights are regarded as antiquated and not worth the time that might be spent on Sherwood Anderson, Theodore Dreiser and the rest of the present-day fashionable ones.

Yet they still have readers. That should inspire current writers. If their works are as good as Dickens', Thackeray's, Eliot's and Scott's, they'll still have readers, too, when they are the old-timers and a new crop of fiction is the rage.

In The Swim at 87

An 87-year-old French woman recently won an endurance contest in swimming. It was during an unduly hot spell when a group of women decided to go in bathing to cool off and incidentally organized some water contests. The aged swimmer who won the endurance test by swimming for an hour, finished her swim without any sign of fatigue.

She told interested spectators later that she had begun swimming at the age of four and was at one time a champion swimmer. At about 67 years she had given up the pastime, but is now tempted to resume it, at least during warm spells.

How many other octogenarians who gave up swimming 20 or more years ago could plunge into the water and duplicate this swimmer's record? Perhaps not a great many, yet at the rate grandparents are retaining their youth and youthful interests, it is likely to become more rather than less common.

The Popular Shade

You may not believe it, but the black stockings still outnumber those of any other color.

Rayon (artificial silk) manufacturers report that black leads white, champagne, atmosphere, grain, French nude, flesh, peach, dove gray and moonlight in popularity. The approach of autumn should further stimulate production and purchase of the more sedate color.

Information on men's socks is lacking, but nobody cares, anyhow. Black has always been preferred by the men folk, and the individual with a flair for the passionate in socks is rare indeed.

Moreover, men's hose were made to be worn, and darned, rather than to be seen, and that makes all the difference in the world.

CHAUTAUQUA OPENS MONDAY

Tent Will be Erected at Tenth and Main Streets.

The chautauqua tent will go up on the vacant lot at Tenth and Main streets next Saturday, Paul Harris, advance man for the Redpath bureau, who arrived here yesterday announced today. The program will open Monday and close on the following Sunday.

There will be afternoon and evening attractions each day and morning sessions as well on Tuesday and Wednesday. The afternoon program will start at 3 o'clock, the evening program at 8 and the two morning entertainments at 10:30 o'clock.

The opening feature will be a concert by Harold Lewis and his Symphony Players Monday afternoon. On Monday evening, Lewis will offer an entirely new program, followed by a lecture, "The Modern Tale of Two Cities," by Charles H. Plattenberg.

An entertainment, "Tinkers and Thinkers," will be presented by Sam Grathwell Tuesday morning. Another lecture, "Getting By Your Hoodoo," will be offered by Grathwell Tuesday afternoon. Channing Pollock's drama, "The Fool," will be presented by a group of players as the evening attraction.

"A Message from No. 16542" is the title of a lecture to be delivered by John H. Dickason Wednesday morning. The afternoon program will be in charge of Howard Wade Kinsey, basso and song director, and Lora Orth Kimsey, pianist, followed by a lecture, "Young America at Bat," by Dickason. Another song session, directed by Kimsey, and a discussion "What is Ahead for Europe?" by D. Thomas Curtin, international newspaper correspondent, is scheduled for Wednesday evening.

A musical prelude, "The Poet of the Home" by the Moscow Artists and a lecture, "Everyday Home," by Anne Campbell, noted reader, will be offered Thursday afternoon. The evening attraction will be a scenic production by the Moscow Artists Ensemble, featuring the Russian Balalika quartet and Mlle. Nina Sergeyeva, premier danseuse.

On Friday afternoon a historical junior pageant, "The Quill," will be presented in connection with a dramatic entertainment by Harrison Clofford. The recent comedy success, "Applesauce," in three acts, will be given by a group of five Friday evening.

A musical prelude by the Alpine Yodlers, a special children's entertainment by Al Baker, magician-ventriloquist, assisted by "Dummy Dennis," are on the Saturday afternoon slate. Another scenic production, "Echoes of the Alps" by the Fiechtl Yodlers, with Jost and Wunderle, will be presented Saturday evening.

The Sunday program will be of some semi-sacred form.

ST. ROCCO DAY ACTION EXPECTED

The city solons at their meeting tonight are expected to act upon the request of Italian residents for permission to hold a St. Rocco's day celebration here.

Petitions, urging that council refuse to grant a permit will be received from the congregation of the First Presbyterian church and the Sunday school of the First Methodist Episcopal church. Opposition to the celebration, an annual affair, was voiced at the council meeting two weeks ago, but action was deferred for two weeks.

Under the city code refusal or permission for such celebrations rests in the hands of council. The proposed celebration is to include a fireworks display at Central park and a parade and banquet.

EXHIBIT NEW INTERURBAN CAR

One of the eight new interurban cars purchased by The Stream Line is to be placed on exhibition at the corner of Fifth and Main streets between 6:30 and 7 o'clock tomorrow evening. The public is invited to inspect the car.

The new cars are steel in construction and were built at a cost of approximately $16,000 each. Four of them will be placed in service between Beaver and Steubenville Thursday.

Gleaners' Class Supper.

Members of the Gleaners' class of the First Methodist Episcopal church will hold a coverdish supper at the church at 7:30 o'clock Thursday evening.

CIVIL SERVICE EXAM AUG. 17

The civil service commission has announced an examination for applicants for police and fire department places which will be conducted in the council chamber of the city hall on Tuesday, August 17.

There is one vacancy in the police force, caused by the dismissal of Patrolman Harry Hurd. This place will be filled from one of three eligibles whose names will be filed with Mayor Fogo by the commission following the examination. Applicants may obtain forms from Grattan Dugan, clerk of the commission.

FOGO ASSESSES $300 IN FINES

One Dry Law Case Among Those Heard by Mayor.

Frank Ross, White street and John Peletto will be given hearings before Mayor Wallace Fogo Thursday evening upon charges of assault.

Ross first caused the arrest of Peletto. The latter immediately preferred a similar charge against Ross.

Michale Barnes, of East Liverpool, arrested over the wek-end, charged with the illegal possession of intoxicating liquors, was fined $100.

Mrs. Olive Simmors, who was arrested at her home corner Twelfth and Lisbon streets, charged with maintaining a disorderly house was also assessed $100. Barnes arranged to settle his fine but the woman was remanded to jail.

Fines of $50 and costs each were levied by Mayor Fogo against William Pugh, Pasquale Ramilla and L. Lorenze, who were arrested upon charges of disorderly conduct by fighting at Fifteenth and Center streets Sunday afternoon.

Missionary Society Picnic.

The Home Missionary society of the First Methodist Protestant church will picnic at Hammond park this afternoon and evening. Supper will be served at 6 o'clock.

Exports for the calendar year 1925 amounted to $104,625,291 and imports to $83,840,698.

22,266,387 HORSES IN U. S. PROVE DOBBIN IS STAGING COMEBACK

CHICAGO. — Dobbin is staging "comeback!"

Quoting Wayne Dinsmore, secretary of the Horse Association of America, the survey declared:

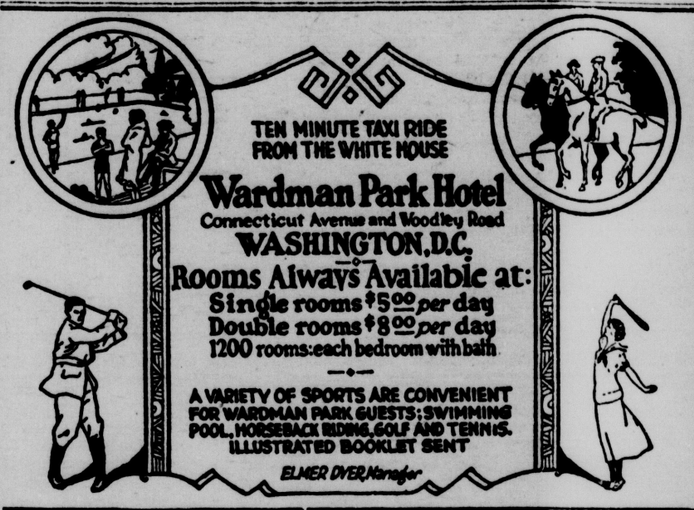

"The motor truck is the only thing on long hauls where speed is essential. But on short hauls, it isn't practical. For the dairy, laundry, bakery and other industries, the horse still is the best means of transportation.

"Speaking of tractors not eating which has to be purchased, at a farm products, they eat something which has to be purchased at a profit, with the fruit of farm labor, gasoline. Oil of course, also has to be supplied.

"Neither have yet been successfully raised on the farm in an available state. But it is easy to grow corn, oats and hay."

A Chicago concern marketing more harness than any other firm in the country reported an increase of 80 per cent in sales for 1925 over those for 1922.

There are 22,266,387 horses in the United States today, the survey disclosed.

CHAUTAUQUA OPENS MONDAY

Tent Will be Erected at Tenth and Main Streets.

The chautauqua tent will go up on the vacant lot at Tenth and Main street next Saturday, Paul Harris, advance man for the Redpath bureau, who arrived here yesterday announced today. The program will open Monday and close on the following Sunday.

There will be afternoon and evening attractions each day and morning sessions as well on Tuesday and Wednesday. The afternoon program will start at 3 o'clock, the evening program at 8 and the two morning entertainments at 10:30 o'clock.

The opening feature will be a concert by Harold Lewis and his Symphony Players Monday afternoon. On Monday evening, Lewis will offer an entirely new program, followed by a lecture, "The Modern Tale of Two Cities," by Charles H. Plattenberg.

An entertainment, "Tinkers and Thinkers," will be presented by Sam Grathwell Tuesday morning. Another lecture, "Getting By Your Hoodoo," will be offered by Grathwell Tuesday afternoon. Channing Pollock's drama, "The Fool," will be presented by a group of players as the evening attraction.

"A Message from No. 16542" is the title of a lecture to be delivered by John H. Dickason Wednesday morning. The afternoon program will be in charge of Howard Wade Kinsey, basso and song director, and Lora Orth Kimsey, pianist, followed by a lecture, "Young America at Bat," by Dickason. Another song session, directed by Kimsey, and a discussion "What is Ahead for Europe?" by D. Thomas Curtin, international newspaper correspondent, is scheduled for Wednesday evening.

A musical prelude, "The Poet of the Home" by the Moscow Artists and a lecture, "Everyday Home," by Anne Campbell, noted reader, will be offered Thursday afternoon. The evening attraction will be a scenic production by the Moscow Artists Ensemble, featuring the Russian Balalika quartet and Mlle. Nina Sergeyeva, premier danseuse.

On Friday afternoon a historical junior pageant, "The Quill," will be presented in connection with a dramatic entertainment by Harrison Clofford. The recent comedy success, "Applesauce," in three acts, will be given by a group of five Friday evening.

A musical prelude by the Alpine Yodlers, a special children's entertainment by Al Baker, magician-ventriloquist, assisted by "Dummy Dennis," are on the Saturday afternoon slate. Another scenic production, "Echoes of the Alps" by the Fiechtl Yodlers, with Jost and Wunderle, will be presented Saturday evening.

The Sunday program will be of some semi-sacred form.

SOCIETY

Principals in Two Weddings Alternate In Attendant Roles

At 9 o'clock this morning in the Methodist Protestant church, Miss Helen Dunn, daughter of Mrs. E. E. Dunn, of Chestnut street, became the bride of Harold Kaufman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kaufman, of Avondale street. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. F. Dimit. Miss Ruth Maloney and George Spratley were the attendants.

The bride was gowned in French blue georgette with hat to match, and carried a bouquet of Ophelia roses, showered with lilies of the valley. Previous to her marriage she was employed in the office of the American Paper Product company. The bridegroom is employed as a machinist by the Patterson Foundry and Machine company.

Following this ceremony the bridal party left for St. John's Lutheran church, where the attendants, Miss Maloney and Mr. Spratley, were united in marriage by Dr. J. G. Reinartz. Mr. and Mrs. Kaufman were the attendants. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Maloney, of Church street, and the bridegroom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Grant Spratley, of East Sixth street.

The bride wore Bois-de-rose flat crepe with hat to match. Her bouquet was made of Ophelia roses and sweetpeas. She has been employed in the office of the Ohio Power company, while the bridegroom is a decorator at the Knowles, Taylor and Knowles pottery.

Immediately following this ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Spratley and Mr. and Mrs. Kaufman left for a honeymoon by motor through Canada.

Wain-Factor Wedding.

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Miss Hilda Wain, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Wain of Wheeling, former residents of Avondale street, and Richard Davis Factor, formerly of Zanesville, now located in Columbus. The bride was a teacher in the local schools.

Mr. and Mrs. Factor are now at home at 48 Seventeenth avenue, Columbus.

Missionary Society Session.

The monthly meeting of the Women's Foreign Missionary society met last evening in the parlors of the First Methodist Episcopal church. Mrs. William Rowe was in charge of the program, and Mrs. Kenney directed the devotionals. Papers were read by Mesdames Frank Small, Barrett and Valentine. An address was given by Miss Martingale, a missionary to Mexico.

Mite boxes were opened.

Golf Tournament for Ladies.

More Lighthouses Sought by Marine Circles in Japan

TOKIO — More and better lighthouses is the cry that has been raised in marine circles in Japan as the result of the wrecking of the Ellerman line freighter City of Naples on Zenisu reef on June 15. Zenisu reef is forty miles from the nearest lighthouse and has been dreaded for years by all coastwise sailormen.

There are only 493 lighthouses along Japan's 1,888 miles of seacoast and many of the existing beacons have not been modernized. Experts declare that at least 1,000 lighthouses are needed to properly safeguard ships traveling along the coast lines.

EAST LIVERPOOL—AMERICA'S POTTERY CENTER

TUESDAY, AUGUST 3, 1926.

Are You Registered?

With the Republican and Democratic primaries but one week distant, East Liverpool voters should ask themselves "Am I registered?"

In order to vote for candidates for state, district and county nominations and pass judgment on a proposed constitutional amendment relative to the assessment of the cost of public improvements, electors in registration cities must be enrolled.

If a voter qualified at the quadrennial enrollment preceding the presidential election in 1924, or at a subsequent registration, he is entitled to the suffrage privilege at the primaries. Otherwise, he must register on one of the two days designated for this purpose.

Friday and Saturday are registration days. From 9 A. M. to 8 P. M. and 5 to 10 P. M. on each day, registrars will be on duty in the city's 21 precincts to enroll electors and issue transfers. Transfers, too, will be granted from 5 to 9 P. M. on Monday, August 9.

Don't disfranchise yourself by neglecting to register.

Prosperous Canada

Canada is evidently thriving. Figures from Ottawa say that the Dominion now has "the largest favorable per capita trade balance in the world."

No wonder Canadian money is at par, or higher—the only money this is sometimes worth more in exchange than our own.

Canada is doing a heap of business, by the way, with the United States. For the year ending with last March it amounted, incoming and outgoing, to $1,095,000,000, an increase of $158,000,000 over the previous year.

Canada's trade with this country, as it happens, is not "favorable" to her in the usually accepted sense. She bought from us this last year $100,000,000 worth of goods more than she sold us. Canada is out best customer outside of Great Britain. Yet Uncle Sam is a pretty good customer for Canada, too. We bought $485,000,000 worth of stuff from her during the 12 months ending with March.

Counting the millions that Americans spend in Canada, our good northern neighbor probably does better than an even break with us in the matter of trade. Which is an additional reason why the American tourist in Toronto or Quebec is occasionally amazed to find that his dollar is only worth about 98 cents.

Dickens Still Read

The works of Charles Dickens, says The Publisher's Weekly, are more widely read than those of Thackeray, Eliot and Scott put together.

Perhaps the most interesting thing about that bit of news is the apparent fact that those authors are still read. One gets the impression from most current book news and from browsing in book stores that those four literary lights are regarded as antiquated and not worth the time that might be spent on Sherwood Anderson, Theodore Dreiser and the rest of the present-day fashionable ones.

Yet they still have readers. That should inspire current writers. If their works are as good as Dickens', Thackeray's, Eliot's and Scott's, they'll still have readers, too, when they are the old-timers and a new crop of fiction is the rage.

In The Swim at 87

An 87-year-old French woman recently won an endurance contest in swimming. It was during an unduly hot spell when a group of women decided to go in bathing to cool off and incidentally organized some water contests. The aged swimmer who won the endurance test by swimming for an hour, finished her swim without any sign of fatigue.

She told interested spectators later that she had begun swimming at the age of four and was at one time a champion swimmer. At about 67 years she had given up the pastime, but is now tempted to resume it, at least during warm spells.

How many other octogenarians who gave up swimming 20 or more years ago could plunge into the water and duplicate this swimmer's record? Perhaps not a great many, yet at the rate grandparents are retaining their youth and youthful interests, it is likely to become more rather than less common.

The Popular Shade

You may not believe it, but the black stockings still outnumber those of any other color.

Rayon (artificial silk) manufacturers report that black leads white, champagne, atmosphere, grain, French nude, flesh, peach, dove gray and moonlight in popularity. The approach of autumn should further stimulate production and purchase of the more sedate color.

Information on men's socks is lacking, but nobody cares, anyhow. Black has always been preferred by the men folk, and the individual with a flair for the passionate in socks is rare indeed.

Moreover, men's hose were made to be worn, and darned, rather than to be seen, and that makes all the difference in the world.

My Favorite Stories
By IRVIN S. COBB

NO TEMPORIZING WITH SEEMING DISCREPANCIES.

Before leaving his country home on Long Island for New York one morning an actor of convivial habits made his wife a solemn promise that under no circumstances would he suffer himself to be tempted into touching strong drink during his day in the city. He was due home at 6 o'clock. It was nearly seven when he appeared in the distance and it was plain that he was having difficulty in navigating.

His wife, burning with indignation, met him at the foot of the porch steps.

"Bob," she snapped, "you broke your word to me—you've been drinking."

"Dearie," he stated, with an earnestness marred only by a slight thickness of speech, "I am not going to lie to you—I have indeed been drinking. But wait, until you hear the reason why I have been drinking and then, dearie, you will understand all.

"I kept my pledge in town—all day I kept it. This one and that one offered me a drink, but each time I said No. When I got off the train I was sober as a judge. But on the way home I passed Joe Page's house and he called me in and told me a most terrible story. He and his wife have had a terrible quarrel and she's left him and gone to her people. He was desperate—heartbroken, half crazy, all that sort of thing. He was actually threatening to commit suicide.

"As a friend I went in with him to try and calm him and then nothing would do but that I should take a drink with him. He said if I drank with him it might help to make him forget for a little while the shipwreck of all his happiness. What could I do, dearie? It was an emergency—I had to so something for poor old Joe Page if I could. So I drank with him. Then he insisted that I should drink some more with him. And I did. Finally I got him quieted down and now he's gone to bed. And here I am, dearie, slightly under the influence of liquor I admit, but I have probably haved a human life."

Tears overcame him; he sobbed and wiped his eyes.

'Is' that so?" stated his wife in cold and unmoved accents. "Well, would you alter your statement any if I told you that the Pages are over here for dinner and are in the house now, perfectly normal and happy except that they are somewhat annoyed at having had to wait nearly an hour for you to get here?"

"Madam," he answered firmly, "that's my story and I'm going to stick to it!.'

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY
By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—Last night I watched the odd assortment of humans who collect in a cafe in Greenwich Village catering to attic art. They are ludicrous in their posing, and yet no group to me inspires such undercurrent of sympathy for wasted lives.

For indeed many of these young men and women have a natural gift for the arts. They came to New York mostly from small towns bursting with ambition and were lulled by the false glamour of a catch-penny existence. They saw the easy life of fake martyrs to art.

These are those unwashed souls who pose as starving for an ideal when they are in reality impecunious beggars who have not touched a pen, paint brush or bit of clay in years. They have drifted into a life that may be lived without toil.

For a few dollars a week, borrowed here and there from sympathetic listeners, they exist. Their simulation of artistic endeavor lifts them above their real status of stationary hoboes. And so they grow long hair, don wide Latin Quarter hats and smocks and laze through life.

There was the gray-haired woman coiffured into a masculine bob in a mannish garb of tweeds and with pince-nez. A sallow youth with goatee—not more than 23—who wore a heavy gold bracelet. A girl with heavily kohled eyes in a flaming red sweater, and who for no obvious reason carried a riding crop.

There were those in velvet tams—sighing for European places they knew only by reputation. Youths in wide pants—artists for the evening—who would punch department store time clocks next morning. A weather-beaten old fellow who had actually done notable work, but preferred to cast his lot with the salamanders.

Most of them had arisen as the sun went down and would spend the night in the heavy pall of blue smoke, discussing outlandish isms and cosmic urges. The next day they would repeat the formula and it would be difficult to convince one of them that this was not life with a glittering capital "L."

A city can hide a chronic loafer, and indeed at times give him an air of importance he can never hope to achieve in a smaller community. A loafer is tagged over night in a country town. In New York are numerous nimble-witted men who haven't worked for years. They are known as being "in Wall street" or following some other vague pursuits, and there are no questions. The city is too big to notice affairs of an individual.

Many of us secretly admire the successful loafer. I think of one who has not worked to my certain knowledge for ten years. He is not a remittance man, yet wears good clothes, seems to have spending money, and his habits appear above the average. If he is unhappy he does not show it, and he is the sort people enjoy having around. I once asked him his business of profession and he, smiling enigmatically, replied "That worries a lot of people," and changed the subject.

Laziness, it would apear, is about the easiest of all vices to acquire. Sociologists who try to learn the underlying causes of poverty among able-bodied men, say that once a lazy man learns he can exist for six months without work he rarely wants to work again. He becomes a useless member of society and reformation is almost hopeless.

And then there is the really industrious editor in New York who has unique ideas regarding the folly of thrift. He has figures to show the large majority of thrifty eventually have their money taken from them in wild-cat schemes. Yet this editor remains thrifty. There's a lot of fun saving, even if they do take it away from us.

HASKIN'S LETTER
By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

The Home of Jefferson—I.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 3.—With improved highways and hotels, the intelligent activities of the association in charge of the property, and the interest awakened by the sesquicentennial year of the Declaration of Independence, the old Virginia home of Thomas Jefferson has suddenly become a shrine of American pilgrimages which have come to exceed 40,000 per year. Monticello, alone and serene on its mountain top near Charlottesville, had not one tenth as many visitors even ten years ago.

It has happened that Virginia awakened to the need of good roads at just the time the nation discovered in Monticello one of the remarkable and completely preserved memorials of the birth of the United States. Hence the Jefferson shrine, long a most isolated spot, is now just a delightful little motor trip from Washington, and somewhat more accessible from Richmond, while Baltimore and even Philadelphia are considered bases from which to start expeditions to the home of the Declaration's author. The journey to Monticello from any of these cities necessarily lies through lands of great historic interest, battlefields of the Revolution and the Civil War, and past the homes or birthplaces of famous Americans.

From Washington, which is the greatest center of pilgrimages to Monticello, three chief routes are offered, with numerous variations over part of the way. One is via Fredericksburg, Va., and the Chancellorsville and Wilderness battlefields. Another is via Fairfax, Manassas, Bull Run, Warranton, Culpeper, and Orange.

The third is via the Shenandoah Valley, and while it is the longest route it is usually followed for either the going or return trip, as it leads through three states in a day's motoring and passes the scenes of Jubal Early's raids, Frederick, Maryland, the Barbara Fretchie town, Harpers Ferry and Charlestown, West Virginia, where John Brown was captured and where he was tried and hanged, and Winchester, Virginia, whence Sheridan rode in haste, and along the course of his ride to Cedar Creek battlefield where he stayed the Union retreat and turned the rout into a victory.

A Valley of Battles.

Every town in the Shenandoah Valley from Winchester to Staunton saw battles and skirmishes of Stonewall Jackson's campaigns. At Newmarket many monuments mark the fields of combat. Natural wonders also mark the journey, the famous caverns of Luray and Newmarket among the number. The student of history will also be harking back to the earliest colonial settlements, the Indian wars, and the days when pioneers of this valley trekked westward after Daniel Boone, and men like the grandfather of Abraham Lincoln started from here over the wilderness Trail to Tennessee and Kentucky.

At Staunton many will turn aside a few blocks to see the old manse of the Presbyterian church, where Woodrow Wilson was born. From Staunton the way to Charlottesville lies over the Blue Ridge, where a fine highway winds above the valleys, giving magnificent panoramas of the richest farm lands of old Virginia.

Charlottesville has for years been a thriving city, but the reviving interest in the great founder of American liberties has helped to give it a more modern aspect as better hotels and greatly increased auto traffic have filled its streets with travelers. As the home of the University of Virginia, founded by Jefferson, it has long been an important city in the hearts of Virginians, and as the center of a very rich agricultural region it has enjoyed more or less steady prosperity.

Nowadays it is just a little bit inclined to be booming, and its narrow old business street is too crowded for comfort. At one end of this street starts the road to Monticello, the mountain top which looms up at the point of a spur of the Blue Ridge which has struck off to the east. At the other end are the grounds of the beautiful old University.

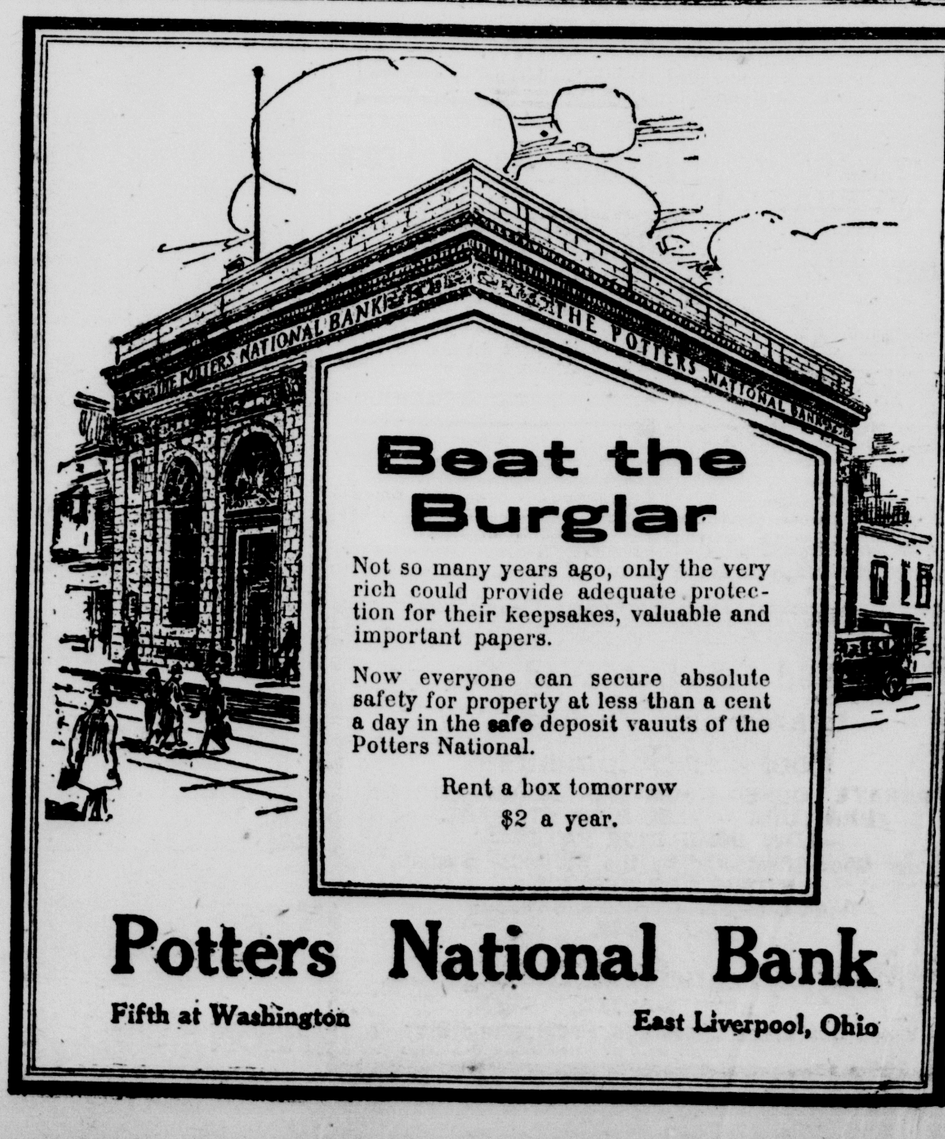

Charlottesville has other claims for fame besides the distinction brought to her by Jefferson. Here were the homes of George Rogers Clark, conqueror of our first Northwest, the territory that is now Ohio and Indiana, Illinois and Michigan, and Wisconsin and Minnesota. From this and other colonial and pioneer towns of western Virginia went out those hardy explorers and settlers of the West, and the fighters who with Clark wrested those lands from the allied enemy, the red coats of Britain and the red skins of the natives, and were the heroes of such tales as have been recorded in "Alice of Old Vincennes." A magnificent statue of Clark stands near the grounds of the University.

Two Other Discoverers Honored.

A few blocks to the east at atriangle of streets is the joint statue of two other great discoverers of the West Meriwether Lewis and William Clark. They were Charlottesville men. Clark was a younger brother of George Rogers Clark. All were friends of Jefferson, and the learning and foresight of the third President which prompted his purchase of the Louisiana Territory was the inspiration of the famous Lewis and Clark journey across the continent to the mouth of the Columbia River in 1804 and 1805. The Lewis and Clark monument portrays the two explorers in the costumes of their day, facing the great West in which they were pioneers.

Charlottesville is full of reminders of the Sage of Monticello, and the routes leading to it from the east and northeast are as abundant in inspiring memories as the Shenandoah highroad. From Richmond comes a beautiful, winding, rolling boulevard along the route Jefferson traveled to attend the meetings of the delegates of his colony, and later to take his place as Governor of Virginia. It comes through Shadwell, the birthplace of Jefferson, and passes near the homes

JACK WALTON SEEKS TOGA IN OKLAHOMA RACE

Former Governor Before Voters in Democratic Primary.

FIVE IN FIGHT

Eighteen Candidates in Contest for Governorship.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 3.—J. C. (Iron Jack) Walton, former governor and commander-in-chief of all Oklahoma's military and civil forces, came back before the voters of his state today in an effort to gain the Democratic nomination for United States senate, an honor which he had two years ago but met defeat overwhelmingly by E. B. Pine, Republican.

The "iron man,' who in 1923, put the whole of Oklahoma under martial law, called out the national guard, asked for 75,000 volunteers, kept a legislature from meeting by force of arms, appointed "22,000 minute men" to stop an election and numerous other precedents in a "war against the invisible government of the Ku Klux Klan" and was later impeached, this time opposes four other contestants, one a woman senator who voted to impeach him.

"The klan must die," is the former governor's campaign slogan. He charged throughout his campaign the state of Oklahoma "still was ruled by that invisible hand that threw me out of office" and promised to carry the fight to the United States senate if elected.

Elmer Thomas, former congressman; W. A. Ledbetter, former Muskogee peace office; Mrs. Lamar Looney, state senator, and M. L. Misherheimer are the candidates opposing him.

Republican candidates for senatorial race nomination are: J. W. Harreld, incumbent; John W. Buckles, Joe C. Fox, B. G. Bingham, U. S. Stone, Preston Ashing and D. Lafe Hubler.

Second in interest to the senatorial campaign is the gubernatorial race. There are 18 candidates running for the seat of Governor M. E. Trapp, recently held ineligible to succeed himself by the State Supreme court. They are: J. B. A. Robertson, former Governor; W. M. Darnell, Frank F. Davis, John R. Clarke, T. H. Wren, O. A. Cargill, Henry S. Johnson, Porter N. McCallum, J. Anderson and William M. Franklin.

Democrats: James Hepburn, Omer K. Benowot, Henry L. Clouck, George Hialy, W. J. Otjen, James Harris, Edward D. Evans and John Gleiber.

Expect Light Vote in Kansas.

TOPEKA, Kans., Aug. 3.— Kansas primaries opened today with weather throughout the state cool and cloudy and no exceptionally heavy vote expected.

The Democratic voters will chose between ex-Governor Jonathan M. Davis, recently acquitted on charges of selling a pardon while in office, and Donald Muir, for the gubernatorial nomination. Golden B. Davis opposes Governor Ben S. Paulen, who is trying for the Republican nomination to succeed himself. Senator Charles Curtis, Republican floor leader, seeks renomination against a negro, Nick Chiles, of Topeka.

Primary in Missouri.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Aug. 3.—Missouri today was holding its primary, which was to determine the party nominees for United States senate, congress and a few state officers.

In the Democratic senatorial race, Congressman Harry B. Hawes, a wet, entered for both long and short terms, was opposed by two drys, Judge Cockrell of Warrensburg, running against him for the long term nomination, and W. H. Meredith, of Poplar Bluff, for the short term. Robert I. Young, St. Joseph, A fourth candidate, favored modification of the dry act.

In the Republican contest, David M. Proctor of Kansas City, a dry, was running against Senator George M. Williams, a neutral on the dry issue, who seeks re-election. Blodgett Priest of St. Louis was a wet.

New York Girl

the tide at her back, attempting the long roundabout course which had been found the most feasible method by the five successful channel swimmers in the past.

The twentieth hour found her using a slow, weary overhand stroke still two miles from her goal.

Miss Barrett started strongly using a powerful breast stroke. At 1 o'clock, five hours after starting, she had changed to a fast crawl and reached a point 10 miles off the French coast —an astonishing speed average. In this time she had covered as much distance as Norman Berham, the British swimmer, had in 12 hours before he was forced to abandon the struggle.

Farstad Fails Second Time.

CAPE GRIS NEZ, Aug. 3. — Olaf Farstad met defeat at the hands of the English channel today, for the second time in 10 days.

Farstad was forced to give up his attempt to swim the channel at 1 o'clock this afternoon, after having been in the water for nine hours and twenty-nine minutes.

Heavy seas and a driving rain made it impossible for the Oslo policeman to continue his courageous effort.

Farstad's failure today is the third victory for the channel in 36 hours, Clarabelle Barrett of New York and Dr. George Brewster of London having been forced to abandon their attempts which they started yesterday.

Asa Yoleson, or Al Jolson, Divorced By Ethel Delmar

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—A Paris dispatch yesterday stating that Asa Yoleson had been divorced by Alma Osborne Yoleson didn't attract any notice along Broadway but when the news came out today that Asa Yoelson is none other than Al Jolson of "Mammy" fame Broadway sat up.

On the stage Mrs. Jolson before her marriage was known as Ethel Delmar. Friends had heard reports of differences between the couple but none believed divorce was planned.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—General Motors was the central figure of a raging stock market in the first hour of trading today. Stimulated by the reported decline of $19,000,000 in brokers' loans and the wide publicity given to the Cochran interview, outside speculative points poured in buying orders for the stock on a tidal wave of advancing prices.

Again the ticker service proceeded to be inadequate as the volume of trading expanded and the price advanced another 10 points to 211¼ in the first half hour.

The speculative fever spread to the industrial stocks, the low priced motor shares and the oils, the latter responding to the excellent earnings statement issued by Sinclair Consolidated, showing a gain of 65 per cent in earnings as compared with the same period last year. Yellow Truck, affiliated with General Motors, sold up to 36 for a gain of 10 points from Monday's low, while White Motors, Willys Overland, Packard, Hudson and Nash advanced from 1 to 2½ points in an unusually heavy turnover. DuPont jumped seven points to 295.

United States Steel then commanded attention, with its brisk run-up to 149½, duplicating its former high record price, and finally passing that milestone when 1,400 shares of the stock sold at 149½. Independent steels were quiet, as also were the rails, equipments, mercantile shares and utilities.

MEXICO-CHURCH DEADLOCK IS TIGHTER TODAY

Police Guards are Withdrawn From Houses of Worship.

CHURCHES OPEN

Renew Efforts Made to Bring About Peace.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 3.—The deadlock between the Mexican government and the Catholic church today seemed tighter than ever, but the tensity of the situation appears to have been somewhat relieved.

Police guards have been withdrawn from the churches in many places, and additional military stationed in the streets have returned to their barracks.

The control of the churches has passed into the hands of municipal committees in almost every district of Mexico, and they have been opened again for services conducted by lay-readers.

Thus far the economic boycott put into effect by the Catholics, has not resulted in any general tie-up of business.

Although the early peace overtures have been rejected by the government, as exclusively announced by the International News Service yesterday, it is learned that renewed efforts are being made to bring about some sort of an accord.

Calles Stands Pat.

President Calles stands pat in his insistence that the laws must be administered in full force, and at present it is difficult to see how a compromise can be reached that will not be a back-down for one side or the other.

Archbishop Jose Maria y Del Rio, head of the Catholic church in Mexico, is still occupying his private offices, and while refraining from all church services it is understood that he continues to function in connection with secular business of the church.

The archbishop today received the correspondent of the International News Service and requested that American people, both Catholics and Protestants, be thanked on his behalf for "their manifest sympathy for the Catholic church in Mexico during the present trials."

The alleged plot against the life of President Calles appears now to have been thoroughly squelched with the arrest of seven more alleged plotters, thus making a total of 15 in jail for this conspiracy. The police are on the alert for other plots of this sort, but it is believed that the order which has prevailed is indicative of an intent by the people in general, except for a handful of fanatics perhaps, to leave the working out of this difficult situation to the recognized leaders of the government and the church.

Catholic leaders point to the order which has prevailed as evidence of their intent to pursue only peaceful measures in carrying on their struggle.

American Episcopal Church Seized.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—The state department today made public the report of Alexander W Weddell, consul general at Mexico City, on the seizure by police last Saturday of the church of England at San Jose in Mexico City. The church is owned by the American Episcopal church.

Police stated that the church was seized because the church officers had not made proper reports to the authorities. It is believed that the differences will be settled in Mexico City without resort to diplomatic exchanges between Mexico and the United States.

FINED $25, THEN GOES TO JAIL

F. W. McLaughlin is Found Guilty of Reckless Driving.

F. W. McLaughlin, Seventh street, was fined $25 and costs and committed to jail until the fine and costs are paid when he was found guilty by Municipal Judge J. C. Hanley today upon a charge of fast and reckless driving in connection with an automobile crash on Pennsylvania avenue about two weeks ago. He was arrested upon information of William Finley, Bradshaw avenue, who charged that McLaughlin, after sideswiping his car failed to stop. McLaughlin entered a plea of not guilty when arraigned last Saturday.

Upon recommendation of Solicitor Frank Hoover, Fred C. Million, who was arrested by Patrolman Roth in Diamond alley Sunday, charged with the illegal possession of intoxicating liquors, was dismissed by Judge Hanley for the lack of evidence. Million was charged with having been the owner of eight half pints of moonshine whisky found by the patrolman in a sewer.

James Anas, arrested by Patrolman James Haley Saturday night, on a charge of having a gambling device in his possession, forfeited his bond of $55.80 when he failed to appear for a hearing. Anas is said to have had a book of baseball pool tickets when apprehended.

and it was no more monarchial than the fine private cars in which the late J. Pierpont Morgan carried bishops and distinguished laymen to a gathering of the Episcopalian church.

THE UNIMPORTANT opinion of this writer is that President Coolidge will be renominated and re-elected. If anything could interfere with that programme it would be a series of foolish attacks on Governor Smith because of his religion. You will not find Calvin Coolidge making or instigating such attacks. He also knows politics.

TWENTY PASSENGER airplanes are employed between London and Paris, carrying more than 400 passengers a day. Only seventeen years ago the first flight was made across the English Channel. This country, which invented the flying machine, is slow to use it. The chief hope is in the Fords, father and son, who have the ability and the money. In Europe the government helps such important developments.

MR. FOKKER. European genius, who built the ship on which Commander Byrd flew over the North Pole, is in this country, and could put the United States ahead on commercial and other aviation if the government would give him backing.

THERE are serious conditions in Mexica, business is injured by the boycott instituted by Catholics, a few are killed, many injured and arrested in riots. Military guards and police are stoned at some of the churches, women leading the attacks. The world sees in Mexico what has always happened in quarrels based on religion.

PRESIDENT CALLES issues a statement accusing the Catholic archbishops and bishops of abandoning their only field of action, the conscience of the Catholic, to invade the field of politics and of government and provoke movements of disorder and incite, secretly or openly, to rebellion.

CATHOLIC authorities accuse Presendent Calles of seeking to destroy the church and take its property.

President Calles replies that the Catholic church would usurp the powers of government and says the issue in Mexico is government of the country by Catholic bishops and others appointed abroad, or government by public officials elected in Mexico.

It is not a pleasant fight.

forming southwest of here in the neighborhood where the slain girl's father worked. Sheriff Marquard sent deputies to the scene of the reported gathering but they reported no sign of the mob.

Extra guards were stationed about the jail. The crowd, although sentiment ran high, showed no disposition of disorder, and shortly after midnight began dispersing. A few lingered all night, but it was a curious gathering.

Pleaded Guilty.

Thompson pleaded guilty yesterday when arraigned before Mayor Heaton and was bound over to the grand jury without bail. He admitted, it was said, having served a term in the Kansas state prison for assaulting a woman. He is a widower and has five children.

Thompson was not removed from the county jail here during the night. The sheriff declined to say where the prisoner was, leading to rumors that he had been spirited away.

COLUMBUS, O., August 3.—National guardsmen will not be sent to Coshocton where it was feared last night a mob would storm the jail for Robert Thompson, confessed slayer of a 10-year-old girl, James Huffman, executive clerk to Gov. Donahey, said today.

Huffman received a call from the Coshocton county sheriff detailing the situation last night. The call was referred to General Henderson, of the National Guard at Camp Perry, but no orders were issued for mobilization for immediate call.

Suspected of Double Slaying.

STEUBENVILLE, O., Aug. 3.—Robert Thompson, 54, known as a roving farm hand who confessed to killing a 10-year-old girl near Coshocton and who is now in the Coshocton county jail, may be the farm hand last in the employe of Robert and Nettie Herron, of Two Bridges, near here, both of whom were mysteriously slain last March 2, local authorities believed today.

Prosecutor Roy Merryman said that his office was checking up on Thompson and that nothing would be left undone to bring to justice the person who committed the worst double crime in the county's history.

City Solicitor C. L. Williams, who defended and secured the acquittal of John Cook, a negro, tried for the murder of Nettie Herron, went to Coshocton yesterday. He was accompanied by Thomas J. Dignan.

"We have always maintained that a white farm hand, a man of Thompson's age and description, committed the Herron murders," Williams said.

Cook is now in jail here awaiting trial on an indictment charging him with the murder of Robert Herron.

The Herrons, brother and sister, were slain while at work on their farm. Robert was killed by a blow from a mattox while Nettie, after being ravaged, was hanged from the ceiling.

Boy is Injured.

Merle, six-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Reese, Canons Mills, suffered a badly lacerated right foot yesterday when it was caught in a lawn mower which he was pushing. The lad was brought to the City hospital where the injury was dressed by Dr. W. A. Hobbs.

Fifteen "Gas Hawks" Nabbed

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 3.—Fifteen mashers were scheduled to appear in police court today as the result of an energetic drive by police last night against the so-called "gas-hawks." Most of them were nabbed on the east side.

FIND WITNESS TO DEATH PLOT

New Sensation in Hall-Mills Murder Investigation.

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Aug. 3.—A witness, who lurked in the shadows of the Phillips farm, and saw the Rev. Edward W. Hall, and Mrs. Eleanor R. Mills, his choir-singer, shot to death four years ago, has been found by investigators and is ready to tell the story of the killing.

This was today's sensation in the renewed investigation of the crime.

The eye-witness, whose name has been carefully guarded, already has given information to Gov. Moore, State Senator Alexander Simpson, special prosecutor, announced, and the story is said virtually to substantiate that of Mrs. Jane Gibson, the "pig-woman."

effect that the suspect had made a clean escape.

From another authoritative source came the confident statement that "McDermott's capture is not far away."

Guard Officer Threatened.

Interest in the McDermott manhunt was sidetracked for a while today by the statement of Colonel C. F. Bluem, of the Ohio National Guard, personal representative of Gov. Donahey, that he had been "threatened with actual violence because of his policies in connection with the investigation."

"They threatened to run me out of town and said they would 'break me,'" he told newspaper men. Colonel Bluem refused to name the persons making the threat and would not say that he would change his policies.

Bluem refused to discuss his "policies."

Slater Holds Key, He Says.

Slater, who worked ceaselessly while dissension was springing up among other agents, today declared that the "hub-hub" set up by certain investigators was founded on personal jealously.

"They were angry because I hold the key to the whole murder and because they were not in on it," Slater declared. "I still hold the key and I'm going to keep right on holding it."

"The fact that another detective gave out the name of the informer being held here ought to prove that it wouldn't be safe to turn all the evidence over to him," the sleepless detective from the Cal Crim agency, stated.

"It is just a matter of time until we find McDermott. Then the murder will be solved, he added.

Trace Ownership of Coupe.

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 3. — Police today were trying to determine whether an abandoned Ford coupe in front of 1345 Granger avenue, Lakewood, though to be a Canton, Ohio, car, had any connection with Patrick McDermott, wanted badly for questioning in the shooting of Don R. Mellett, Canton publisher.

The machine bore license number 688-251, police said. It had stood where it was found for three days.

Police here had no report of the theft of such a car.

Reports from the state automobile registry department at Columbus stated the license carried by the Lakewood mystery car was issued to Steve Tate, Louisville, Ohio, northeast of Canton.

Man and His Unmarried Daughter Suicide; Child Killed

Blissfield, Mich., Authorities Seek Motive for Strange Death Pact After Girl, 5, is Poisoned.

BLISSFIELD, Mich., Aug. 3.—County authorities today sought a motive for the strange suicide pact of John Bogar, 50, and his unmarried daughter, Agnes, and the murder of the girl's five-year-old daughter, Amelia.

Poison administered to the child killed her, probably Saturday, and then the father and daughter took doses of the same drink and calmly awaited their deaths.

Sunday came and the poison had failed to work. On the same day Bogar went to a neighbor's house and said that "something terrible" was happening. Returning home, he found his daughter had hanged herself, it is believed.

Apparently Bogar sat in the farmhouse all day, unable to make up his mind to hasten his own death by hanging. He slipped again to the neighbor's house, stuck a note on a fence post where it was found later in the day, went home and hanged himself.

"Hurry over to my house," the note read. "You might be too late anyhow."

Investigation disclosed the three bodies.

According to authorities Bogar had quarreled with a suitor for Agnes' hand and had refused to sanction her association with young men in the community.

COLUMBUS MAN'S BODY MANGLED

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 3.—Police today were investigating the finding of a body of a man believed to be John D. Duncan, of this city, in the Pennsylvania freight yards shortly after midnight.

The body, horribly mangled and the head severed, was removed to an undertaking parlor. A broken watch showed 10:30 believed to be the time the man was killed.

person and something must be provided to keep him occupied during that period of recreation."

He briefly discussed the efforts of the Y. M. C. A. to be of service to the young men between the ages of 16 and 26. "We do not have to worry about the boy under 16 and there's no use to attempt to form new habits in the young man over 26, but it is the youth between the two ages that needs the care," he said.

Nagal gave a report of the activities of the Sunday Afternoon club last season. Eleven meetings were held, the smallest attendance being 68 and the largest 123, with a general average of 94. The meetings, which were suspended for the summer, will be resumed in November.

Auto is Damaged In Crash; Driver In Wrong Lane

A touring car, driven by George Bradfield, West Ninth street, lost both front wheels in a collision with an automobile driven by Mrs. Helen Hall, 1618 Elm street, Youngstown, at the intersection of Lisbon and West Eighth streets at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon. No one was injured.

Bradfield, police say, was driving in the wrong lane in the direction of Wellsville. He attempted to cut across in front of the Youngstown woman's car which was coming down the hill at a slow rate of speed. The Youngstown machine was only slightly damaged and was driven away under its own power.

Chief of Police Hugh McDermott made an investigation of the crash.

Near-Riot on Floor Of Stock Exchange Over General Motors

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—A rush to buy General Motors stock precipitated a near riot on the floor of the stock exchange today as brokers struggled and tugged at each other in a wild scramble to execute their orders.

The stock soared 10 points in the first half-hour of trading and sold at the record high price of $211¼ a share in blocks from 500 to 5,000 shares. An over-night gain of 4 to 53 points was only a modest introduction to the boiling market for the stock which developed with the influx of buying orders from all sections of the county.

United States Steel, the side partner of General Motors in the July advance in the stock market, surpassed all of its previous records today when it sold at 149½.

CHAUTAUQUA OPENS MONDAY

Tent Will be Erected at Tenth and Main Streets.

The chautauqua tent will go up on the vacant lot at Tenth and Main street next Saturday, Paul Harris, advance man for the Redpath bureau, who arrived here yesterday announced today. The program will open Monday and close on the following Sunday.

There will be afternoon and evening attractions each day and morning sessions as well on Tuesday and Wednesday. The afternoon program will start at 3 o'clock, the evening program at 8 and the two morning entertainments at 10:30 o'clock.

The opening feature will be a concert by Harold Lewis and his Symphony Players Monday afternoon. On Monday evening, Lewis will offer an entirely new program, followed by a lecture, "The Modern Tale of Two Cities," by Charles H. Plattenberg.

An entertainment, "Tinkers and Thinkers," will be presented by Sam Grathwell Tuesday morning. Another lecture, "Getting By Your Hoodoo," will be offered by Grathwell Tuesday afternoon. Channing Pollock's drama, "The Fool," will be presented by a group of players as the evening attraction.

"A Message from No. 16542" is the title of a lecture to be delivered by John H. Dickason Wednesday morning. The afternoon program will be in charge of Howard Wade Kinsey, basso and song director, and Lora Orth Kimsey, pianist, followed by a lecture, "Young America at Bat," by Dickason. Another song session, directed by Kimsey, and a discussion "What is Ahead for Europe?" by D. Thomas Curtin, international newspaper correspondent, is scheduled for Wednesday evening.

A musical prelude, "The Poet of the Home" by the Moscow Artists and a lecture, "Everyday Home," by Anne Campbell, noted reader, will be offered Thursday afternoon. The evening attraction will be a scenic production by the Moscow Artists Ensemble, featuring the Russian Balalika quartet and Mlle. Nina Sergeyeva, premier danseuse.

On Friday afternoon a historical junior pageant, "The Quill," will be presented in connection with a dramatic entertainment by Harrison Clofford. The recent comedy success, "Applesauce," in three acts, will be given by a group of five Friday evening.

A musical prelude by the Alpine Yodlers, a special children's entertainment by Al Baker, magician-ventriloquist, assisted by "Dummy Dennis," are on the Saturday afternoon slate. Another scenic production, "Echoes of the Alps" by the Fiechtl Yodlers, with Jost and Wunderle, will be presented Saturday evening.

The Sunday program will be of some semi-sacred form.

ST. ROCCO DAY ACTION EXPECTED

The city solons at their meeting tonight are expected to act upon the request of Italian residents for permission to hold a St. Rocco's day celebration here.

Petitions, urging that council refuse to grant a permit will be received from the congregation of the First Presbyterian church and the Sunday school of the First Methodist Episcopal church. Opposition to the celebration, an annual affair, was voiced at the council meeting two weeks ago, but action was deferred for two weeks.

Under the city code refusal or permission for such celebrations rests in the hands of council. The proposed celebration is to include a fireworks display at Central park and a parade and banquet.

EXHIBIT NEW INTERURBAN CAR

One of the eight new interurban cars purchased by The Stream Line is to be placed on exhibition at the corner of Fifth and Main streets between 6:30 and 7 o'clock tomorrow evening. The public is invited to inspect the car.

The new cars are steel in construction and were built at a cost of approximately $16,000 each. Four of them will be placed in service between Beaver and Steubenville Thursday.

Gleaners' Class Supper.

Members of the Gleaners' class of the First Methodist Episcopal church will hold a coverdish supper at the church at 7:30 o'clock Thursday evening.

CIVIL SERVICE EXAM AUG. 17

The civil service commission has announced an examination for applicants for police and fire department places which will be conducted in the council chamber of the city hall on Tuesday, August 17.

There is one vacancy in the police force, caused by the dismissal of Patrolman Harry Hurd. This place will be filled from one of three eligibles whose names will be filed with Mayor Fogo by the commission following the examination. Applicants may obtain forms from Grattan Dugan, clerk of the commission.

FOGO ASSESSES $300 IN FINES

One Dry Law Case Among Those Heard by Mayor.

Frank Ross, White street and John Peletto will be given hearings before Mayor Wallace Fogo Thursday evening upon charges of assault.

Ross first caused the arrest of Peletto. The latter immediately preferred a similar charge against Ross.

Michale Barnes, of East Liverpool, arrested over the wek-end, charged with the illegal possession of intoxicating liquors, was fined $100.

Mrs. Olive Simmors, who was arrested at her home corner Twelfth and Lisbon streets, charged with maintaining a disorderly house was also assessed $100. Barnes arranged to settle his fine but the woman was remanded to jail.

Fines of $50 and costs each were levied by Mayor Fogo against William Pugh, Pasquale Ramilla and L. Lorenze, who were arrested upon charges of disorderly conduct by fighting at Fifteenth and Center streets Sunday afternoon.

Missionary Society Picnic.

The Home Missionary society of the First Methodist Protestant church will picnic at Hammond park this afternoon and evening. Supper will be served at 6 o'clock.

22,266,387 HORSES IN U. S. PROVE DOBBIN IS STAGING COMEBACK

CHICAGO. — Dobbin is staging "comeback!"

Quoting Wayne Dinsmore, secretary of the Horse Association of America, the survey declared:

"The motor truck is the only thing on long hauls where speed is essential. But on short hauls, it isn't practical. For the dairy, laundry, bakery and other industries, the horse still is the best means of transportation.

"Speaking of tractors not eating which has to be purchased, at a farm products, they eat something which has to be purchased at a profit, with the fruit of farm labor, gasoline. Oil of course, also has to be supplied.

"Neither have yet been successfully raised on the farm in an available state. But it is easy to grow corn, oats and hay."

A Chicago concern marketing more harness than any other firm in the country reported an increase of 80 per cent in sales for 1925 over those for 1922.

There are 22,266,387 horses in the United States today, the survey disclosed.

Principals in Two Weddings Alternate, In Attendant Roles

At 9 o'clock this morning in the Methodist Protestant church, Miss Helen Dunn, daughter of Mrs. E. E. Dunn, of Chestnut street, became the bride of Harold Kaufman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kaufman, of Avondale street. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. F. Dimit. Miss Ruth Maloney and George Spratley were the attendants.

The bride was gowned in French blue georgette with hat to match, and carried a bouquet of Ophelia roses, showered with lilies of the valley. Previous to her marriage she was employed in the office of the American Paper Product company. The bridegroom is employed as a machinist by the Patterson Foundry and Machine company.

Following this ceremony the bridal party left for St. John's Lutheran church, where the attendants, Miss Maloney and Mr. Spratley, were united in marriage by Dr. J. G. Reinartz. Mr. and Mrs. Kaufman were the attendants. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Maloney, of Church street, and the bridegroom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Grant Spratley, of East Sixth street.

The bride wore Bois-de-rose flat crepe with hat to match. Her bouquet was made of Ophelia roses and sweetpeas. She has been employed in the office of the Ohio Power company, while the bridegroom is a decorator at the Knowles, Taylor and Knowles pottery.

Immediately following this ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Spratley and Mr. and Mrs. Kaufman left for a honeymoon by motor through Canada.

Wain-Factor Wedding.

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Miss Hilda Wain, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Wain of Wheeling, former residents of Avondale street, and Richard Davis Factor, formerly of Zanesville, now located in Columbus. The bride was a teacher in the local schools.

Mr. and Mrs. Factor are now at home at 48 Seventeenth avenue, Columbus.

Missionary Society Session.

The monthly meeting of the Women's Foreign Missionary society met last evening in the parlors of the First Methodist Episcopal church. Mrs. William Rowe was in charge of the program, and Mrs. Kenney directed the devotionals. Papers were read by Mesdames Frank Small, Barrett and Valentine. An address was given by Miss Martingale, a missionary to Mexico.

Mite boxes were opened.

Golf Tournament for Ladies.

Ladies of the East Liverpool Country club, who will take part tomorrow in the 18-hole medal golf play with full handicap, are requested to be present promptly at 9 o'clock to draw for partners. Trophies will be presented by Mesdames W. E. Wells and Walter B. Hill.

More Lighthouses Sought by Marine Circles in Japan

TOKIO — More and better lighthouses is the cry that has been raised in marine circles in Japan as the result of the wrecking of the Ellerman line freighter City of Naples on Zenisu reef on June 15. Zenisu reef is forty miles from the nearest lighthouse and has been dreaded for years by all coastwise sailormen.

There are only 493 lighthouses along Japan's 1,888 miles of seacoast and many of the existing beacons have not been modernized. Experts declare that at least 1,000 lighthouses are needed to properly safeguard ships traveling along the coast lines.

REPORT FILED BY COPELAND

Weather Observer Sees Small Chance for Corn Crop.

Last month was the driest July in 38 years, and the harvest one of the largest in recent years, according to the records of Lawrence H. Copeland, cooperative weather observer at Millport, whose report has just been forwarded to the department at Washington.

The cutting of hay has been about completed, and wheat is still in the fields, although thrashing has been going on for some time on some farms.

Assurance of a corn crop is almost abandoned, and the only thing that will save the corn now is an abundance of rain. Pastures are drying up, and many runs have gone dry. Much stock about the county is now on feed.

July had two cool periods and three hot periods, July 21st. being the hottest day of the year, when the temperature stood at 98. The mean maximum temperature for July was 82.2 and the mean minimum was 55.8, with a mean temperature of 69. The minimum temperature for the month of July was 40, which was registered July 2nd. The greatest daily range was also on this latter date when there was a change of 42 degrees in the temperature.

There were eight days in July when the percipitation was .01 or more. July had but 10 clear days, with three cloudy days and 19 partly cloudy days. There were two thunderstorms last month, these being recorded on July 6th. and 22nd.

The rainfall this year so far is five inches below normal, over a period of 33 years, the county records show. Just a year ago the ground was soaked with water, "corn was booming and oats nearly in shock," the report reads. "No oats are cut as yet."

Normal temperature in this county during the last 33 years is 70.6 and the normal percipitation 4.37 inches. In July 1925, the rainfall was 8.15 inches.

CIGARETTE TAX IS DISTRIBUTED

Warrants for the payment of the annual cigarette license money have just been issued by County Auditor Elmer E. Walker. These warrants were sent to the clerks of 11 corporations and 10 townships, the total distribution being $9,329.12.

Of the money distributed from the collection of this license fee, 75 per cent goes to the state, and the 25 per cent going to the corporations is divided equally between the general find and the poor fund, or 12½ per cent to each fund in each corporation and township.

Commissioners Hold Public Road Hearing; Claims Presented

Fewer claims for damages have been filed with the county commissioners on Section G-3 and E of the East Liverpool and Youngstown intercounty highway than any other proposed new highway in the county, the records of the commissioners' journal disclose.

Only 15 claims were filed with the commissioners during a public hearing this week, and 80 per cent of those filing claims asked nothing for land, but made requests for the reconstruction of a fence, the caring of drainage water, the removal of a small building here and there, and similar small requests.

A number of land owners advised the commissioners they were sufficiently pleased to have the road built over the designated route. The road hearing lasted less than one hour. All requests, with the possible exception of three or four were granted by the commissioners, and other claims were held up until a view of the properties in question could be made with County Surveyor Lloyd C. Kirk.

The hearing had to do with the construction of this new road north of Williamsport, upon which sections no contracts have so far been awarded.

MACKALL FILES HIS FIRST CASE

Attorney P. V. Mackall of East Liverpool, recently admitted to the practice of law in Ohio has filed his first case in common pleas court, it being the divorce petition of Ida Bell Pugh against her husband James Samuel Pugh, residing on R. F. D. No. 1, Grafton, W. Va.

The petition relates the couple were married at Chester, W. Va., Dec. 28, 1912. Gross neglect of duty is charged. It is also declared in the petition that although Pugh is making $200 per month, he abandoned the plaintiff and her children Dec. 22, 1924, and that he has never contributed anything to their support.

It is also related in the petition that Pugh had been arrested for nonsupport and that he gave bond, following his plea of guilty, and that after the bond was filed, he left the jurisdiction of the court.

Cited for Contempt.

Sheriff George Wright has been ordered by Judge W. H. Spence to present George H. Heckathorne in common pleas court next Friday under a contempt of court order. In the divorce action filed by Ruth M. Heckathorne against her husband George H. Heckathorne, the court ordered the custody of children to be given the mother. It is now contended that this order of court has been violated by the defendant.

Seek To Modify Order.

An application has been filed in common pleas court in the divorce action of Irene Lutton against her husband George R. Lutton to modify a former order of alimony. The application will be heard by Judge W. H. Spence next Friday morning.

Former Class Members Will Be Entertained In Bethesda Church

Members of the Sunday school classes of Miss Lura Fife and L. H. Copeland, will entertain all former members in the basement of the Bethesda Presbyterian church, Saturday evening, August 7. Dinner will be served at 6 P. M. Former teachers of Miss Fife's class were Mrs. J. G. Black, Mrs. E. J. Travers and Mrs. E. J. Cox. L. H. Copeland has been teaching his class 25 years. Many former members of these classes are scattered in various parts of the country. More than 200 invitations have been sent out, and a large crowd is expected. Miss Helen Black, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. J. G. Black, a former pastor, and a product of Bethesda church will be a guest of honor. Miss Black, who has spent the past seven years as a missionary in India, will conclude a furlough, September 6, returning to her work in India. She will give a talk on "Mission Work in India."

SHASTEEN HELD FOR GRAND JURY

Albert Shasteen of Hanover township, Lincoln highway, who was arrested Thursday of last week following a raid on his home by Sheriff George Wetsel of Centre township, entered a plea of not guilty to a charge of possessing implements for the manufacturing of intoxicating liquor when given a hearing before Justice M. K. Zimerman at Lisbon Monday night, and was bound over to the grand jury under $1,000 bond.

What is considered the most complete still ever uncovered in the county was found when the officers visited the Shasteen house. The still was in operation in the basement of the small house, and the officers after dumping a lot of mash and liquor, took eight gallon of liquor with them, together with 200 pounds of sugar, ground mash and the still. The entire outfit is now under guard at the county jail.

Marriage Licenses.

A marriage license has been issued to Harold C. Kaufman, a machinist and son of Mr. and Mrs. William T. Kaufman of East Liverpool and Miss Helen F. Dunn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Dunn, also of East Liverpool. They are to be married by the Rev. John F. Dimit of the Methodist Protestant church at East Liverpool.

George W. Spratley, a decorator, and Miss Ruth E. Maloney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William T. Maloney of East Liverpool have obtained a marriage license, and are to be married by the Rev. J. G. Reinartz, of St. Johns Evangelical Lutheran church of East Liverpool.

Street Fair Planned.

The annual street fair at Columbiana has been set for Sept. 17-18 by Benjamin Firestone Post, American Legion, which organization has been sponsering the fair for some years. This fair will immediately follow the county fair at Lisbon, which is scheduled for Sept. 14-15 and 16.

Many concessions at the county fair will move to Columbiana, which has also been a rule in former years. Two automobiles are to be given away the last night of the fair.

WORK LAUNCHED ON NEW BRIDGE

N. R. Porterfield of Youngstown, recently awarded the contract for the construction of a new concrete bridge on the Westville-Alliance road plans to have his contract finished and the road opened to through traffic about August 15, it has been announced by County Surveyor Lloyd C. Kirk.

This road is now being surface treated by the state highway department, and a detour has been arranged around the bridge that is now under construction.

According to agreement with the Knox township trustees and the county commissioners, made a matter of record several years ago, this road will be topped with a paving block surface within a few years.

Divorce Decree Issued.

A decree of divorce has been handed down by Judge W. H. Spence to Margaret Baker, a minor, who through her next friend Ellan Hester filed an action for divorce in common pleas court against her husband Carl F. Baker. The decree was granted on the grounds of gross neglect of duty. The plaintiff has also been restored by the court to her maiden name, that of Margaret Hester.

Judgment Asked.

A petition has ben filed in common pleas court by Brooks & Thompson of East Liverpool in behalf of the Erwin Feldspar company, seeking judgment for $6,057.58 and interest from March 12th, 1926, against Richard C. Sant. The claim is based upon an account claimed to be due for merchandise sold and delivered defendant at his request.

Alimony Order.

In the divorce action now pending in common pleas court wherin Myrtle Isabelle Pugh is seeking a decree against her husband, Harold E. Pugh, the defendant has been ordered by the court to pay his wife $30 alimony on or before Aug. 14th, the payment of an order under a former order of court. After this payment, Pugh has been ordered by Judge Spence to give $200 for the satisfaction of the order.

Illinois Man Invents New Auto Gas Saver

Walter Critchlow, 4633-L street, Wheaton, Ill., has patented a new gas saver that beats anything ever gotten out. With it on Fords show as high as 61 miles on a gallon. Other makes do equally well. This new invention saves gas and oil, makes a Ford start instantly in any weather and completely de-carbonizes the engine. Mr. Critchlow offers 1 free to quickly advertise. Write him for one. He also wants County and State Distributors who can make $500 to $2500 per month.

Bed-Bugs?
Instant Death for the Pesky Creatures
Yes, instant death to bed-bugs, roaches or fleas. The moment P.D.Q., the new chemical discovery touches these insects they die. Can do no damage to your springs, or furniture; won't rot or stain clothing. P.D.Q. is used and recommended by leading hotels, hospitals and railroads as the quickest and safest way of getting rid of pesky insects. Instantly it smothers and kills the living creatures; coats their eggs, and stops them from hatching and multiplying. A 35c package of this golden chemical will make a quart of mixture—so deadly it will kill a million bed-bugs. P.D.Q. can also be had in double-strength liquid form—ready for use. Free patent spout enables you to reach hard-to-get-at places with ease. Get P.D.Q. at your druggist's today. Your money back if the bugs are not gone tomorrow.

JACK WALTON SEEKS TOGA IN OKLAHOMA RACE

Former Governor Before Voters in Democratic Primary.

FIVE IN FIGHT

Eighteen Candidates in Contest for Governorship.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 3.—J. C. (Iron Jack) Walton, former governor and commander-in-chief of all Oklahoma's military and civil forces, came back before the voters of his state today in an effort to gain the Democratic nomination for United States senate, an honor which he had two years ago but met defeat overwhelmingly by E. B. Pine, Republican.

The "iron man,' who in 1923, put the whole of Oklahoma under martial law, called out the national guard, asked for 75,000 volunteers, kept a legislature from meeting by force of arms, appointed "22,000 minute men" to stop an election and numerous other precedents in a "war against the invisible government of the Ku Klux Klan" and was later impeached, this time opposes four other contestants, one a woman senator who voted to impeach him.

"The klan must die," is the former governor's campaign slogan. He charged throughout his campaign the state of Oklahoma "still was ruled by that invisible hand that threw me out of office" and promised to carry the fight to the United States senate if elected.

Elmer Thomas, former congressman; W. A. Ledbetter, former Muskogee peace office; Mrs. Lamar Looney, state senator, and M. L. Misherheimer are the candidates opposing him.

Republican candidates for senatorial race nomination are: J. W. Harreld, incumbent; John W. Buckles, Joe C. Fox, B. G. Bingham, U. S. Stone, Preston Ashing and D. Lafe Hubler.

Second in interest to the senatorial campaign is the gubernatorial race. There are 18 candidates running for the seat of Governor M. E. Trapp, recently held ineligible to succeed himself by the State Supreme court. They are: J. B. A. Robertson, former Governor; W. M. Darnell, Frank P. Davis, John R. Clarke, T. H. Wren, O. A. Cargill, Henry S. Johnson, Porter N. McCallum, J. Anderson and William M. Franklin.

Democrats: James Hepburn, Omer K. Benowot, Henry L. Clouck, George Hialy, W. J. Otjen, James Harris, Edward D. Evans and John Gleiber.

Expect Light Vote in Kansas.

TOPEKA, Kans., Aug. 3.— Kansas primaries opened today with weather throughout the state cool and cloudy and no exceptionally heavy vote expected.

The Democratic voters will chose between ex-Governor Jonathan M. Davis, recently acquitted on charges of selling a pardon while in office, and Donald Muir, for the gubernatorial nomination. Golden B. Davis opposes Governor Ben S. Paulen, who is trying for the Republican nomination to succeed himself. Senator Charles Curtis, Republican floor leader, seeks renomination against a negro, Nick Chiles, of Topeka.

Primary in Missouri.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Aug. 3.—Missouri today was holding its primary, which was to determine the party nominees for United States senate, congress and a few state officers.

In the Democratic senatorial race, Congressman Harry B. Hawes, a wet, entered for both long and short terms, was opposed by two drys, Judge Cockrell of Warrensburg, running against him for the long term nomination, and W. H. Meredith, of Poplar Bluff, for the short term. Robert I. Young, St. Joseph, A fourth candidate, favored modification of the dry act.

In the Republican contest, David M. Proctor of Kansas City, a dry, was running against Senator George M. Williams, a neutral on the dry issue, who seeks re-election. Blodgett Priest of St. Louis was a wet.

New York Girl

the tide at her back, attempting the long roundabout course which had been found the most feasible method by the five successful channel swimmers in the past.

The twentieth hour found her using a slow, weary overhand stroke still two miles from her goal.

Miss Barrett started strongly using a powerful breast stroke. At 1 o'clock, five hours after starting, she had changed to a fast crawl and reached a point 10 miles off the French coast —an astonishing speed average. In this time she had covered as much distance as Norman Berham, the British swimmer, had in 12 hours before he was forced to abandon the struggle.

Farstad Fails Second Time.

CAPE GRIS NEZ, Aug. 3. — Olaf Farstad met defeat at the hands of the English channel today, for the second time in 10 days.

Farstad was forced to give up his attempt to swim the channel at 1 o'clock this afternoon, after having been in the water for nine hours and twenty-nine minutes.

Heavy seas and a driving rain made it impossible for the Oslo policeman to continue his courageous effort.

Farstad's failure today is the third victory for the channel in 36 hours, Clarabelle Barrett of New York and Dr. George Brewster of London having been forced to abandon their attempts which they started yesterday.

Asa Yoleson, or Al Jolson, Divorced By Ethel Delmar

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—A Paris dispatch yesterday stating that Asa Yoleson had been divorced by Alma Osborne Yoleson didn't attract any notice along Broadway but when the news came out today that Asa Yoelson is none other than Al Jolson of "Mammy" fame Broadway sat up.

On the stage Mrs. Jolson before her marriage was known as Ethel Delmar. Friends had heard reports of differences between the couple but none believed divorce was planned.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—General Motors was the central figure of a raging stock market in the first hour of trading today. Stimulated by the reported decline of $19,000,000 in brokers' loans and the wide publicity given to the Cochran interview, outside speculative points poured in buying orders for the stock on a tidal wave of advancing prices.

Again the ticker service proceeded to be inadequate as the volume of trading expanded and the price advanced another 10 points to 211¼ in the first half hour.

The speculative fever spread to the industrial stocks, the low priced motor shares and the oils, the latter responding to the excellent earnings statement issued by Sinclair Consolidated, showing a gain of 65 per cent in earnings as compared with the same period last year. Yellow Truck, affiliated with General Motors, sold up to 36 for a gain of 10 points from Monday's low, while White Motors, Willys Overland, Packard, Hudson and Nash advanced from 1 to 2½ points in an unusually heavy turnover. DuPont jumped seven points to 295.

United States Steel then commanded attention, with its brisk run-up to 149½, duplicating its former high record price, and finally passing that milestone when 1,400 shares of the stock sold at 149½. Independent steels were quiet, as also were the rails, equipments, mercantile shares and utilities.

MEXICO-CHURCH DEADLOCK IS TIGHTER TODAY

Police Guards are Withdrawn From Houses of Worship.

CHURCHES OPEN

Renew Efforts Made to Bring About Peace.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 3.—The deadlock between the Mexican government and the Catholic church today seemed tighter than ever, but the tensity of the situation appears to have been somewhat relieved.

Police guards have been withdrawn from the churches in many places, and additional military stationed in the streets have returned to their barracks.

The control of the churches has passed into the hands of municipal committees in almost every district of Mexico, and they have been opened again for services conducted by lay-readers.

Thus far the economic boycott put into effect by the Catholics, has not resulted in any general tie-up of business.

Although the early peace overtures have been rejected by the government, as exclusively announced by the International News Service yesterday, it is learned that renewed efforts are being made to bring about some sort of an accord.

Calles Stands Pat.

President Calles stands pat in his insistence that the laws must be administered in full force, and at present it is difficult to see how a compromise can be reached that will not be a back-down for one side or the other.

Archbishop Jose Maria y Del Rio, head of the Catholic church in Mexico, is still occupying his private offices, and while refraining from all church services it is understood that he continues to function in connection with secular business of the church.

The archbishop today received the correspondent of the International News Service and requested that American people, both Catholics and Protestants, be thanked on his behalf for "their manifest sympathy for the Catholic church in Mexico during the present trials."

The alleged plot against the life of President Calles appears now to have been thoroughly squelched with the arrest of seven more alleged plotters, thus making a total of 15 in jail for this conspiracy. The police are on the alert for other plots of this sort, but it is believed that the order which has prevailed is indicative of an intent by the people in general, except for a handful of fanatics perhaps, to leave the working out of this difficult situation to the recognized leaders of the government and the church.

Catholic leaders point to the order which has prevailed as evidence of their intent to pursue only peaceful measures in carrying on their struggle.

American Episcopal Church Seized.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—The state department today made public the report of Alexander W Weddell, consul general at Mexico City, on the seizure by police last Saturday of the church of England at San Jose in Mexico City. The church is owned by the American Episcopal church.

Police stated that the church was seized because the church officers had not made proper reports to the authorities. It is believed that the differences will be settled in Mexico City without resort to diplomatic exchanges between Mexico and the United States.

FINED $25, THEN GOES TO JAIL

F. W. McLaughlin is Found Guilty of Reckless Driving.

F. W. McLaughlin, Seventh street, was fined $25 and costs and committed to jail until the fine and costs are paid when he was found guilty by Municipal Judge J. C. Hanley today upon a charge of fast and reckless driving in connection with an automobile crash on Pennsylvania avenue about two weeks ago. He was arrested upon information of William Finley, Bradshaw avenue, who charged that McLaughlin, after sideswiping his car failed to stop. McLaughlin entered a plea of not guilty when arraigned last Saturday.

Upon recommendation of Solicitor Frank Hoover, Fred C. Million, who was arrested by Patrolman Roth in Diamond alley Sunday, charged with the illegal possession of intoxicating liquors, was dismissed by Judge Hanley for the lack of evidence. Million was charged with having been the owner of eight half pints of moonshine whisky found by the patrolman in a sewer.

James Anas, arrested by Patrolman James Haley Saturday night, on a charge of having a gambling device in his possession, forfeited his bond of $55.80 when he failed to appear for a hearing. Anas is said to have had a book of baseball pool tickets when apprehended.

and it was no more monarchial than the fine private cars in which the late J. Pierpont Morgan carried bishops and distinguished laymen to a gathering of the Episcopalian church.

THE UNIMPORTANT opinion of this writer is that President Coolidge will be renominated and re-elected. If anything could interfere with that programme it would be a series of foolish attacks on Governor Smith because of his religion. You will not find Calvin Coolidge making or instigating such attacks. He also knows politics.

TWENTY PASSENGER airplanes are employed between London and Paris, carrying more than 400 passengers a day. Only seventeen years ago the first flight was made across the English Channel. This country, which invented the flying machine, is slow to use it. The chief hope is in the Fords, father and son, who have the ability and the money. In Europe the government helps such important developments.

MR. FOKKER. European genius, who built the ship on which Commander Byrd flew over the North Pole, is in this country, and could put the United States ahead on commercial and other aviation if the government would give him backing.

THERE are serious conditions in Mexica, business is injured by the boycott instituted by Catholics, a few are killed, many injured and arrested in riots. Military guards and police are stoned at some of the churches, women leading the attacks. The world sees in Mexico what has always happened in quarrels based on religion.

PRESIDENT CALLES issues a statement accusing the Catholic archbishops and bishops of abandoning their only field of action, the conscience of the Catholic, to invade the field of politics and of government and provoke movements of disorder and incite, secretly or openly, to rebellion.

CATHOLIC authorities accuse Presendent Calles of seeking to destroy the church and take its property.

President Calles replies that the Catholic church would usurp the powers of government and says the issue in Mexico is government of the country by Catholic bishops and others appointed abroad, or government by public officials elected in Mexico.

It is not a pleasant fight.

forming southwest of here in the neighborhood where the slain girl's father worked. Sheriff Marquard sent deputies to the scene of the reported gathering but they reported no sign of the mob.

Extra guards were stationed about the jail. The crowd, although sentiment ran high, showed no disposition of disorder, and shortly after midnight began dispersing. A few lingered all night, but it was a curious gathering.

Pleaded Guilty.

Thompson pleaded guilty yesterday when arraigned before Mayor Heaton and was bound over to the grand jury without bail. He admitted, it was said, having served a term in the Kansas state prison for assaulting a woman. He is a widower and has five children.

Thompson was not removed from the county jail here during the night. The sheriff declined to say where the prisoner was, leading to rumors that he had been spirited away.

COLUMBUS, O., August 3.—National guardsmen will not be sent to Coshocton where it was feared last night a mob would storm the jail for Robert Thompson, confessed slayer of a 10-year-old girl, James Huffman, executive clerk to Gov. Donahey, said today.

Huffman received a call from the Coshocton county sheriff detailing the situation last night. The call was referred to General Henderson, of the National Guard at Camp Perry, but no orders were issued for mobilization for immediate call.

Suspected of Double Slaying.

STEUBENVILLE, O., Aug. 3.—Robert Thompson, 54, known as a roving farm hand who confessed to killing a 10-year-old girl near Coshocton and who is now in the Coshocton county jail, may be the farm hand last in the employe of Robert and Nettie Herron, of Two Bridges, near here, both of whom were mysteriously slain last March 2, local authorities believed today.

Prosecutor Roy Merryman said that his office was checking up on Thompson and that nothing would be left undone to bring to justice the person who committed the worst double crime in the county's history.

City Solicitor C. L. Williams, who defended and secured the acquittal of John Cook, a negro, tried for the murder of Nettie Herron, went to Coshocton yesterday. He was accompanied by Thomas J. Dignan.

"We have always maintained that a white farm hand, a man of Thompson's age and description, committed the Herron murders," Williams said.

Cook is now in jail here awaiting trial on an indictment charging him with the murder of Robert Herron.

Boy is Injured.

Merle, six-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Reese, Canons Mills, suffered a badly lacerated right foot yesterday when it was caught in a lawn mower which he was pushing. The lad was brought to the City hospital where the injury was dressed by Dr. W. A. Hobbs.

Fifteen "Gas Hawks" Nabbed

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 3.—Fifteen mashers were scheduled to appear in police court today as the result of an energetic drive by police last night against the so-called "gas-hawks." Most of them were nabbed on the east side.

FIND WITNESS TO DEATH PLOT

New Sensation in Hall-Mills Murder Investigation.

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Aug. 3.—A witness, who lurked in the shadows of the Phillips farm, and saw the Rev. Edward W. Hall, and Mrs. Eleanor R. Mills, his choir-singer, shot to death four years ago, has been found by investigators and is ready to tell the story of the killing.

This was today's sensation in the renewed investigation of the crime.

The eye-witness, whose name has been carefully guarded, already has given information to Gov. Moore, State Senator Alexander Simpson, special prosecutor, announced, and the story is said virtually to substantiate that of Mrs. Jane Gibson, the "pig-woman."

effect that the suspect had made a clean escape.

Guard Officer Threatened.

Interest in the McDermott manhunt was sidetracked for a while today by the statement of Colonel C. F. Bluem, of the Ohio National Guard, personal representative of Gov. Donahey, that he had been "threatened with actual violence because of his policies in connection with the investigation."

"They threatened to run me out of town and said they would 'break me," he told newspaper men. Colonel Bluem refused to name the persons making the threat and would not say that he would change his policies.

Bluem refused to discuss his "policies."

Slater Holds Key, He Says.

Slater, who worked ceaselessly while dissension was springing up among other agents, today declared that the "hub-hub" set up by certain investigators was founded on personal jealously.

"They were angry because I hold the key to the whole murder and because they were not in on it," Slater declared. "I still hold the key and I'm going to keep right on holding it."

"The fact that another detective gave out the name of the informer being held here ought to prove that it wouldn't be safe to turn all the evidence over to him," the sleepless detective from the Cal Crim agency, stated.

"It is just a matter of time until we find McDermott. Then the murder will be solved, he added.

Trace Ownership of Coupe.

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 3. — Police today were trying to determine whether an abandoned Ford coupe in front of 1315 Granger avenue, Lakewood, though to be a Canton, Ohio, car, had any connection with Patrick McDermott, wanted badly for questioning in the shooting of Don R. Mellett, Canton publisher.

The machine bore license number 688-251, police said. It had stood where it was found for three days.

Police here had no report of the theft of such a car.

Reports from the state automobile registry department at Columbus stated the license carried by the Lakewood mystery car was issued to Steve Tate, Louisville, Ohio, northeast of Canton.

Man and His Unmarried Daughter Suicide; Child Killed

Blissfield, Mich., Authorities Seek Motive for Strange Death Pact After Girl, 5, is Poisoned.

BLISSFIELD, Mich., Aug. 3.—County authorities today sought a motive for the strange suicide pact of John Bogar, 50, and his unmarried daughter, Agnes, and the murder of the girl's five-year-old daughter, Amelia.

Poison administered to the child killed her, probably Saturday, and then the father and daughter took doses of the same drink and calmly awaited their deaths.

Sunday came and the poison had failed to work. On the same day Bogar went to a neighbor's house and said that "something terrible" was happening. Returning home, he found his daughter had hanged herself, it is believed.

Apparently Bogar sat in the farmhouse all day, unable to make up his mind to hasten his own death by hanging. He slipped again to the neighbor's house, stuck a note on a fence post where it was found later in the day, went home and hanged himself.

"Hurry over to my house," the note read. "You might be too late anyhow."

Investigation disclosed the three bodies.

According to authorities Bogar had quarreled with a suitor for Agnes' hand and had refused to sanction her association with young men in the community.

COLUMBUS MAN'S BODY MANGLED

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 3.—Police today were investigating the finding of a body of a man believed to be John D. Duncan, of this city, in the Pennsylvania freight yards shortly after midnight.

The body, horribly mangled and the head severed, was removed to an undertaking parlor. A broken watch showed 10:30 believed to be the time the man was killed.

person and something must be provided to keep him occupied during that period of recreation."

He briefly discussed the efforts of the Y. M. C. A. to be of service to the young men between the ages of 16 and 26. "We do not have to worry about the boy under 16 and there's no use to attempt to form new habits in the young man over 26, but it is the youth between the two ages that needs the care," he said.

Nagal gave a report of the activities of the Sunday Afternoon club last season. Eleven meetings were held, the smallest attendance being 68 and the largest 123, with a general average of 94. The meetings, which were suspended for the summer, will be resumed in November.

Auto is Damaged In Crash; Driver In Wrong Lane

A touring car, driven by George Bradfield, West Ninth street, lost both front wheels in a collision with an automobile driven by Mrs. Helen Hall, 1618 Elm street, Youngstown, at the intersection of Lisbon and West Eighth streets at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon. No one was injured.

Bradfield, police say, was driving in the wrong lane in the direction of Wellsville. He attempted to cut across in front of the Youngstown woman's car which was coming down the hill at a slow rate of speed. The Youngstown machine was only slightly damaged and was driven away under its own power.

Chief of Police Hugh McDermott made an investigation of the crash.

Near-Riot on Floor Of Stock Exchange Over General Motors

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—A rush to buy General Motors stock precipitated a near riot on the floor of the stock exchange today as brokers struggled and tugged at each other in a wild scramble to execute their orders.

The stock soared 10 points in the first half-hour of trading and sold at the record high price of $211¼ a share in blocks from 500 to 5,000 shares. An over-night gain of 4 to 53 points was only a modest introduction to the boiling market for the stock which developed with the influx of buying orders from all sections of the county.

United States Steel, the side partner of General Motors in the July advance in the stock market, surpassed all of its previous records today when it sold at 149½.

Laughlin and Chester Capture Industrial League Games

K. T. K. Defeated, 9-8; Cebula's Curves Awe Wellsville Batsmen

First-half victors on Long End of Score in Zig-Zag Contest at Columbian Park, While Clever Pitching of Riley's Ace Features Central Park Battle.

With both teams hitting handily and scoring recklessly at times Laughlin, first-half winners, finally defeated K. T. K. at Columbian park in what was a zig-zag contest last evening, the score being 9 to 8.

Wild running of the pathways, particularly by Laughlin, featured the contest. Two double steals by Babb and Finley in the third, the latter continuing beyond third and reaching the plate successfully as Bubin walked, being an outstanding occurrence of the contest.

Myers showed his hitting capabilities by slashing out two doubles and a single in three tries for a 1000 mark. Finley, Jackson and Barr swatted at a .667 clip with two safeties in a trio of attempts.

Though Laughlin made three runs in the first, K. T. K. came right back and made four in the second only to have their opponents annex a quintet of runs in the third which the Ohio potters rebutted with three in the third, just one run behind. In the fourth both clubs made a run each and both went scoreless in the fifth which darkness ensuing, continued the one-tally margin in favor of the McCoyites.

Barr, new Laughlin hurler, fresh from a season's non-work with Nash-Turk flung at the victorious end of the game. He allowed nine hits, fanned four, but walked none. But he hit the ball hard despite his enforced absence from the game.

Hi Allison held Laughlin to eight safeties. He, too, fanned four, but he passed four, all of whom subsequently scored. Both pitchers had one assist each.

RECORD CROWD AT WELLSVILLE

But Two Safe Drives are Permitted by Chester Twirler.

Unable to hit M. Cebula, who permitted but two safe drives, Wellsville lost to Chester in a City Industrial league contest at Central park of the down river city last evening. The score was 8 to 1.

Cebula fanned seven men. Wellsville's only run was made in the third when Meyer was safe on Heckathorn's error. The former stole second and reached third on Pott's wide heave on the play. He scored on Rager's grounder to P. Cebula.

Because Wellsville had previously defeated Chester 5 to 1, the largest crowd of the season turned out to witness the contest.

Morgan supplanted Meyers in the fifth after Chester had touched him for four hits which netted three runs.

McMath's single to right in the fifth sent two runs across the plate. Potts, Marshall and Heckathorne then went out in order.

M. Cebula, with two safeties in three attempts, also led his club with the stick. Hancock made a double off him in the second and Deemer, pinch hitting for Rager, in the sixth. Accordingly Cebula has the unique record of permitting but two hits in the last two contests in which he has worked, he having allowed no safe drives in his previous appearance.

MLLE. LENGLEN BECOMES "PRO"

French Tennis Star Will Tour North America.

POURVILLE - SUR-MER, France, Aug. 3.—"During the last few years tennis has taken a new trend and everybody wants to make money out of it, I do think that I should have mine too."

Thus Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen explained today in an interview, her reason for deciding to turn professional and make a tour of the North American continent.

Suzanne, radiant and beaming, appeared in high glee over the contract which she has made with C. C. Pyle, American sports promoter, and she was very frank in her admission that she turned professional because she felt that tennis, to which she has devoted her life, owes her the wealth which will provide for her in the day when her deadly aim, her driving forearm, and her agile legs fail her on the courts.

Suzanne has just one regret, she says over this business of turning professional and that regret concerns Helen Wills, American champion. Suzanne feels that her victory over Miss Wills on the Riviera last winter was not quite decisive enough, and she would like one more match with the Californian. In fact, the French ace cherishes a secret hope that perhaps the United States Lawn Tennis association might waive its regulations long enough to permit Miss Wills to engage in a battle with a professional, providing there is an arrangement whereby the proceeds might to to charity.

DEMPSEY--KEARNS RING CONTRACT EXPIRES

CHAMP DEFERS SIGNING FOR TUNNEY BOUT

Hopes to Evade Payment of Split to Ex-manager.

NO ARMISTICE

Indications are They Will Wind Up in Courts.

By Davis J. Walsh.

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—The estrangement between Jack Dempsey, heavyweight champion of the entire world with the possible exception of Harlem, and Jack Kearns, his whilom manager, became an actuality today when their three-year contract duly expired and died. There will be no reconciliation, no armistice, no truce. The nearest Jack Kearns will be to Dempsey's corner when and if the champion meets Gene Tunney will be a ringside seat at th ecustomary rate of exchange.

Tex Rickard vouched for the accuracy of this statement today when he declared there wasn't the slightest possibility of the pair getting together.

"I'm afraid those two boys are going to wind up battling in the courts," the promoter said. "I hate to see it because I like them both. However, I have not meddled in their affairs and don't intend to do so."

Kearns' Card In Hole.

Be that as it might, Richard revealed the fact that he had been a party to an arrangement, whereby Dempsey may hope to evade payment of Kearns' managerial third of the Tunney purse. He let the well known cat out for an airing when he disclosed the fact that Dempsey had not signed a ringside seat at the customary rate not do so until two days hence.

In brief, he will be able to tell a court of law that Kearns could have no interest in the proceedings because the match was signed for after the expiration of their contract.

Kearns probably will counter with the reply that Dempsey signed an option with Rickard in Texas several months ago, and that besides he, himself, Jack Kearns personally signed the champion for this identical match, as he had every right to do under the terms of their agreement. This document, by the way, makes Dempsey liable to Kearns for one-third of the contractural price provided the boxer match Kearns happened to make for declines to abide by the terms of any him.

Training in Witness Box.

This makes it appear as though Dempsey will do a lot of his training in the witness box. B. C. Clements, Chicago promoter who seems to think he has the champion tied up in a Wills match, tapped him on the head with a summons before he left Colorado Springs. Further, there was a report on Broadway today that Harry Wills would begin some action locally in the hope of starting something that, perhaps, some one else will finish.

Incidentally, it has been noted that Dempsey has wiped Chicago off his itinerary as he journeys east, the inference being that the champion feared further reprisals from the irrepressible Clements. On Thursday, Clements is supposed to put $300,000 in Dempsey's hand, which will be a good trick whether he does it or not. It may be harder to find the hand than the $300,000.

As a matter of fact, Dempsey is likely to spend Thursday formally signing with Rickard. After which there will be no trouble at all beyond the fact that the local license committee may refuse to sanction his appearance in the ring with Tunney.

The more one looks at this proposition, the less one likes it. The only thing that makes it look good is the fact that Rickard is beind it and it is a matter of record that that gentleman hasn't been wrong since his arrival in this man's town.

INSIDE GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON, Maker of 51 Golf Champions. "Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans.

Tying a belt into a loop and placing it about the arms, to hold the arms in position while the swing is made, will reveal several surprising things about the position of the arms throughout the swing when the elbows are thus held in their correct position. Not the least of these will be the position you find the elbows occupying at the finish. With the loop about the arms, you will find the left elbow down at the finish and the right arm projecting more toward straight up. This will happen because the right arm, with the elbows guided correctly by the loop, will shoot straight through the ball as it should while the left arm will travel through on a low plane, following the club head after the ball.

Chester Reserves Defeat Pleasant Heights; Score, 8-6

The Chester Reserves continued their winning streak last night when they defeated the Pleasant Heights team on the hilltop diamond by the score of 8-6. It was the seventh straight victory for the West Virginians. Score:

	R.	H.	E.
Chester	8	10	4
Pleasant Heights	6	5	1

Hendrickson, Zorzie and Maley; Jones and Wright.

The Reserves will meet the Potters' Supply nine of East Liverpool at Smith Field, Chester, Wednesday evening. They will play at Smith's Ferry Friday evening.

Fight Results

AT NEWARK—Billy Petrolle, Fargo, N. D., lightweight, defeated John Secolli, Scranton, Pa., 10 rounds.

AT ATLANTIC CITY—Yale Okun, New York heavyweight, beat Tiger Thomas, Harrisburg, Pa., 8 rounds.

AT MARIETTA, O.—Bucky Riggs, Moundsville, W. Va., defeated Johnny Hamm, Pittsburgh, 12 rounds; Whitey Laubaugh, McKeesport, Pa., drew with Mickey Feodor, Alliance, O., eight rounds.

AT NEW YORK—Pal Morean, New Orleans lightweight, boxed a 10-round draw with Bobby Burns.

Air Circus, Baseball Game on Program for Sportsmen's Outing

Congressman Frank Murphy of Steubenville Will Make Address at Noon Tomorrow at County Fish and Game Protective Association Field Day at Guilford State Park.

Final arrangements have been completed for the eight annual field day of the Columbiana County Fish and Game Protective association to be held at the new Guilford State park on Wednesday. Music by the 35-piece Reed Boys' band of Alliance and an air circus under the direction of the Scherrick flyers will be features of the program.

State Representative Ralph W. Emmons of East Rochester, will be chairman of the day. An address will be delivered at noon by Congressman Frank Murphy, of Steubenville, representing the Eighteenth district.

The field day committee is composed of Randall Hamilton, Lisbon; J. C. Miller, East Liverpool; L. R. Whinnery, Guilford; J. L. King and C. S. Chisholm, both of Salem; Ralph W. Emmons, East Rochester; J. S. Lambing, Wellsville, chairman.

A coon hunt will be directed by Clark Sanders of Lisbon, and trails will be in charge of Jesse Stallsmith of Salem.

Francis Galbreath of Lisbon will conduct rifle and pistol shooting events, while the trap shooting will be in charge of Randall Hamilton of Lisbon. Fishing events will be directed by J. S. Lambing of Wellsville.

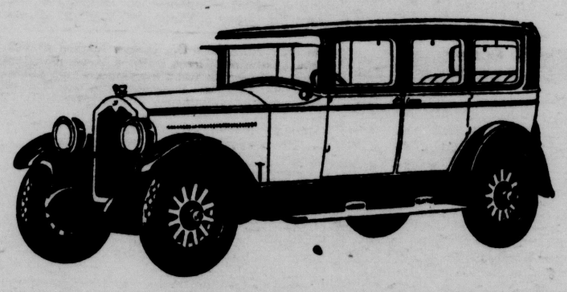

Virgil Richards of the Winchester Repeating Arms Company, of New Haven, Conn., who has won many honors in the United States and Europe as a marksman, will give an exhibition of fancy shooting.

A baseball game between Lisbon and Hanoverton is scheduled for 2 o'clock.

princely luxury, style and speed at moderate cost

WHEN BETTER AUTOMOBILES ARE BUILT, BUICK WILL BUILD THEM

There is princely luxury and refinement apparent in every detail of the 1927 Buick.

New Coronation Colors in Duco; new and exclusive upholsterings and interiorware in the beautiful new closed bodies by Fisher; recessed windows; jet-black tires and jet-black rims—

These are but a few of many smart features.

With this luxury, Buick offers powerful performance as well—and speed to meet the requirements of any driver.

And Buick luxury and performance cost much less than you must pay elsewhere for anything to compare. This is the advantage of enormous volume.

Come in today and see the Greatest Buick Ever Built.

ELECTORS FLOCK TO POLLS HERE

Heavy vote is being cast here today in the state wide primary election at which candidates will be nominated for state, federal, county and district offices.

Electors here are interested chiefly in the proposed $75,000 bond issue for a new school building to be erected in Newell and the choice of two members of the Grant district board of education. District constable will be nominated to fill an existing vacancy.

TAX AMENDMENT BEFORE ELECTORS

Proposed taxation amendment to the constitution will be voted on at the November election. The question was ordered submitted to the electors of the state at the last session of the legislature.

Number of leading citizens of the state are taking a lively interest in the outcome of the proposal.

MANY CASES TO BE INVESTIGATED

Record breaking number of cases will be investigated by the next grand jury which does not meet until October. Since the close of the June term of the circuit court many arrests have been made in which the defendants were bound over to court.

Majority of these cases involve violation of the state prohibition laws.

Game Here Tonight.

Laughlin Grays and Potters Supply teams will hook up in the first of a five game series tonight on the Newell diamond. The second game this week will be staged on Patterson field.

To Enjoy Boat Ride.

Number of local people plan to enjoy the excursion tonight on the steamer Washington. The boat will leave the Broadway wharf in East Liverpool at 8 o'clock.

Pastor Visiting Here.

Rev. and Mrs. Herman H. Hisack and son, Robert, of Perrysville, Pa. are visiting with Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Wilhelm, Grant street.

Central Press Photo

Several major league scouts are trailing the Elmira team in the New York-Pennsylvania league to watch the much touted "Ted" Donovan, its captain and southpaw, first sacker. The player's fielding and throwing is nothing short of sensational and he's batting .300. He leads all first sackers in the Farrell circuit in fielding.

Haskin's Letter

of Madison and of Monroe and of many another famous early statesman.

Connecting at Orange, Virginia, are roads from the east and from the north. To the east lies Fredericksburg, and before it is reached one passes through the terrible battlefields of the campaigns between the States, where Hooker and Meade and Grant pounded long and often vainly against the ranks of Lee at Chancellorsville, in the Wilderness and at Fredericksburg on the banks of the Rappahanock. Beside this road stands the monument on the lonely spot where Stonewall Jackson fell mortally wounded, and the gallant cavalry leader J. E. B. Stuart, fell not many miles from there.

Northward lies the road through Culpeper, Warrenton, and Manassas, past which latter town winds the little stream of Bull Run where Virginia soil was first stained with fraternal blood. Along this road passed Jefferson on his journeys to the north, to Philadelphia, to write the Declaration of Independence, to the new city of Washington, to serve as Vice President with Adams as President, and later to tie his horse before the steps of the Capitol and take the oath as Chief Executive.

And along this road he returned in later years to his one great love, the home he had built on the heights at Monticello overlooking the great valley and the quaint little town where his university was building, the symbol of his belief that only through an educated proletariat could a free government be maintained among men. At Monticello and at the University of Virginia we will find, as thousands of pilgrims are now finding each year, the great monuments to one of the most remarkable of Americans.

TAGGING ALL --BASES--

The baseballs used in the Yankee-White Sox game were wetter than a Pennsylvania congressman as Red Faber and Urban Shocker clashed in a spitball duel. Red expectorated all over New York's winning streak of eleven straight games and halted the league leaders, 2 to 1.

Ehmke and Grove looked to be worth the jack they cost as the A's. slammed the Tigers twice, 6 to 0 and 10 to 1. Manush's eleventh homer of the season was Detroit's only score in eighteen dismal frames.

The Senators smothered the Browns again in a 14 to 11 slugfest. The Nats scored six runs in the eighth and won in the ninth when Bluege cracked a homer with two on.

The Giants crushed the Cardinals for the fourth straight time, 4 to 2, Al Tyson being the big noise. Annoyed because he was beaned by Keen, Al nicked Sherdel for a single which drove in the winning runs.

Pittsburgh lost to the pesky Phillies, who pounded Nichols and Songer, and won 8 to 3. Wayland Dean set the champs down with seven hits.

The Cubs came to life and nosed out the Dodgers, 5 to 4. Hack Wilson got his fifteenth homer of the season.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT TO THE CONSTITUTION OF OHIO.

ARTICLE XVIII, SECTION 11.

PROPOSING AN AMENDMENT TO SECTION 11 OF ARTICLE XVIII OF THE CONSTITUTION OF THE STATE OF OHIO, RELATIVE TO ASSESSMENTS FOR THE COST OF ACQUIRING PROPERTY.

Be it resolved by the General Assembly of the State of Ohio, three-fifths of the members elected to both houses concurring therein:

That there shall be submitted to the electors of this state in the manner provided by law, on the second Tuesday in August, 1926, a proposal to amend section 11 of article XVIII of the constitution of Ohio, so as to read as follows:

Sec. 11. Any municipality acquiring property by purchase or appropriation for a public improvement may provide money therefor, in whole or in part, by assessments upon property benefited by the improvement whether abutting, adjacent or otherwise located. Such assessments shall in no case exceed special benefits conferred thereby.

Be it further resolved, That at such election above referred to this amendment shall be placed on the official ballot, in the manner provided by law and designated as follows:

"To authorize assessment by municipalities of the cost of acquiring property for public improvement upon lands benefited thereby, or, in other language, sufficiently clear to designate such purpose.

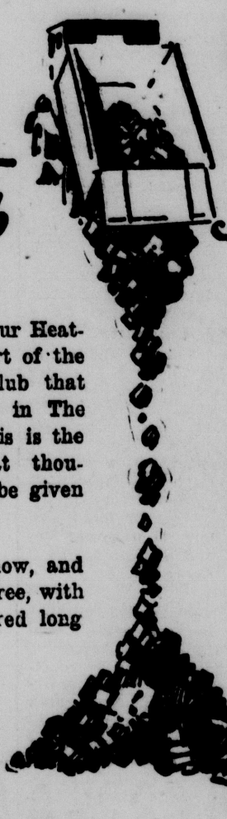

If adopted, said amendment shall take effect on the first day of January, 1927.

Adopted March 27, 1925.

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA,
STATE OF OHIO.
Office of the Secretary of State.
I, THAD BROWN, Secretary of State, of the State of Ohio, do hereby certify that the foregoing is an exemplified copy, carefully compared by me with the original now on file in my office and in my official custody as Secretary of State and found to be true and correct of a Joint Resolution adopted by the 86th General Assembly of the State of Ohio on March 27, 1925, and filed in the office of the Secretary of State, on April 3, 1925, proposing to amend Article XVIII, Section 11 of the Constitution, relative to assessments for the costs of acquiring property.
IN TESTIMONY WHEREOF, I have hereunto subscribed my name and affixed my official seal at Columbus, Ohio, this 15th day of June, A. D. 1926.

REPORT FILED BY COPELAND

Weather Observer Sees Small Chance for Corn Crop.

Last month was the driest July in 33 years, and the harvest one of the largest in recent years, according to the records of Lawrence H. Copeland, cooperative weather observer at Millport, whose report has just been forwarded to the department at Washington.

The cutting of hay has been about completed, and wheat is still in the fields, although thrashing has been going on for some time on some farms.

Assurance of a corn crop is almost abandoned, and the only thing that will save the corn now is an abundance of rain. Pastures are drying up, and many runs have gone dry. Much stock about the county is now on feed.

July had two cool periods and three hot periods, July 21st. being the hottest day of the year, when the temperature stood at 98. The mean maximum temperature for July was 82.2 and the mean minimum was 55.8, with a mean temperature of 69. The minimum temperature for the month of July was 40, which was registered July 2nd. The greatest daily range was also on this latter date when there was a change of 42 degrees in the temperature.

There were eight days in July when the percipitation was .01 or more. July had but 10 clear days, with three cloudy days and 19 partly cloudy days. There were two thunderstorms last month, these being recorded on July 6th. and 22nd.

The rainfall this year so far is five inches below normal, over a period of 33 years, the county records show. Just a year ago the ground was soaked with water, "corn was booming and oats nearly in shock," the report reads. "No oats are cut as yet."

Normal temperature in this county during the last 33 years is 70.6 and the normal percipitation 4.37 inches. In July 1925, the rainfall was 8.15 inches.

CIGARETTE TAX IS DISTRIBUTED

Warrants for the payment of the annual cigarette license money have just been issued by County Auditor Elmer E. Walker. These warrants were sent to the clerks of 11 corporations and 10 townships, the total distribution being $9,329.12.

Of the money distributed from the collection of this license fee, 75 per cent goes to the state, and the 25 per cent going to the corporations is divided equally between the general find and the poor fund, or 12½ per cent to each fund in each corporation and township.

Commissioners Hold Public Road Hearing; Claims Presented

Fewer claims for damages have been filed with the county commissioners on Section G-3 and E of the East Liverpool and Youngstown intercounty highway than any other proposed new highway in the county, the records of the commissioners' journal disclose.

Only 15 claims were filed with the commissioners during a public hearing this week, and 80 per cent of those filing claims asked nothing for land, but made requests for the reconstruction of a fence, the caring of drainage water, the removal of a small building here and there, and similar small requests.

A number of land owners advised the commissioners they were sufficiently pleased to have the road built over the designated route. The road hearing lasted less than one hour. All requests, with the possible exception of three or four were granted by the commissioners, and other claims were held up until a view of the properties in question could be made with County Surveyor Lloyd C. Kirk.

The hearing had to do with the construction of this new road north of Williamsport, upon which sections no contracts have so far been awarded.

MACKALL FILES HIS FIRST CASE

Attorney P. V. Mackall of East Liverpool, recently admitted to the practice of law in Ohio has filed his first case in common pleas court, it being the divorce petition of Ida Bell Pugh against her husband James Samuel Pugh, residing on R. F. D. No. 1, Grafton, W. Va.

The petition relates the couple were married at Chester, W. Va., Dec. 28, 1912. Gross neglect of duty is charged. It is also declared in the petition that although Pugh is making $200 per month, he abandoned the plaintiff and her children Dec. 22, 1924, and that he has never contributed anything to their support.

It is also related in the petition that Pugh had been arrested for non-support and that he gave bond, following his plea of guilty, and that after the bond was filed, he left the jurisdiction of the court.

Cited for Contempt.

Sheriff George Wright has been ordered by Judge W. H. Spence to present George H. Heckathorne in common pleas court next Friday under a contempt of court order. In the divorce action filed by Ruth M. Heckathorne against her husband George H. Heckathorne, the court ordered the custody of children to be given the mother. It is now contended that this order of court has been violated by the defendant.

Seek To Modify Order.

An application has been filed in common pleas court in the divorce action of Irene Lutton against her husband George R. Lutton to modify a former order of alimony. The application will be heard by Judge W. H. Spence next Friday morning.

Former Class Members Will Be Entertained In Bethesda Church

Members of the Sunday school classes of Miss Lura Fife and L. H. Copeland, will entertain all former members in the basement of the Bethesda Presbyterian church, Saturday evening, August 7. Dinner will be served at 6 P. M. Former teachers of Miss Fife's class were Mrs. J. G. Black, Mrs. E. J. Travers and Mrs. E. J. Cox. L. H. Copeland has been teaching his class 25 years. Many former members of these classes are scattered in various parts of the country. More than 200 invitations have been sent out, and a large crowd is expected. Miss Helen Black, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. J. G. Black, a former pastor, and a product of Bethesda church will be a guest of honor. Miss Black, who has spent the past seven years as a missionary in India, will conclude a furlough, September 6, returning to her work in India. She will give a talk on "Mission Work in India."

SHASTEEN HELD FOR GRAND JURY

Albert Shasteen of Hanover township, Lincoln highway, who was arrested Thursday of last week following a raid on his home by Sheriff George Wetzel of Centre township, entered a plea of not guilty to a charge of possessing implements for the manufacturing of intoxicating liquor when given a hearing before Justice M. K. Zimerman at Lisbon Monday night, and was bound over to the grand jury under $1,000 bond.

What is considered the most complete still ever uncovered in the county was found when the officers visited the Shasteen house. The still was in operation in the basement of the small house, and the officers after dumping a lot of mash and liquor, took eight gallon of liquor with them, together with 200 pounds of sugar, ground mash and the still. The entire outfit is now under guard at the county jail.

Marriage Licenses.

A marriage license has been issued to Harold C. Kaufman, a machinist and son of Mr. and Mrs. William T. Kaufman of East Liverpool and Miss Helen F. Dunn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Dunn, also of East Liverpool. They are to be married by the Rev. John F. Dimit of the Methodist Protestant church at East Liverpool.

George W. Spratley, a decorator, and Miss Ruth E. Maloney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William T. Maloney of East Liverpool have obtained a marriage license, and are to be married by the Rev. J. G. Reinartz, of St. Johns Evangelical Lutheran church of East Liverpool.

Street Fair Planned.

The annual street fair at Columbiana has been set for Sept. 17-18 by Benjamin Firestone Post, American Legion, which organization has been sponsering the fair for some years. This fair will immediately follow the county fair at Lisbon, which is scheduled for Sept. 14-15 and 16.

Many concessions at the county fair will move to Columbiana, which has also been a rule in former years. Two automobiles are to be given away the last night of the fair.

WORK LAUNCHED ON NEW BRIDGE

N. R. Porterfield of Youngstown, recently awarded the contract for the construction of a new concrete bridge on the Westville-Alliance road plans to have his contract finished and the road opened to through traffic about August 15, it has been announced by County Surveyor Lloyd C. Kirk.

This road is now being surface treated by the state highway department, and a detour has been arranged around the bridge that is now under construction.

According to agreement with the Knox township trustees and the county commissioners, made a matter of record several years ago, this road will be topped with a paving block surface within a few years.

Divorce Decree Issued.

A decree of divorce has been handed down by Judge W. H. Spence to Margaret Baker, a minor, who through her next friend Ellan Hester filed an action for divorce in common pleas court against her husband Carl F. Baker. The decree was granted on the grounds of gross neglect of duty. The plaintiff has also been restored by the court to her maiden name, that of Margaret Hester.

Judgment Asked.

A petition has ben filed in common pleas court by Brooks & Thompson of East Liverpool in behalf of the Erwin Feldspar company, seeking judgment for $6,057.58 and interest from March 12th, 1926, against Richard C. Sant. The claim is based upon an account claimed to be due for merchandise sold and delivered defendant at his request.

Alimony Order.

In the divorce action now pending in common pleas court wherin Myrtle Isabelle Pugh is seeking a decree against her husband, Harold E. Pugh, the defendant has been ordered by the court to pay his wife $30 alimony on or before Aug. 14th, the payment of an order under a former order of court. After this payment, Pugh has been ordered by Judge Spence to give $200 for the satisfaction of the order.

Bed-Bugs?
Instant Death for the Pesky Creatures
Yes, instant death to bed-bugs, roaches or fleas. The moment P.D.Q., the new chemical discovery touches these insects they die. Can do no damage to your springs, or furniture; won't rot or stain clothing. P.D.Q. is used and recommended by leading hotels, hospitals and railroads as the quickest and safest way of getting rid of pesky insects. Instantly it smothers and kills the living creatures; coats their eggs, and stops them from hatching and multiplying. A 35c package of this golden chemical will make a quart of mixture—so deadly it will kill a million bed-bugs. P.D.Q. can also be had in double-strength liquid form—ready for use. Free patent spout enables you to reach hard-to-get-at places with ease. Get P.D.Q. at your druggist's today. Your money back if the bugs are not gone tomorrow.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE.

Bee and Lou are modern girls sharing a Greenwich Village apartment. Bee is an actress, at present in the chorus, but keeping a stiff upper lip and a fond hope of success. Into the Village comes Delia, frail poetess of New England, seeking freedom from the repressions of her home. And Bee, a school chum of the freedom-seeking, invites her to share their apartment. Delia is determined to win through to the freedom she came for. Before the first evening is well under way Delia has met Wilbur, a young artist who is suffering from "too much mother" and whom Lou has undertaken to rescue; and Leslie, intimate of Lou, and Arthur Rockwell, the poet whose work Delia knows and admires, and various others of the Village crowd.

Bee and Lou have their troubles. Bee is beset by a highly successful young business man who wants to marry her and carry her off from the Village; Lou and Leslie come to a misunderstanding because of her efforts in behalf of Wilbur. And Delia fast succumbs to the fascination of Rockwell, who is unscrupulous in love. Matters grow tense. Bee loses her theater job and takes to waiting in a Village tea room. Wilbur, driven desperate by his mother, prevails on Lou to pretend she is engaged to him. This, though unhappily, she undertakes to do. Bee and Fred appear to have broken off definitely and Delia begins to discover the tragedy of trusting Arthur. Bee, in a final effort to find work on the stage attempts work as a chorus girl in a revue but discovers she is expected to pose in the nude as part of an "art" presentation. She flares up, leaves the job and is readjusting her philosophy as this instalment begins.

A chapter missed from this point on spoils the effect of a really good story.

CHAPTER THIRTY-ONE.

"Isn't self-interest the most important factor?" asked Bee, intense in working out her newly accented philosophy.

"I thing it is."

"Think nothing! You know it's so. Where's your logic. The sane thing is honest self-interest. Self-pity is a vice. Look at Wilbur's mother!" ("I've been looking at her," murmured Lou.) "This rotten old possessive instinct is another vice. Wilbur's mother again; and Leslie, and Fred. You can't own another human creature. You can only accept what other creatures are moved to give you, and they what you're moved to give them. Isn't that fundamental sense?" (Oh, you," breather Lou, "of course.") "You can't carry other people's lives along without pauperizing them emotionally—any more than you can carry them financially. You can't. This muddled old world hasn't learned that yet, and as a result it's filthy—outraged wives, ruined girls, alimony, all that dirty stuff. Love never ruined anybody. Love's a joy, or it's nothing. Take Delia, now—"

"This I've observed," put in Lou, absorbed by her own deep thoughts, "in the business: I wouldn't for a minute hang onto a stenographer or an errand boy that didn't measure up to the work, I'd discharge 'em quick."

"Exactly. It wouldn't matter to you if they went in for self-pity."

"Not at all."

"You'd know it was the beest thing for them to throw them out to sink or swim."

"That's just what I'm grouping around to. It would be the best thing for them. Certainly I'd know that. Over and over again I've seen some of our boys and girls made, really made, by just that sort of rough treatment. Taught humility, I mean—thrown bang up against the truth, sobered up, tempered. And I've been wondering lately if we shouldn't accept the same philosophy in matters of the emotions."

"That's what I'm telling you, Lou. Isn't it fundamental truth?"

"I'm not sure that it isn't."

"But it is! This Victorian civilization has made the awful mess of things we see around us precisely by going false on that one point. Sentimentalizing life. They're just about wrecked the whole darn thing by going false there. Just as sentimentality would wreck your business in a year. Take Delia, now: She's vague and imaginative and helpless and out for a thrill. All right. Since she's all set for it, let her have it. After all, it's nothing but experience. It'll either make her or break her. She's got to live it out. Likely as not, it'll stir her up to real poetry. Make a success of her. Her own personal happiness or unhappiness doesn't matter. Probably unhappiness is what she needs." And Bee quoted Heine:

"Aus meninen grossen Schmerzon
Mach Ich die kleine Lieder."

"The only out about it—and I'm not wholly convinced yet that you can carry the philosophy of business life over onto the emotional plane—oh, I'm receptive, but not entirely convinced—the out I seem to be struggling with is this old maternal instinct."

"Look out for sentimentality, Lou."

"Yes, of course it may be that I've simply got a weak streak in me. Something I've got to reckon with. I don't know. Mind you, I'm not arguing for it. I'm just trying to figure it out. No use going into the details, but—oh, well, I'm afraid I thought I was independent and strong, and I had this deep impulse to help weaker folks. Yes, carry them emotionally. I indulged it, all over the place! And as a result I'm in a most awful mess. Just a mess! That's why I've begun to feel that you may be right."

"It looks very, very clear to me," said Bee soberly.

"But on the other hand, the mothering impulse is just as strong as ever. It's a fact. It's real. I don't know what to do about it. I'm pretty shaken, Bee." This was a moving admission. "I seem to be living in a paradox. I'll confess it beats me. It's not that what you say doesn't seem logical to me—more than logical; true. But that truth simply emphasizes the complexity of life. Sometimes I wonder if this queer business of life isn't made up of a lot of contradictory truths battling each new line of force that nobody can see now. The eternal biological struggle. I don't know. But it beats me. I'm bang up against a wall, Bee."

This was the real Louise, puzzled, stung, speaking out from a heart that had seldom in their deep friendship found direct voice. "You know, of course, that I'm going through a pretty difficult time with Leslie. He writes. Oh, the reproaches! And no matter how often I settle the thing in my mind, there are moments—it's all coming out now, Bee—when I'm afraid I'll just give up and marry him. Through sheer weakness, I suppose. Surrender to emotion and pity. Though it's an idea I can't face mentally. And then there's Wilbur. Right around my neck. You've no idea what—" She closed her lips on that.

"But you can't marry Leslie to get rid of him, Lou. That wouldn't be honest."

"No."

"And you can't marry Wilbur to save him from his mother."

"No."

"No more than I could marry Fred to save him from himself. I might as well marry for a living, and that's about the lowest thing of all. And the most common."

For a time the two girls gave way to a moody silence that was at length broken by Bee. "I wonder," she mused, darkly, "I wonder what's going to become of us two. I'm just about fed up, myself."

Leads in Rebuilding Grandeur of Roman Social Civilization

In rebuilding Rome as the world's center of culture Premier Mussolini is not overlooking his human material. Hostesses of charm and distnction are necessary. One of the leaders of Roman society is presented herewith, the Baroness Scariglia, whose social functions have long been among the most brilliant in the Eternal City.

Jewish Zealots Seek To Revive Sacrifices At Ancient Mosque

JERUSALEM—Permission to bring a burnt offering to Mount Moriah, where the Mosque of Omah stands, is being sought by a small faction of Jewish zealots.

They have asked their lawyer to endeavor to persuade the Supreme Moslem Council to allow the erection of altars where a temple once stood in order to revise the sacrifices interrupted when the temple was destroyed 2,000 years ago.

Several Hebron ritual animal slaughters were suspected of conducting secret animal sacrifices in anticipation of a revival of sacrificial worship.

BIG FILM HIT AT CERAMIC

"Fascinating Youth" is Paramount's Latest Comedy.

Novelty—thy name is Cinema.

"Fascinating Youth," Paramount's latest comedy, opened at the Ceramic theatre last night. It is no ordinary film—this hilarious concoction. Rather is it unique in that an original idea has been successfully employed.

The principal parts are all enacted by members of the Paramount Picture School. This, you will remember was the outcome of last year's nation-wide hunt for hidden talent. The boys and girls appearing in the film, would seem to be the "cream of the cream." And—strange to say—every single mother's son or daughter, does his or her work in a manner that would win laurels for any experienced player.

Perhaps credit for the picture's success is due Director Sam Wood. Certainly, it takes patience, experience and a whole lot of knowledge to make a flock of amateurs act as though they had lived their lives in front of a camera.

Byron Morgan's story concerns itself with a rich youth who lives in Greenwich Village and has nothing else to do but stage Charleston parties. It must be admitted though, that all his little playmates are agile and dept dancers. Then along comes papa.

"Make good on a job I'll give you—or marry the girl I've picked out."

And so—that he may wed the girl of his own heart, our hero starts to make his father's dreary winter resort a success. How he does this, with the aid of his friends, goes to make a very amusing comedy.

Everything needed to produce a good picture has been included in "Fascinating Youth." We have youth, beauty, action, romance, thrills, sport and a hundred other ingredients—more than enough to go round and satisfy all fans.

In addition to the Junior Stars, a cast of experienced players headed by Ralph Lewis, is seen. And—there's a surprise contained in the film which is too good to divulge. Just go to—and regain some of your "Fascinating Youth."

Laughlin and Chester Capture Industrial League Games

K. T. K. Defeated, 9-8; Cebula's Curves Awe Wellsville Batsmen

First-half victors on Long End of Score in Zig-Zag Contest at Columbian Park, While Clever Pitching of Riley's Ace Features Central Park Battle.

With both teams hitting handily and scoring recklessly at times Laughlin, first-half winners, finally defeated K. T. K. at Columbian park in what was a zig-zag contest last evening, the score being 9 to 8.

Wild running of the pathways, particularly by Laughlin, featured the contest. Two double steals by Babb and Finley in the third, the latter continuing beyond third and reaching the plate successfully as Bubin walked, being an outstanding occurrence of the contest.

Myers showed his hitting capabilities by slashing out two doubles and a single in three tries for a 1000 mark. Finley, Jackson and Barr swatted at a .667 clip with two safeties in a trio of attempts.

Though Laughlin made three runs in the first, K. T. K. came right back and made four in the second only to have their opponents annex a quintet of runs in the third which the Ohio potters rebutted with three in the third, just one run behind. In the fourth both clubs made a run each and both went scoreless in the fifth which darkness ensuing, continued the one-tally margin in favor of the McCoyites.

Barr, new Laughlin hurler, fresh from a season's non-work with Nash-Turk flung at the victorious end of the game. He allowed nine hits, fanned four, but walked none. But he hit the ball hard despite his enforced absence from the game.

Hi Allison held Laughlin to eight safeties. He, too, fanned four, but he passed four, all of whom subsequently scored. Both pitchers had one assist each.

RECORD CROWD AT WELLSVILLE

But Two Safe Drives are Permitted by Chester Twirler.

Unable to hit M. Cebula, who permitted but two safe drives, Wellsville lost to Chester in a City Industrial league contest at Central park of the down river city last evening. The score was 8 to 1.

Cebula fanned seven men. Wellsville's only run was made in the third when Meyer was safe on Heckathorn's error. The former stole second and reached third on Pott's wide heave on the play. He scored on Rager's grounder to P. Cebula.

Because Wellsville had previously defeated Chester 5 to 1, the largest crowd of the season turned out to witness the contest.

Morgan supplanted Meyers in the fifth after Chester had touched him for four hits which netted three runs.

McMath's single to right in the fifth sent two runs across the plate. Potts, Marshall and Heckathorne then went out in order.

M. Cebula, with two safeties in three attempts, also led his club with the stick. Hancock made a double off him in the second and Deemer, pinch hitting for Rager, in the sixth. Accordingly Cebula has the unique record of permitting but two hits in the last two contests in which he has worked, he having allowed no safe drives in his previous appearance.

K. of C.-Golden Star Dairy Game Ends in 3-3 Tie

The Knights of Columbus and Golden Star Dairy team played to a 3-3 tie at Glenmoor last night, darkness putting an end to the battle which was witnessed by many fans from the Lincoln highway district.

Carey and Kinsey were at points for the Glenmoor nine, while McKenna and Gerace formed the lodge men's battery.

MLLE. LENGLEN BECOMES "PRO"

French Tennis Star Will Tour North America.

POURVILLE - SUR-MER, France, Aug. 3.—"During the last few years tennis has taken a new trend and everybody wants to make money out of it, I do think that I should have mine too."

Thus Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen explained today in an interview, her reason for deciding to turn professional and make a tour of the North American continent.

Suzanne, radiant and beaming, appeared in high glee over the contract which she has made with C. C. Pyle, American sports promoter, and she was very frank in her admission that she turned professional because she felt that tennis, to which she has devoted her life, owes her the wealth which will provide for her in the day when her deadly aim, her driving forearm, and her agile legs fail her on the courts.

Suzanne has just one regret, she says over this business of turning professional and that regret concerns Helen Wills, American champion. Suzanne feels that her victory over Miss Wills on the Riviera last winter was not quite decisive enough, and she would like one more match with the Californian. In fact, the French ace cherishes a secret hope that perhaps the United States Lawn Tennis association might waive its regulations long enough to permit Miss Wills to engage in a battle with a professional, providing there is an arrangement whereby the proceeds might to to charity.

MORGAN-DUNDEE BOUT SEPT. 9

DEMPSEY--KEARNS RING CONTRACT EXPIRES

CHAMP DEFERS SIGNING FOR TUNNEY BOUT

Hopes to Evade Payment of Split to Ex-manager.

NO ARMISTICE

By Davis J. Walsh.

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—The estrangement between Jack Dempsey, heavyweight champion of the entire world with the possible exception of Harlem, and Jack Kearns, his whilom manager, became an actuality today when their three-year contract duly expired and died. There will be no reconciliation, no armistice, no truce. The nearest Jack Kearns will be to Dempsey's corner when and if the champion meets Gene Tunney will be a ringside seat at th ecustomary rate of exchange.

Tex Rickard vouched for the accuracy of this statement today when he declared there wasn't the slightest possibility of the pair getting together.

"I'm afraid those two boys are going to wind up battling in the courts," the promoter said. "I hate to see it because I like them both. However, I have not meddled in their affairs and don't intend to do so."

Kearns' Card In Hole.

Be that as it might, Richard revealed the fact that he had been a party to an arrangement, whereby Dempsey may hope to evade payment of Kearns' managerial third of the Tunney purse. He let the well known cat out for an airing when he disclosed the fact that Dempsey had not signed a ringside seat at the customary rate not do so until two days hence.

In brief, he will be able to tell a court of law that Kearns could have no interest in the proceedings because the match was signed for after the expiration of their contract.

Kearns probably will counter with the reply that Dempsey signed an option with Rickard in Texas several months ago, and that besides he, himself, Jack Kearns personally signed the champion for this identical match, as he had every right to do under the terms of their agreement. This document, by the way, makes Dempsey liable to Kearns for one-third of the contractural price provided the boxer match Kearns happened to make for declines to abide by the terms of any him.

Training in Witness Box.

This makes it appear as though Dempsey will do a lot of his training in the witness box. B. C. Clements, Chicago promoter who seems to think he has the champion tied up in a Wills match, tapped him on the head with a summons before he left Colorado Springs. Further, there was a report on Broadway today that Harry Wills would begin some action locally in the hope of starting something that, perhaps, some one else will finish.

Incidentally, it has been noted that Dempsey has wiped Chicago off his itinerary as he journeys east, the inference being that the champion feared further reprisals from the irrepressible Clements. On Thursday, Clements is supposed to put $300,000 in Dempsey's hand, which will be a good trick whether he does it or not. It may be harder to find the hand than the $300,000.

As a matter of fact, Dempsey is likely to spend Thursday formally signing with Rickard. After which there will be no trouble at all beyond the fact that the local license committee may refuse to sanction his appearance in the ring with Tunney.

The more one looks at this proposition, the less one likes it. The only thing that makes it look good is the fact that Rickard is beind it and it is a matter of record that that gentleman hasn't been wrong since his arrival in this man's town.

Acme Team Hangs Up 5 to 1 Victory Over East End Team

The East Liverpool Acmes registered another victory at Patterson field Sunday afternoon at the expense of the East End Bulldozers. The score was 5 to 1. Carey and Gilchrist twirled for the winners, while Sutherin was on the mound for the visitors.

The Acmes are out with a challenge to the Bulger Drugs, the Chester Reserves and the Madison Billiards. Call Elmer Carey, manager, telephone 2049-W.

INSIDE GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON, Maker of 51 Golf Champions. "Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans.

Tying a belt into a loop and placing it about the arms, to hold the arms in position while the swing is made, will reveal several surprising things about the position of the arms throughout the swing when the elbows are thus held in their correct position. Not the least of these will be the position you find the elbows occupying at the finish. With the loop about the arms, you will find the left elbow down at the finish and the right arm projecting more toward straight up. This will happen because the right arm, with the elbows guided correctly by the loop, will shoot straight through the ball as it should while the left arm will travel through on a low plane, following the club head after the ball.

The GREATEST BUICK EVER BUILT

WHEN BETTER AUTOMOBILES ARE BUILT, BUICK WILL BUILD THEM

There is princely luxury and refinement apparent in every detail of the 1927 Buick.

New Coronation Colors in Duco; new and exclusive upholsterings and interiorware in the beautiful new closed bodies by Fisher; recessed windows; jet-black tires and jet-black rims—

These are but a few of many smart features.

With this luxury, Buick offers powerful performance as well—and speed to meet the requirements of any driver.

And Buick luxury and performance cost much less than you must pay elsewhere for anything to compare. This is the advantage of enormous volume.

of Madison and of Monroe and of many another famous early statesman.

Connecting at Orange, Virginia, are roads from the east and from the north. To the east lies Fredericksburg, and before it is reached one passes though the terrible battlefields of the campaigns between the States, where Hooker and Meade and Grant pounded long and often vainly against the ranks of Lee at Chancellorsville, in the Wilderness and at Fredericksburg on the banks of the Rappahanock. Beside this road stands the monument on the lonely spot where Stonewall Jackson fell mortally wounded, and the gallant cavalry leader J. E. B. Stuart, fell not many miles from there.

Northward lies the road through Culpeper, Warrenton, and Manassas, past which latter town winds the little stream of Bull Run where Virginia soil was first stained with fraternal blood. Along this road passed Jefferson on his journeys to the north, to Philadelphia, to write the Declaration of Independence, to the new city of Washington, to serve as Vice President with Adams as President, and later to tie his horse before the steps of the Capitol and take the oath as Chief Executive.

And along this road he returned in later years to his one great love, the home he had built on the heights at Monticello overlooking the great valley and the quaint little town where his university was building, the symbol of his belief that only through an educated proletariat could a free government be maintained among men. At Monticello and at the University of Virginia we will find, as thousands of pilgrims are now finding each year, the great monuments to one of the most remarkable of Americans.

TAGGING ALL --BASES--

The baseballs used in the Yankee-White Sox game were wetter than a Pennsylvania congressman as Red Faber and Urban Shocker clashed in a spitball duel. Red expectorated all over New York's winning streak of eleven straight games and halted the league leaders, 2 to 1.

Ehmke and Grove looked to be worth the jack they cost as the A's slammed the Tigers twice, 6 to 0 and 10 to 1. Manush's eleventh homer of the season was Detroit's only score in eighteen dismal frames.

The Senators smothered the Browns again in a 14 to 11 slugfest. The Nats scored six runs in the eighth and won in the ninth when Bluege cracked a homer with two on.

The Giants crushed the Cardinals for the fourth straight time, 4 to 2, Al Tyson being the big noise. Annoyed because he was beaned by Keen, Al nicked Sherdel for a single which drove in the winning runs.

Pittsburgh lost to the pesky Phillies, who pounded Nichols and Songer, and won 8 to 3. Wayland Dean set the champs down with seven hits.

The Cubs came to life and nosed out the Dodgers, 5 to 4. Hack Wilson got his fifteenth homer of the season.

IN THE STATE OF OHIO, COLUMBIANA COUNTY, SS.
IN THE PROBATE COURT
John Kountz, executor of the estate of John Todd Kountz, deceased, plaintiff, vs. Grant Wenzlaff, Hattie McGlennen, Eliza Thorn, Will Malone, Ruth Malone Sheets and Alex Fryman, defendants.
NOTICE.
Grant Wenzlaff, who resides at Tober, Boubommo County, South Dakota and Hattie McGlennen, 3419 Liberty Avenue, Pittsburgh, Pa., will take notice that John Kountz, Executor of the Estate of John Todd Kountz, deceased, on the 2nd day of August, 1926, filed his petition in the Probate Court of Columbiana County, Ohio, alleging that it will be necessary to sell said Real Estate to carry out the requests and bequeaths made by the last Will and Testament of the said John Todd Kountz deceased; that he died seized in fee simple of the following described Real Estate to wit: Being part of Fractional Section Number Thirty-five (35) Township Number Five (5) (Liverpool) and Range one (1) and bounded as follows: beginning at a point twelve inches S. 89 degrees E. from an iron pin planted in the center of the East Liverpool-Wellsville road, and at the North West corner of a lot owned by L. N. Bennett; thence S. 5½ degrees W. 214' 2" to the North right of way line of the East Liverpool-Steubenville Electric Railway; thence with said right of way N. 84 degrees E. 25' 4"; thence N. 5½ degrees E. 212' 0" to a point in the said East Liverpool-Wellsville road thence with the center of said road N. 89 degrees W. 25' 0" to the place of beginning, containing 0.123 acres of land.
The prayer of the said Petition that said property be sold to carry out the requests and bequeaths made by the last will and Testament of the said John Todd Kountz, deceased, as aforesaid. Grant Wenzlaff and Hattie McGlennen are hereby notified that they have been made parties Defendants to said petition and that they are required to answer the same on or before the 4th day of Sept. 1926.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT TO THE CONSTITUTION OF OHIO.
ARTICLE XVIII, SECTION 11.
PROPOSING AN AMENDMENT TO SECTION 11 OF ARTICLE XVIII OF THE CONSTITUTION OF THE STATE OF OHIO, RELATIVE TO ASSESSMENTS FOR THE COST OF ACQUIRING PROPERTY.

Be it resolved by the General Assembly of the State of Ohio, three-fifths of the members elected to both houses concurring therein:

That there shall be submitted to the electors of this state in the manner provided by law, on the second Tuesday in August, 1926, a proposal to amend section 11 of article XVIII of the constitution of Ohio, so as to read as follows:

Sec. 11. Any municipality acquiring property by purchase or appropriation for a public improvement may provide money therefor, in whole or in part, by assessments upon property benefited by the improvement whether abutting, adjacent or otherwise located. Such assessments shall in no case exceed special benefits conferred thereby.

Be it further resolved, That at such election above referred to this amendment shall be placed on the official ballot, in the manner provided by law and designated as follows:

"To authorize assessment by municipalities of the cost of acquiring property for public improvement upon lands benefited thereby," or, in other language, sufficiently clear to designate such purpose.

If adopted, said amendment shall take effect on the first day of January, 1927.

Adopted March 27, 1925.

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA,
STATE OF OHIO.
Office of the Secretary of State.
I, THAD BROWN, Secretary of State, of the State of Ohio, do hereby certify that the foregoing is an exemplified copy, carefully compared by me with the original now on file in my office and in my official custody as Secretary of State and found to be true and correct of a Joint Resolution adopted by the 86th General Assembly of the State of Ohio on March 27, 1925, and filed in the office of the Secretary of State, on April 3, 1925, proposing to amend Article XVIII, Section 11 of the Constitution, relative to assessments for the costs of acquiring property.
IN TESTIMONY WHEREOF, I have hereunto subscribed my name and affixed my official seal at Columbus, Ohio, this 15th day of June, A. D. 1926.

3 DEAD IN OHIO SHOOTING

WEIRTON WORKER FALLS 225 FEET TO DEATH

Today

He Wasn't Vaccinated.
Smith Underestimated.
Morgan's Train.
Europe Flies, We Sit.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

(The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review-Tribune.)

Copyright, 1926, by the Star Co

SOME say vaccination is not useful or necessary. Consider a case made public by Dr. Mathias Nicoll, New York State Health Commissioner.

Forty-three cases of smallpox have recently developed in New York. In one case all members of a large family, except one, were vaccinated. The one said he was healthy, didn't believe in smallpox, had conscientious objections. They gave him his choice, vaccination or twenty days quarantine.

He took the quarantine and, the twenty days ended, had developed a serious case of smallpox. All of his family, also exposed to the contagion, but vaccinated, had no smallpox. That fact outweighs a good deal of theory.

SENATOR CARAWAY, who controlled the Arkansas delegation in the last Democratic convention says, "Governor Smith cannot be elected President because he is a Catholic and a wet," and adds, "If Governor Smith were a Baptist, Methodist, or Presbyterian, he could be elected President, but his Catholicism is against him."

Republicans will be glad that this is said by a Democratic Senator, not by a Republican. A similar remark by the Reverend Mr. Burchard cost James G. Blaine the presidency. Senator Caraway professes to believe that a Democrat will be elected president in 1928, not McAdoo or Smith, but one whose name is now not mentioned. He is mistaken about that. If the Democratic convention rejects Governor Smith, solely because he is a Catholic, no Democrat will be elected in 1928.

THE strength of Governor Al Smith is underestimated by some of his Democratic brethren. He knows politics and many influential friends througout the nation. The thing to increase his strength is the statement that he cannot be elected president because he happens to be a Catholic.

The people want to keep government, politics and elections apart from religious questions.

SENATOR CARAWAY tells the newspapers, "The recent arrival of many Cardinals and their sumptuous passage across the country in a monarchial train did not help to soften matters. It served to stir up the old issues which have so long disturbed our political life."

Governor Smith is not responsible for the special train in which the Cardinals went to Chicago. That was arranged by the New York Central.

Economy Ideas In Sewing

Do you know that a man's shirt that is worn at the collar and cuffs will make a little three or four-year-old girl a nice dress?

That you can cover the line of a let-out hem with a row of running stitch embroidery, so that rickrack braid, sewn on over the mark, will add to the attractiveness of the dress? No one will ever suspect it is let down.

That you can make a pretty apron for your little girl out of just one-half yard of material?

These are only a few of the suggestions, together with directions for carrying them ont, that are contained in the Sewing booklet which this bureau offers for distribution.

Your copy is waiting. Enclose FOUR CENTS in stamps for return postage and handling.

CLAUDE M. CONNORS, 26, PLUNGES FROM STACK IN STEEL MILL YARD

Scaffold Collapses When Pittsburgh Construction Company Employe Drops Heavy Piece of Timber.

VICTIM'S BODY BADLY CRUSHED

Coroner George Arner of Chester, Who Conducts Inquest, Returns "Accidental Death" Verdict.

Claude M. Connors, 26, Bessemer, Pa., employed by the Emerson Construction company, Pittsburgh, Pa., was killed yesterday afternoon in a 225-foot fall from a stack on which he was working in the yard of the Weirton Steel company at Weirton, W. Va.

Connors, whose body was badly crushed, was taken to the Ohio Valley hospital, Steubenville, where he died two hours later.

Body Shipped To Bessemer.

The accident occurred when the scaffold on which Connors was working collapsed after one of the supports was struck by a heavy piece of timber which the workman had thrown over his shoulder to the ground.

Coroner George A. Arner, of Chester, conducted an inquest last night and returned a verdict of "accidental death."

The body of Connors, who was unmarried, was shipped today to his home in Bessemer.

Fire Chief Plans Shower Party for Children Tomorrow

Heeding the suggestion made by The Review-Tribune, Fire Chief Bryan today announced plans for a shower party to be given on Broadway in front of the down town postoffice between 2 and 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. Two members of the night platoon will man the hose. Broadway will be closed between Fourth and Fifth streets during the period in which the children will frolic beneath the cooling spray.

All children over the age of two years are invited. A bathing suit is the only requirement.

Robert F. Thompson, 54, Admits Brutal Murder.

COSHOCTON, Aug. 3. — "Robert Thompson has been removed from jail here. I will not say where he was taken or when, but it was safer away from here," was the announcement made at noon today by Sheriff Marquard here.

COSHOCTON, Aug. 3.—Quiet reigned today here after a night of nervousness. Fear of a mob storming the county jail to reach Robert F. Thompson, 54 years old, self-admitted slayer of Gertrude D'Orstroph, 10, whose mutilated body was found Saturday afternoon, had subsided and special guards returned to their homes after an all-night vigil.

No appeal will be made for troops, according to officials today.

Several hundred men and women gathered about the jail last night as rumors reached the town of a mob

Mrs. Sarah Shapiro Named in $20,000 Auto Crash Case

Mrs. Sarah Shapiro, 529 Mulberry street, has been named defendant in a suit for $20,000 damages filed in common pleas court, Lisbon, by Thomas A. Shegog, ceramic engineer, who was injured in an automobile accident at the foot of Broadway, on June 2, last.

Shegog who is represented by the law firm of Anderson, Lamb & Marsteller, Youngstown, charges that his injuries are of a permanent nature. Carelessness on the part of the driver of the machine is charged in the petition.

NAGEL LAUDS MODERN YOUTH

Y. M. C. A. Secretary Speaks at Rotary Luncheon.

The youth of today is no worse—in fact, a little better if anything—than the youth of yesterday, W. H. Nagel, general secretary of the Y. M. C. A., told 40 members of the Rotary club luncheon meeting in the banquet hall of the Y at noon today.

Attorney Blaine Cochran rendered a solo, "Rose Marie." As an encore he and Mrs. Danks Cochran, accompanist, sang "Indian Love Song" from the opera, "Rose Marie." Malcolm Thompson presided at the meeting.

Announcement was made that Dr. Carnes, Canton steel official, would be the speaker at next Tuesday's meeting. J. Donald Thompson will be chairman.

In his defense of the modern youth, Secretary Nagel declared that the young man of today has more temptations to face than the youth of 40 years ago.

"One of the greatest temptations facing the young man of today is what to do in his leisure time," he said. The working hours have been reduced to eight, seven and six hours. The young man has no way to put in his leisure time like the mature

SUMMON CLEARY TO COLUMBUS AFTER MELLETT INQUIRY CLASH

Governor Explains He is "Taking Cognizance of Rumors."

SEEK SUSPECT

Detective Slater Predicts Arrest of Patrick E. McDermott.

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 3.—Joseph Cleary, Columbus detective sent to Canton by Governor Donahey to aid Canton and Stark county authorities in solving the murder of Don R. Mellett, editor of the Canton Daily News, was summoned today to appear at the governor's office here tomorrow morning for a conference.

The governor explained his action as "taking cognizance of the rumors coming from Canton."

He did not say Cleary would not return to the scene of the investigations in Stark county, but said: "We sent Cleary to help and cooperate up there. If they don't need him any longer, we will keep him here. I am going to communicate with Acting Police Chief Earl Hexamer and Prosecutor McClintock and may keep him here."

Lowell Mellett Visits Columbus

Lowell Mellett, brother of the slain editor, spent an hour conferring with Governor Donahey here this morning. At the conclusion of the conference, he left for Washington, D. C. where he is editor-in-chief of the Scripps alliance.

Neither Mellett nor the Governor would comment on the visit except to say they had talked about the murder.

Mellett was accompanied on his visit to the governor's office by William Pontius, Canton politician.

"We talked over the whole case. Mr. Mellett was here on other business and just dropped in" said the governor.

McDermott's Capture Imminent.

CANTON, O., Aug. 3.—Patrick E. McDermott, wanted in connection with the Don R. Mellett murder case, will be captured.

That was the declaration today of Ora E. Slater, chief of the agencies investigating the crime in answer to reports that McDermott had been murdered and other reports to the

Tokio Alarmed As Severe Earthquake Shakes Buildings

Tremor Stops Clocks, Halts Street Cars and Interrupts Telephone Service—No Casualties are Reported.

TOKIO, Aug. 3.—Thousands of persons rushed to the open as the most severe earthquake in two years struck Tokio today. The earth tremor stopped clocks, halted street car service and interrupted telephone service.

Plaster was shaken from a few buildings.

There were no casualties and property damage was negligible.

The tremblor centered about 20 miles from this city.

Attorney L. M. Kyes Will Make Address At Kiwanis Meet

Attorney L. M. Kyes, East Palestine, will address members of the Kiwanis club at the noon meeting in Larkins' annex, Market street, Thursday. His subject will be "One Hundred and Fifty Years of American Government." Kyes is a past lieutenant governor of Ohio Kiwanis.

Joint meeting of Kiwanians with the Clarkson grange, which was to have been held tomorrow evening, has been postponed until Wednesday, Sept. 1.

City Planners Urge Ban Here On Term "Alley"

The term "alley" in the downtown district will be discarded if recommendations adopted by the city planning commission are approved by council.

The commission, at a meeting in the Chamber of Commerce rooms in the Little building last night, advocated the substitution of the words, "lanes," "ways" or "places."

The word "alley," it was pointed out, is objectionable to many persons as their mail address. Other cities, it is declared, have dropped the appellation.

Mrs. W. A. Hill, 70, Widow, Dies at Her Youngstown Home

Mrs. W. A. Hill, 70, widow of Wilfred Hill, former resident of East Liverpool, died yesterday at her home, 287 Grant street, Youngstown, of complication of diseases.

Mrs. Hill, whose husband was at one time engaged in business here, is survived by one son, Wilfred; two brothers, Robert McGahey, East Liverpool, and William McGahey, Wellsville, and one sister, Elizabeth McGahey, Youngstown.

Funeral services will be held in the home at 10 o'clock Thursday morning. Burial will be made at New Bedford, Pa.

MAN ENDS OWN LIFE WHEN HE IS SOUGHT FOR DOUBLE MURDER

Chilo Divorcee, 32, and Youth Slain in Automobile.

BODIES RIDDLED

Motorists Killed as They Flee From Pursuer.

CINCINNATI, O., Aug. 3.—Ray Ross, 45, of Felicity, Ohio, killed himself at his home early today with a revolver shot when Sheriff Fred Crosswell, of Clermont county, went to arrest him in connection with the slaying last night of Mrs. Mamie Metzger, 32, divorcee, of Chilo, Ohio, and Otto Ites, 18, of near Bethel, Ohio.

Farmer Finds Bodies.

The bullet-riddled bodies of the two were found in an automobile in front of the Joseph Broadwell farm house at Rural, Clermont county, by the farmer and his wife after they had been awakened by a volley of revolver shots.

Ross shot himself when the sheriff went to his home, dying instantly, according to a report from the sheriff's office at Batavia.

Jealousy is Blamed.

The cause of the tragedy, it was later learned, was Ross' infatuation for the Metzger woman, and his jealousy of young Ites' attentions toward her.

Ross stood at the head of the stairway in his home as he fired the shot into his breast. His wife told Sheriff Crosswell he had a few moments before made a full confession of his crime to her. There had been domestic trouble in the Ross home. Mrs. Ross having known her husband was infatuated with the Metzger woman.

The sheriff was led to seek Ross through a suspicion on the part of the girl's father, Dide King, who identified his daughter.

The Kings had formerly been residents of Aberdeen, Brown county. Other principals in the tragedy had always lived in Clermont county.

According to the story told by Broadwell and his wife they saw an automobile shoot away in the darkness as the lights went up in the farm house. They ran out into the yard immediately to examine the remaining car. It was headed into the yard with its lights shining into the farmhouse, as though the two in the car had sought to escape their pursuers by turning into the farm yard.

Mrs. Broadwell recognized the slain woman as Mrs. Metzger.

BEATTY RALLY HERE FRIDAY

Pottery Jobber Will Speak in Eagles' Auditorium.

J. C. B. Beatty, East Liverpool pottery jobber, will close his campaign for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination with a rally in the Eagles' auditorium, Broadway, at 8 o'clock Friday evening, he announced today.

"I will close my campaign without revenge and without mercy," said Beatty. "I do not know what I will say, but I do know that I will not be misunderstood."

The Eagles' band will give an open air concert preceding the meeting.

This will be Beatty's third speech of the campaign. He spoke at a Lions' club luncheon in Toledo last Thursday, while earlier in the month he made an address in Dayton.

NEW YORK GIRL IS FORCED TO QUIT ENGLISH CHANNEL SWIM WHEN WITHIN TWO MILES OF HER GOAL

DOVER, England, Aug. 3.—Grim tragedy and possibly death came close to ClaraBelle Barrett, New York swimming instructress, as she plunged through the thick fogs and heavy seas of the English Channel last night, in a brave but futile effort to swim the channel.

When Miss Barrett gave up her attempt at 5:20 this morning after having been in the water for 21 hours and 40 minutes, having covered 40 miles, she showed for the first time signs of the great strain—she wept in a womanly fashion.

But during the swim, according to Captain Learmount, who acted as her pilot, she faced grave danger, without the slightest indication of being un-nerved, even when she came close to being run down by a channel steamer.

"Fog made it difficult for us," said Captain Learmount." At times we were unable to see more than five yards ahead. For many hours Miss Barrett swam bravely on, heading into the fog.

"Then we heard a siren. It was the Boulogne cross-channel packet. She was headed for us, and she came so close that we had to pull out of her way in a hurry.

"It was an experience that would have unnerved most women, but it didn't bother Miss Barrett, she just swam on into the fog again, she's a very brave woman."

Gertrude Ederle gave up her attempt last year after being in the water eight hours. She covered in that time 23½ miles.

The launch bearing the exhausted swimmer turned about and put into Dover at 8 o'clock this morning. A large holiday crowd, waiting at the wharf, cheered Miss Barrett enthusiastically.

Treacherous Tides Baffle Her.

Miss Barrett is 32 years old. She is the giantess among the channel aspirants, being six feet tall and weighing 210 pounds. Her period of training was considerably abbreviated because of lack of funds and it was said that for the same reason she was forced to start from the English side, considered by experts the more difficult side from which to start the swim.

Miss Barrett, like the scores who have preceded her, owed her failure to the treacherous tides.

At the end of 16 hours, with the tide behind her, she was making remarkable progress, and it seemed likely that she would achieve her goal.

But a shift in the tide, and the American girl found herself swimming hard but making no progress. To prevent a useless expenditure of energy she swam downstream with

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE.

Bee and Lou are modern girls sharing a Greenwich Village apartment. Bee is an actress, at present in the chorus, but keeping a stiff upper lip and a fond hope of success. Into the Village comes Delia, frail poetess of New England, seeking freedom from the repressions of her home. And Bee, a school chum of the freedom-seeking, invites her to share their apartment. Delia is determined to win through to the freedom she came for. Before the first evening is well under way Delia has met Wilbur, a young artist who is suffering from "too much mother" and whom Lou has undertaken to rescue; and Leslie, intimate of Lou, and Arthur Rockwell, the poet whose work Delia knows and admires, and various others of the Village crowd.

Bee and Lou have their troubles. Bee is beset by a highly successful young business man who wants to marry her and carry her off from the Village; Lou and Leslie come to a misunderstanding because of her efforts in behalf of Wilbur. And Delia fast succumbs to the fascination of Rockwell, who is unscrupulous in love. Matters grow tense. Bee loses her theater job and takes to waiting in a Village tea room. Wilbur, driven desperate by his mother, prevails on Lou to pretend she is engaged to him. This, though unhappily, she undertakes to do. Bee and Fred appear to have broken off definitely and Delia begins to discover the tragedy of trusting Arthur. Bee, in a final effort to find work on the stage attempts work as a chorus girl in a revue but discovers she is expected to pose in the nude as part of an "art" presentation. She flares up, leaves the job and is readjusting her philosophy as this instalment begins.

A chapter missed from this point on spoils the effect of a really good story.

CHAPTER THIRTY-ONE.

"Isn't self-interest the most important factor?" asked Bee, intense in working out her newly accented philosophy.

"I thing it is."

"Think nothing! You know it's so. Where's your logic. The sane thing is honest self-interest. Self-pity is a vice. Look at Wilbur's mother!" ("I've been looking at her," murmured Lou.) "This rotten old possessive instinct is another vice. Wilbur's mother again; and Leslie, and Fred. You can't own another human creature. You can only accept what other creatures are moved to give you, and they what you're moved to give them. Isn't that fundamental sense?" (Oh, you," breather Lou, "of course.") "You can't carry other people's lives along without pauperizing them emotionally—any more than you can carry them financially. You can't. This muddled old world hasn't learned that yet, and as a result it's filthy—outraged wives, ruined girls, alimony, all that dirty stuff. Love never ruined anybody. Love's a joy, or it's nothing. Take Delia, now—"

"This I've observed," put in Lou, absorbed by her own deep thoughts, "in the business: I wouldn't for a minute hang onto a stenographer or an errand boy that didn't measure up to the work, I'd discharge 'em quick."

"Exactly. It wouldn't matter to you if they went in for self-pity."

"Not at all."

"You'd know it was the beest thing for them to throw them out to sink or swim."

"That's just what I'm grouping around to. It would be the best thing for them. Certainly I'd know that. Over and over again I've seen some of our boys and girls made, really made, by just that sort of rough treatment. Taught humility, I mean—thrown bang up against the truth, sobered up, tempered. And I've been wondering lately if we shouldn't accept the same philosophy in matters of the emotions."

"That's what I'm telling you, Lou. Isn't it fundamental truth?"

"I'm not sure that it isn't."

"But it is! This Victorian civilization has made the awful mess of things we see around us precisely by going false on that one point. Sentimentalizing life. They're just about wrecked the whole darn thing by going false there. Just as sentimentality would wreck your business in a year. Take Delia, now: She's vague and imaginative and helpless and out for a thrill. All right. Since she's all set for it, let her have it. After all, it's nothing but experience. It'll either make her or break her. She's got to live it out. Likely as not, it'll stir her up to real poetry. Make a success of her. Her own personal happiness or unhappiness doesn't matter. Probably unhappiness is what she needs." And Bee quoted Heine:

"Aus meninen grossen Schmerzon
Mach Ich die kleine Lieder."

"The only out about it—and I'm not wholly convinced yet that you can carry the philosophy of business life over onto the emotional plane—oh, I'm receptive, but not entirely convinced—the out I seem to be struggling with is this old maternal instinct."

"Look out for sentimentality, Lou."

"Yes, of course it may be that I've simply got a weak streak in me. Something I've got to reckon with. I don't know. Mind you, I'm not arguing for it. I'm just trying to figure it out. No use going into the details, but—oh, well, I'm afraid I thought I was independent and strong, and I had this deep impulse to help weaker folks. Yes, carry them emotionally. I indulged it, all over the place! And as a result I'm in a most awful mess. Just a mess! That's why I've begun to feel that you may be right."

"It looks very, very clear to me," said Bee soberly.

"But on the other hand, the mothering impulse is just as strong as ever. It's a fact. It's real. I don't know what to do about it. I'm pretty shaken, Bee." This was a moving admission. "I seem to be living in a paradox. I'll confess it beats me. It's not that what you say doesn't seem logical to me—more than logical; true. But that truth simply emphasizes the complexity of life. Sometimes I wonder if this queer business of life isn't made up of a lot of contradictory truths battling each new line of force that nobody can see now. The eternal biological struggle. I don't know. But it beats me. I'm bang up against a wall, Bee."

This was the real Louise, puzzled, stung, speaking out from a heart that had seldom in their deep friendship found direct voice. "You know, of course, that I'm going through a pretty difficult time with Leslie. He writes. Oh, the reproaches! And no matter how often I settle the thing in my mind, there are moments—it's all coming out now, Bee—when I'm afraid I'll just give up and marry him. Through sheer weakness, I suppose. Surrender to emotion and pity. Though it's an idea I can't face mentally. And then there's Wilbur. Right around my neck. You've no idea what—" She closed her lips on that.

"But you can't marry Leslie to get rid of him, Lou. That wouldn't be honest."

"No."

"And you can't marry Wilbur to save him from his mother."

"No."

"No more than I could marry Fred to save him from himself. I might as well marry for a living, and that's about the lowest thing of all. And the most common."

For a time the two girls gave way to a moody silence that was at length broken by Bee. "I wonder," she mused, darkly, "I wonder what's going to become of us two. I'm just about fed up, myself."

Jewish Zealots Seek To Revive Sacrifices At Ancient Mosque

JERUSALEM—Permission to bring a burnt offering to Mount Moriah, where the Mosque of Omah stands, is being sought by a small faction of Jewish zealots.

They have asked their lawyer to endeavor to persuade the Supreme Moslem Council to allow the erection of altars where a temple once stood in order to revise the sacrifices interrupted when the temple was destroyed 2,000 years ago.

Several Hebron ritual animal slaughters were suspected of conducting secret animal sacrifices in anticipation of a revival of sacrificial worship.

BIG FILM HIT AT CERAMIC

"Fascinating Youth" is Paramount's Latest Comedy.

Novelty—thy name is Cinema.

"Fascinating Youth," Paramount's latest comedy, opened at the Ceramic theatre last night. It is no ordinary film—this hilarious concoction. Rather is it unique in that an original idea has been successfully employed.

The principal parts are all enacted by members of the Paramount Picture School. This, you will remember was the outcome of last year's nation-wide hunt for hidden talent. The boys and girls appearing in the film, would seem to be the "cream of the cream." And—strange to say—every single mother's son or daughter, does his or her work in a manner that would win laurels for any experienced player.

Perhaps credit for the picture's success is due Director Sam Wood. Certainly, it takes patience, experience and a whole lot of knowledge to make a flock of amateurs act as though they had lived their lives in front of a camera.

Byron Morgan's story concerns itself with a rich youth who lives in Greenwich Village and has nothing else to do but stage Charleston parties. It must be admitted though, that all his little playmates are agile and dept dancers. Then along comes papa.

"Make good on a job I'll give you—or marry the girl I've picked out."

And so—that he may wed the girl of his own heart, our hero starts to make his father's dreary winter resort a success. How he does this, with the aid of his friends, goes to make a very amusing comedy.

Everything needed to produce a good picture has been included in "Fascinating Youth." We have youth, beauty, action, romance, thrills, sport and a hundred other ingredients—more than enough to go round and satisfy all fans.

In addition to the Junior Stars, a cast of experienced players headed by Ralph Lewis, is seen. And—there's a surprise contained in the film which is too good to divulge. Just go to—and regain some of your "Fascinating Youth."

Gilboa Dam In Catskills Stores Water For Metropolis

Project, $182,000,000 Engineering Feat, Will Insure Supply for 10 More Years.

NEW YORK.—The completion of the new Gilboa dam in the Catskill mountains marks the culmination of one of civilization's greatest engineering fears.

Twenty years of work, the longest tunnel in the world, the destruction of eleven villages, and the expenditure of $182,000,000 are some of the outstanding factors involved in this gigantic effort and New York's greatest water project.

When the gates of Gilboa Dam have been closed, New York City will have a potential water supply of one billion gallons a day with which to satisfy the needs of six million people. At present, the city consumes eight hundred million gallons a day, or looking at it from a standpoint of density, eight pounds of water for each pound of human flesh.

Ten villages have been effaced by that gentle but firm device of the law—Eminent Domain, to make room for and allow the unhindered functioning of the great system. An eleventh, Gilboa, is now undergoing the process of demolition.

Reverse Flow of River.

Gilboa, about 120 miles northwest of New York City, lies on both sides of the Schoharie river. The dam bisects the village and when closed will reverse the northward flow of the river. Then, the waters piling up against the dam will form a new reservoir about six miles long and one wide.

At the furthest end of the reservoir, the waters will rush into the eighteen mile Shandaken Tunnel for a long, dark ride under the mountains. This tunnel, the longest in the world, is in some places as much as 630 feet below the surface of the valley.

From the tunnel, the waters of the Schoharie flow into the Esopus river. Together they flow southward for a distance of fifteen miles until abstructed by the Ashokan dam, forming great storage reservoirs. The Ashokan reservoir is about fourteen miles west of Kingston in Ulster county.

Cross Under Hudson.

After aeration and chlorination at Ashokan, they travel eighty miles through the Catskill aqueduct, crossing the Hudson river a few miles above West Point through solid rock 1,000 feet below its surface. Reaching the Kensico reservoir in Westchester county, thirty miles nort of New York City, purification again takes place and distribution through city water mains is the next nd last step.

Compulsion, caused by the ever growing needs of a rapidly increasing population, prompted the construction of this mighty system. In the nineties, the city was so often faced by shortages of water that in 1902 definite steps were taken to formulate plans to avert these.

In 1905, the Board of Water Supply of thes tate was created by the legislature and in the following year work on the project was begun. With the closing of the Gilboa dam, New York is provided with a supply which will be ample until 1935.

New Coolidge Story Is Told by Stearns, His Intimate Friend

WASHINGTON.—Just another little story of our President, as told by his most intimate friend, Frank W. Stearns, of Boston:

"When President Coolidge was elected Governor of Massachusetts, he had seventy major appointments to make. For two weeks I sat in his office, listening to discussions of the various candidates and hearing various men urged for appointment.

"One night the President came in and said: 'Frank, here's something that might interest you. It's the patronage slate. I've already given it to the newspapers.'

"I took the list, still folded, to my room and for two hours conducting a little guessing contest with myself to see whether, on the basis of what I had heard, I could name the appointees. Finally I completed my list and compared the two.

"Of the seventy names, I had exactly three right, but unfortunately had been unable to pick the right job for any of the three."

KYNE DRAMA AT COLUMBIA

Pacific Fleet Boxer Stars in "Rustling for Cupid."

George O'Brien, who has the masculine lead in "Rustling for Cupid," Fox Films latest release which will show at the Columbia theatre for two days. was light heavy weight champion of the Pacific fleet while he was in the navy during the war, and in selecting the cast for this Peter B. Kyne drama of New Mexico ranch life, especial attention was given to the character of Jack Mason.

O'Brien has the role of Brad Blatchford and Blatchford has a terrific fight with Mason, Sid Jordan, who has given practically every star in the films a battle during his Hollywood career, was finally selected to take part of Mason. This insured a real battle.

When the fight was staged on location it was the "main event" and every man along that section of the border assembled to watch the mill.

The battle proved all that the "advance agents" had claimed for it and both O'Brien and Jordan had to take a day off to recover.

Anita Stewart has the feminine lead and others in the cast are Russell Simpson, Edith Yorke, Herbert Prior, and Frank McGlynn, Jr.

Answers to Questions

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

The keynote of the times is efficient service. In supplying its readers with a free information Bureau in Washington The Review-Tribune is living up to this principle in deed and fact. We are paying for this service in order that it may be free to the public. Submit your queries to the staff of experts whose services are put at your disposal. Q. Please advise the speed per hour made by the fastest trains in the New York subway. C. W. S.

A. The American Electric Railway Association says that the average speed made by the fastest express train in the New York subway is 24 miles per hour.

Q. Are tobacco, pepper, or hellebore good preventives for clothes-moths? C. T. C.

A. The following substances often recommended for clothes-moth control are worthless: Tobacco extracts, lavender flowers, cayenne pepper, allspice, angelica root, black pepper, pyrethum stems, air-slaked lime, powdered sulphur, salt, quassia chips, borax, colocynth pulp, eucalyptus leaves, white hellebore, formaldehyde, sodium bicarbonate, sodium carbonate, lead carbonate, lead oxid, red cedar leaves.

Q. Is there a monument to Major L'Enfant who planned the city of Washington? C. G. H.

A. An old fashioned type of tombstone marks the grave of L'Enfant. Other than this we have no memorial to him.

Q. Is the axis of the sun inclined with respect to the plane the sun makes with the earth? P. H.

A. The Naval Observatory says the axis of the sun is inclined seven degrees to the plane of the ecliptic.

Q. How would a young man be classified who was born in this country, but whose parents were Canadians and grandparents French? H. H. W.

A. Beginning with 1890, the census reports have classified all white persons whose parents (or one of whose parents) were born in foreign countries according to the country of birth of the parents. The most important use made of the information with regard to the country of birth of the parents is in connection with the classification of what we term the foreign white stock, by country of origin. This classification extends only to the second generation of the descendants of the foreign stock. The person mentioned would, therefore, be classified in the census returns as native with parents born in Canada. In the case of Canada alone, in the tables classifying the foreign white stock by country of origin, a separation is made according to language; that is, persons born in Canada are shown as either "Canada-French" or "Canada-Other." The man about whom you inquire would therefore have his French origin indicated in this manner.

Q. Where is General Lee buried? M. D.

A. The body of General Lee lies in a sarcophagus at Lexington, Va.

Q. For what purpose were the stone houses in Mammoth Cave built? R. G. C.

A. These houses were built almost a century ago by sufferers from tuberculosis who believed living in the cave would cure them. Another story is to the effect that miners who took saltpetre from the cave for powder-making during the war of 1812 built the houses, but while such mining did take place, it is probable the miners lived outside the cave. The fallacy of the underground cure theory for tuberculosis was soon demonstrated and some of the stone huts remain unfinished.

Q. Who was the first layman to be appointed chancellor in England? T. G. D.

A. In 1529, when Wolsey fell, Sir Thomas Moore succeeded him. The latter was the first layman to enjoy this honor.

Q. Are people more apt to be overcome by heat on a dry day or on a damp day? C. H. M.

A. At the same temperature, moist air is more productive of heat prostration than is dry air.

Q. What are places called where bicycle races are held? C. M.

A. They are known as velodromes.

Q. What is the best kind of wood for fuel? D. W. F.

A. Shell bark hickory ranks first in fuel value, with chestnut, white oak, white ash, and red oak following in the order named.

Q. What is the "apron" on a locomotive? A. R. N.

A. The sheet iron plate covering the space between the locomotive and the tender.

Q. Where is the largest art school in America? M. E. R.

A. The Art Institute, Chicago, has the largest art school in America.

Q. Who were the cliff dwellers? J. W. D.

A. The term "cliff dwellers" is used to designate the supposed extinct builders of the numerous cliff ruins scattered throughout the canons of the southwest, along the upper rivers of the Colorado and Rio Grande, in Utah, Colorado, Arizona and New Mexico. For a long time their origin was a subject of much discussion, but recent investigation has proved that these ruins are not the work of any extinct race, but were built by the immediate ancestors of the modern Pueblo Indians, some of whom, notably the Hopi, still have their villages on the summits of almost inaccessible mesas. Evidences of cliff dwellers have also been found in various parts of Europe, having existed during an early period in the history of men.

Q. Where is Moraine Park? B. E. C.

A. The National Conference on State Parks says that Moraine is a proposed state park in eastern Wisconsin and is known as Kettle Moraine park.

Q. What states have school ships? C. V. G.

A. Three states have school ships. They are Pennsylvania, New York and Massachusetts.

WHITE HOUSE IS DOLLED UP FOR COOLIDGES

President and Wife Will Find Spic and Span Home.

WORKMEN BUSY

Small Army on Job Makes Structure Glisten.

WASHINGTON.—President and Mrs. Coolidge will return from their summer vacation to a spic and span White House.

A small army of workmen has improved the president's absence by renovating the big structure inside and out. Indeed, their work is so thorough that Washington wags are asking if the president's first speech on his return won't be a lecture on economy to the custodians of his residence.

Three coats of white paint will make the building glisten in the bright morning sun. The great East Room, scene of the brilliant functions of state, is also being painted, the first time in twelve years. The house keeper's quarter's are being renovated for the first times since 1902.

Much to Be Done.

The more workmen explore the White House the more things they find to do, and if the president remains away long enough he may find his economy program in great danger. For all presidents have been personally economica. They may have approved appropriations for rivers and harbors in creeks that go dry in the summer, but they have hesitated to let those in charge of public buildings spend much money on the White House.

An ordinary crushed stone roadway leads up to the entrance of the White House through a beautiful and spacious yard filled with flowers and trees. More than once dust rolled up by automobiles has poured in through open windows. Now, six thousand dollars is being spent on a new roadway, one that experts say will be dustless and withstand the summer heat.

New Electric Elevator.

A new electric elevator is being installed, to replace the automatic one that is said to have stopped any place from the basement to the roof, sometimes under most embarrassing circumstances.

An elaborate refrigerating plan that will supply ice and cool the entire building is being installed.

The roof, which army engineers say may fall in some day, is not being touched and won't until the president is ready to find another place to live for several months. The White House, being old, is peculiarly constructed. The entire top floor is said to be suspended from the roof, so that when the roof is repaired the floor will have to be torn down.

What if you had to wait as long for the doctor to come as he has to wait for his money?—Zanesville Signal.

3 DEAD IN OHIO SHOOTING

WEIRTON WORKER FALLS 225 FEET TO DEATH

Today

He Wasn't Vaccinated.

Copyright, 1926, by the Star Co.

SOME say vaccination is not useful or necessary. Consider a case made public by Dr. Mathias Nicoll, New York State Health Commissioner.

Forty-three cases of smallpox have recently developed in New York. In one case all members of a large family, except one, were vaccinated. The one said he was healthy, didn't believe in smallpox, had conscientious objections. They gave him his choice, vaccination or twenty days quarantine.

He took the quarantine and, the twenty days ended, had developed a serious case of smallpox. All of his family, also exposed to the contagion, but vaccinated, had no smallpox. That fact outweighs a good deal of theory.

SENATOR CARAWAY, who controlled the Arkansas delegation in the last Democratic convention says, "Governor Smith cannot be elected President because he is a Catholic and a wet," and adds, "If Governor Smith were a Baptist, Methodist, or Presbyterian, he could be elected President, but his Catholicism is against him."

Republicans will be glad that this is said by a Democratic Senator, not by a Republican. A similar remark by the Reverend Mr. Burchard cost James G. Blaine the presidency. Senator Caraway professes to believe that a Democrat will be elected president in 1928, not McAdoo or Smith, but one whose name is now not mentioned. He is mistaken about that. If the Democratic convention rejects Governor Smith, solely because he is a Catholic, no Democrat will be elected in 1928.

THE strength of Governor Al Smith is underestimated by some of his Democratic brethren. He knows politics and many influential friends througout the nation. The thing to increase his strength is the statement that he cannot be elected president because he happens to be a Catholic.

The people want to keep government, politics and elections apart from religious questions.

SENATOR CARAWAY tells the newspapers, "The recent arrival of many Cardinals and their sumptuous passage across the country in a monarchial train did not help to soften matters. It served to stir up the old issues which have so long disturbed our political life."

Governor Smith is not responsible for the special train in which the Cardinals went to Chicago. That was arranged by the New York Central.

Economy Ideas In Sewing

Do you know that a man's shirt that is worn at the collar and cuffs will make a little three or four-year-old girl a nice dress?

That you can cover the line of a let-out hem with a row of running stitch embroidery, so that rickrack braid, sewn on over the mark, will add to the attractiveness of the dress? No one will ever suspect it is let down.

That you can make a pretty apron for your little girl out of just one-half yard of material?

These are only a few of the suggestions, together with directions for carrying them out, that are contained in the Sewing booklet which this bureau offers for distribution.

CLAUDE M. CONNORS, 26, PLUNGES FROM STACK IN STEEL MILL YARD

Scaffold Collapses When Pittsburgh Construction Company Employe Drops Heavy Piece of Timber.

VICTIM'S BODY BADLY CRUSHED

Coroner George Arner of Chester, Who Conducts Inquest, Returns "Accidental Death" Verdict.

Claude M. Connors, 26, Bessemer, Pa., employed by the Emerson Construction company, Pittsburgh, Pa., was killed yesterday afternoon in a 225-foot fall from a stack on which he was working in the yard of the Weirton Steel company at Weirton, W. Va.

Connors, whose body was badly crushed, was taken to the Ohio Valley hospital, Steubenville, where he died two hours later.

Body Shipped To Bessemer.

The accident occurred when the scaffold on which Connors was working collapsed after one of the supports was struck by a heavy piece of timber which the workman had thrown over his shoulder to the ground.

Coroner George A. Arner, of Chester, conducted an inquest last night and returned a verdict of "accidental death."

The body of Connors, who was unmarried, was shipped today to his home in Bessemer.

Fire Chief Plans Shower Party for Children Tomorrow

Heeding the suggestion made by The Review-Tribune, Fire Chief Bryan today announced plans for a shower party to be given on Broadway in front of the down town postoffice between 2 and 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. Two members of the night platoon will man the hose. Broadway will be closed between Fourth and Fifth streets during the period in which the children will frolic beneath the cooling spray.

All children over the age of two years are invited. A bathing suit is the only requirement.

Several shower parties were staged in East Liverpool last year.

GIRL'S SLAYER AT COSHOCTON SAFE FROM MOB

Fear of Attempt to Storm Jail Subsides.

Robert F. Thompson, 54, Admits Brutal Murder.

COSHOCTON, Aug. 3. — "Robert Thompson has been removed from jail here. I will not say where he was taken or when, but it was safer away from here," was the announcement made at noon today by Sheriff Marquard here.

COSHOCTON, Aug. 3.—Quiet reigned today here after a night of nervousness. Fear of a mob storming the county jail to reach Robert F. Thompson, 54 years old, self-admitted slayer of Gertrude D'Orstroph, 10, whose mutilated body was found Saturday afternoon, had subsided and special guards returned to their homes after an all-night vigil.

No appeal will be made for troops, according to officials today.

Several hundred men and women gathered about the jail last night as rumors reached the town of a mob

NAGEL LAUDS MODERN YOUTH

Y. M. C. A. Secretary Speaks at Rotary Luncheon.

The youth of today is no worse—in fact, a little better if anything—than the youth of yesterday, W. H. Nagel, general secretary of the Y. M. C. A., told 40 members of the Rotary club luncheon meeting in the banquet hall of the Y at noon today.

Attorney Blaine Cochran rendered a solo, "Rose Marie." As an encore he and Mrs. Danks Cochran, accompanist, sang "Indian Love Song" from the opera, "Rose Marie." Malcolm Thompson presided at the meeting.

Announcement was made that Dr. Carnes, Canton steel official, would be the speaker at next Tuesday's meeting. J. Donald Thompson will be chairman.

In his defense of the modern youth, Secretary Nagel declared that the young man of today has more temptations to face than the youth of 40 years ago.

"One of the greatest temptations facing the young man of today is what to do in his leisure time," he said. The working hours have been reduced to eight, seven and six hours. The young man has no way to put in his leisure time like the mature

Governor Explains He is "Taking Cognizance of Rumors."

SEEK SUSPECT

Detective Slater Predicts Arrest of Patrick E. McDermott.

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 3.—Joseph Cleary, Columbus detective sent to Canton by Governor Donahey to aid Canton and Stark county authorities in solving the murder of Don R. Mellett, editor of the Canton Daily News, was summoned today to appear at the governor's office here tomorrow morning for a conference.

The governor explained his action as "taking cognizance of the rumors coming from Canton."

He did not say Cleary would not return to the scene of the investigations in Stark county, but said:

"We sent Cleary to help and cooperate up there. If they don't need him any longer, we will keep him here. I am going to communicate with Acting Police Chief Earl Hexamer and Prosecutor McClintock and may keep him here."

Lowell Mellett Visits Columbus

Lowell Mellett, brother of the slain editor, spent an hour conferring with Governor Donahey here this morning. At the conclusion of the conference, he left for Washington, D. C. where he is editor-in-chief of the Scripps alliance.

Neither Mellett nor the Governor would comment on the visit except to say they had talked about the murder.

Mellett was accompanied on his visit to the governor's office by William Pontius, Canton politician.

"We talked over the whole case. Mr. Mellett was here on other business and just dropped in" said the governor.

McDermott's Capture Imminent.

CANTON, O., Aug. 3.—Patrick E. McDermott, wanted in connection with the Don R. Mellett murder case, will be captured.

That was the declaration today of Ora E. Slater, chief of the agencies investigating the crime in answer to reports that McDermott had been murdered and other reports to the

City Planners Urge Ban Here On Term "Alley"

The term "alley" in the downtown district will be discarded if recommendations adopted by the city planning commission are approved by council.

The commission, at a meeting in the Chamber of Commerce rooms in the Little building last night, advocated the substitution of the words, "lanes," "ways" or "places."

The word "alley," it was pointed out, is objectionable to many persons as their mail address. Other cities, it is declared, have dropped the appellation.

Mrs. W. A. Hill, 70, widow of Wilfred Hill, former resident of East Liverpool, died yesterday at her home, 287 Grant street, Youngstown, of complication of diseases.

Mrs. Hill, whose husband was at one time engaged in business here, is survived by one son, Wilfred; two brothers, Robert McGahey, East Liverpool, and William McGahey, Wellsville, and one sister, Elizabeth McGahey, Youngstown.

Funeral services will be held in the home at 10 o'clock Thursday morning. Burial will be made at New Bedford, Pa.

MAN ENDS OWN LIFE WHEN HE IS SOUGHT FOR DOUBLE MURDER

Chilo Divorcee, 32, and Youth Slain in Automobile.

BODIES RIDDLED

Motorists Killed as They Flee From Pursuer.

CINCINNATI, O., Aug. 3.—Ray Ross, 45, of Felicity, Ohio, killed himself at his home early today with a revolver shot when Sheriff Fred Crosswell, of Clermont county, went to arrest him in connection with the slaying last night of Mrs. Mamie Metzger, 32, divorcee, of Chilo, Ohio, and Otto Ites, 18, of near Bethel, Ohio.

Farmer Finds Bodies.

The bullet-riddled bodies of the two were found in an automobile in front of the Joseph Broadwell farm house at Rural, Clermont county, by the farmer and his wife after they had been awakened by a volley of revolver shots.

Ross shot himself when the sheriff went to his home, dying instantly, according to a report from the sheriff's office at Batavia.

Jealousy is Blamed.

The cause of the tragedy, it was later learned, was Ross' infatuation for the Metzger woman, and his jealousy of young Ites' attentions toward her.

Ross stood at the head of the stairway in his home as he fired the shot into his breast. His wife told Sheriff Crosswell he had a few moments before made a full confession of his crime to her. There had been domestic trouble in the Ross home, Mrs. Ross having known her husband was infatuated with the Metzger woman.

The sheriff was led to seek Ross through a suspicion on the part of the girl's father, Dide King, who identified his daughter.

The Kings had formerly been residents of Aberdeen, Brown county. Other principals in the tragedy had always lived in Clermont county.

According to the story told by Broadwell and his wife they saw an automobile shoot away in the darkness as the lights went up in the farm house. They ran out into the yard immediately to examine the remaining car. It was headed into the yard with its lights shining into the farmhouse, as though the two in the car had sought to escape their pursuers by turning into the farm yard.

Mrs. Broadwell recognized the slain woman as Mrs. Metzger.

BEATTY RALLY HERE FRIDAY

Pottery Jobber Will Speak in Eagles' Auditorium.

J. C. B. Beatty, East Liverpool pottery jobber, will close his campaign for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination with a rally in the Eagles' auditorium, Broadway, at 8 o'clock Friday evening, he announced today.

"I will close my campaign without revenge and without mercy," said Beatty. "I do not know what I will say, but I do know that I will not be misunderstood."

The Eagles' band will give an open air concert preceding the meeting.

This will be Beatty's third speech of the campaign. He spoke at a Lions' club luncheon in Toledo last Thursday, while earlier in the month he made an address in Dayton.

NEW YORK GIRL IS FORCED TO QUIT ENGLISH CHANNEL SWIM WHEN WITHIN TWO MILES OF HER GOAL

DOVER, England, Aug. 3.—Grim tragedy and possibly death came close to ClaraBelle Barrett, New York swimming instructress, as she plunged through the thick fogs and heavy seas of the English Channel last night, in a brave but futile effort to swim the channel.

When Miss Barrett gave up her attempt at 5:20 this morning after having been in the water for 21 hours and 40 minutes, having covered 40 miles, she showed for the first time signs of the great strain—she wept in a womanly fashion.

But during the swim, according to Captain Learmount, who acted as her pilot, she faced grave danger, without the slightest indication of being un-nerved, even when she came close to being run down by a channel steamer.

"Fog made it difficult for us," said Captain Learmount." At times we were unable to see more than five yards ahead. For many hours Miss Barrett swam bravely on, heading into the fog.

"Then we heard a siren. It was the Boulogne cross-channel packet. She was headed for us, and she came so close that we had to pull out of her way in a hurry.

"It was an experience that would have unnerved most women, but it didn't bother Miss Barrett, she just swam on into the fog again, she's a very brave woman."

Gertrude Ederle gave up her attempt last year after being in the water eight hours. She covered in that time 23½ miles.

The launch bearing the exhausted swimmer turned about and put into Dover at 8 o'clock this morning. A large holiday crowd, waiting at the wharf, cheered Miss Barrett enthusiastically.

Treacherous Tides Baffle Her.

Miss Barrett is 32 years old. She is the giantess among the channel aspirants, being six feet tall and weighing 210 pounds. Her period of training was considerably abbreviated because of lack of funds and it was said that for the same reason she was forced to start from the English side, considered by experts the more difficult side from which to start the swim.

Miss Barrett, like the scores who have preceded her, owed her failure to the treacherous tides.

At the end of 16 hours, with the tide behind her, she was making remarkable progress, and it seemed likely that she would achieve her goal.

But a shift in the tide, and the American girl found herself swimming hard but making no progress. To prevent a useless expenditure of energy she swam downstream with

300 BALLOTS CAST AT NOON

Battle for Two County Offices Expected to Bring Out Vote.

Approximately 300 ballots had been cast at noon here today in the primary election in which county officers will be named in addition to candidates for congress and state senate. Electors of the Rock Springs park precinct are also balloting on the proposed bond issue of $75,000 for the erection of a new school building in Newell.

Voters are chiefly interested in the contests for county clerk between Robert R. Hobbs and James Gracie and N. W. Ballantyne and M. N. Price for county commissioner. The above candidates made a complete canvass of the county.

Congressman Carl Bachman, of Wheeling, seeking renomination, is pitted against Ben L. Rosenbloom, former representative in congress, while State Senator Wright Hugus has opposition in George C. Beneke and George H. Miller.

Light Democratic vote is predicted as there is no opposition for county offices. Edmund M. Conaway and George W. Oldham, are in the field for the nomination for congress, while Samuel P. Christian and Robert D. Frame, are opponents for state senator of the minority party.

OFFICERS RAID FISHING CAMP

A fishing camp along the Ohio river, at East Steubenville, W. Va., said to have been a rendezvouz for Steubenville miscreants for some weeks was cleaned out last evening by a squad of Brooke county officials.

Seven prisoners, including one woman and the proprietor, were arrested, charged with being drunk and disorderly, and incarcerated in the Brooke county jail, to await preliminary hearing.

Those arrested were Jane Brown, Tom Stafford, proprietor; Andy Sortis, Jabby White, Pat Flemer and Mike Smith.

The raid came as the result of a long series of complaints from people living near East Steubenville who had observed activities at the camp for some time.

MINER'S DEATH IS INVESTIGATED

Coroner George A. Arner, of Chester, conducted an inquest yesterday into the death of Tony Brusky, 30, clay miner, who was crushed to death Saturday while at work in the Crescent Brick works, near New Cumberland. He returned a verdict of "accidental death."

Funeral services for the victim were held yesterday afternoon in New Cumberland. Burial was made there.

EARLY HISTORY OF PALESTINE IS UNCOVERED

Explorers Dig Up Complete Story of Old Lands.

DR. KYLE WRITES

Ancient Fenced City is Believed That of Judah.

ST. LOUIS.—The most complete unbroken history of civilization in Palestine revealed by any city of the land yet uncovered—a history that reached before 200 B. C.— was unearthed by explorers last April and May, according to an interesting letter just received here from Dr. M. G. Kyle, president of the Xenia Theological Seminary, who assisted in the research work.

Dr. Kyle, who will return to the United States soon, was aided in his explorations by the American School of Oriental Research at Jerusalem. His letter tells of the finding of great quantities of ancient pottery and the discovery of quaint gates and an ingenious water supply system in the ancient city of the Canaanites and Israelites.

Fenced City of Judah.

"The site selected as that of the ancient 'fenced city, Kirjath Sepher, proved beyond cavil to be that greatest 'fenced city of Judah,' and the last to fall before the 'whole army of Joshua," the letter recites.

"There are eleven points, requirements indeed, which the identification of this city at any place must meet, five archaelogical and six topographical. Teli Beit Mirsim, the site selected as Kirjah Sepher, satisfies completely each one of these eleven requirements and there is no other ruin that satisfactorily meets even one of these eleven. Daherjeh, the place marked on maps of Palestine as Kirjath Sepher, has nothing whatever to commend it, except that it is a convenient place for travelers to visit.

"The item in the identification of Tell Beit Mirsim as Kirjath Sepher that is most interesting to the public is that the two wells, the 'upper spring and the nether spring' mentioned in Joshua (15:13-19) are here and unmistakable. Their age can only be reckoned by milleniums. Six successive curbs have been put around these wells, each in turn worn into deep grooves by the running the the ropes in drawing water; these grooves in hard limestone are sometimes three or four inches deep.

Beautiful Pottery.

"But what makes this place so interesting even when identified? It was a typical 'fenced city' of the old Canaanites and of the Israelites—and in such a complete state of preservation that it is possible to see, by clearing away the rubbish, exactly what the walls and the gateway were like.

"The city crowns a conical, isolated hill that seems as if it had been dropped down in the midst of a valley. The wall sloping in the lower part and with perpendicular parapet, still stands about thirty feet high, though the parapet has been almost wholly thrown down; so that with the parapet the whole wall must have been between forty and fifty feet in height."

COUNCIL HOLDS REGULAR MEET

Council met in regular session last night in the municipal building.

Principal business transacted was authorization of the legislation necessary for the improvement of Carolina avenue. The plan is to improve the street by concrete with a brick base.

It was announced that a bond issue of approximately $125,000 to cover the cost of the work would be submitted to the voters at the election in November.

Gilboa Dam In Catskills Stores Water For Metropolis

Project, $182,000,000 Engineering Feat, Will Insure Supply for 10 More Years.

NEW YORK.—The completion of the new Gilboa dam in the Catskill mountains marks the culmination of one of civilization's greatest engineering fears.

Twenty years of work, the longest tunnel in the world, the destruction of eleven villages, and the expenditure of $182,600,000 are some of the outstanding factors involved in this gigantic effort and New York's greatest water project.

When the gates of Gilboa Dam have been closed, New York City will have a potential water supply of one billion gallons a day with which to satisfy the needs of six million people. At present, the city consumes eight hundred million gallons a day, or looking at it from a standpoint of density, eight pounds of water for each pound of human flesh.

Ten villages have been effaced by that gentle but firm device of the law—Eminent Domain, to make room for and allow the unhindered functioning of the great system. An eleventh, Gilboa, is now undergoing the process of demolition.

Reverse Flow of River.

Gilboa, about 120 miles northwest of New York City, lies on both sides of the Schoharie river. The dam bisects the village and when closed will reverse the northward flow of the river. Then, the waters piling up against the dam will form a new reservoir about six miles long and one wide.

At the furthest end of the reservoir, the waters will rush into the eighteen mile Shandaken Tunnel for a long, dark ride under the mountains. This tunnel, the longest in the world, is in some places as much as 630 feet below the surface of the valley.

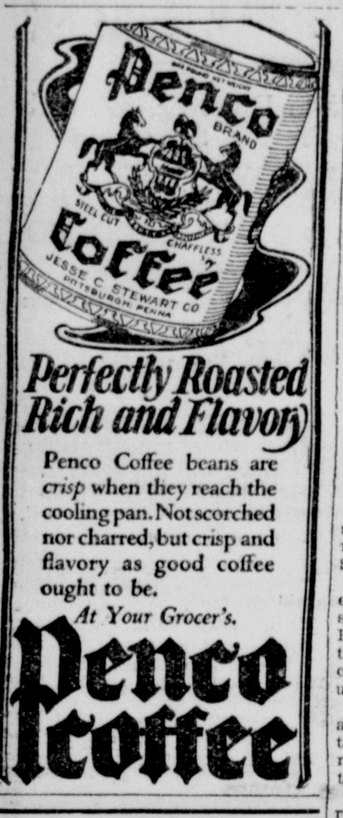

From the tunnel, the waters of the Schoharie flow into the Esopus river. Together they flow southward for a distance of fifteen miles until abstructed by the Ashokan dam, forming great storage reservoirs. The Ashokan reservoir is about fourteen miles west of Kingston in Ulster county.

Cross Under Hudson.

After aeration and chlorination at Ashokan, they travel eighty miles through the Catskill aqueduct, crossing the Hudson river a few miles above West Point through solid rock 1,000 feet below its surface. Reaching the Kensico reservoir in Westchester county, thirty miles nort of New York City, purification again takes place and distribution through city water mains is the next nd last step.

Compulsion, caused by the ever growing needs of a rapidly increasing population, prompted the construction of this mighty system. In the nineties, the city was so often faced by shortages of water that in 1902 definite steps were taken to formulate plans to avert these.

In 1905, the Board of Water Supply of thes tate was created by the legislature and in the following year work on the project was begun. With the closing of the Gilboa dam, New York is provided with a supply which will be ample until 1935.

New Coolidge Story Is Told by Stearns, His Intimate Friend

WASHINGTON.—Just another little story of our President, as told by his most intimate friend, Frank W. Stearns, of Boston:

"When President Coolidge was elected Governor of Massachusetts, he had seventy major appointments to make. For two weeks I sat in his office, listening to discussions of the various candidates and hearing various men urged for appointment.

"One night the President came in and said: 'Frank, here's something that might interest you. It's the patronage slate. I've already given it to the newspapers.'

"I took the list, still folded, to my room and for two hours conducting a little guessing contest with myself to see whether, on the basis of what I had heard, I could name the appointees. Finally I completed my list and compared the two.

"Of the seventy names, I had exactly three right, but unfortunately had been unable to pick the right job for any of the three."

KYNE DRAMA AT COLUMBIA

Pacific Fleet Boxer Stars in "Rustling for Cupid."

George O'Brien, who has the masculine lead in "Rustling for Cupid," Fox Films latest release which will show at the Columbia theatre for two days, was light heavy weight champion of the Pacific fleet while he was in the navy during the war, and in selecting the cast for this Peter B. Kyne drama of New Mexico ranch life, especial attention was given to the character of Jack Mason.

O'Brien has the role of Brad Blatchford and Blatchford has a terrific fight with Mason, Sid Jordan, who has given practically every star in the films a battle during his Hollywood career, was finally selected to take part of Mason. This insured a real battle.

When the fight was staged on location it was the "main event" and every man along that section of the border assembled to watch the mill.

The battle proved all that the "advance agents" had claimed for it and both O'Brien and Jordan had to take a day off to recover.

Anita Stewart has the feminine lead and others in the cast are Russell Simpson, Edith Yorke, Herbert Prior, and Frank McGlynn, Jr.

Q. Please advise the speed per hour made by the fastest trains in the New York subway. C. W. S.

A. The American Electric Railway Association says that the average speed made by the fastest express train in the New York subway is 24 miles per hour.

Q. Are tobacco, pepper, or hellebore good preventives for clothes-moths? C. T. C.

A. The following substances often recommended for clothes-moth control are worthless: Tobacco extracts, lavender flowers, cayenne pepper, allspice, angelica root, black pepper, pyrethum stems, air-slaked lime, powdered sulphur, salt, quassia chips, borax, colocynth pulp, eucalyptus leaves, white hellebore, formaldehyde, sodium bicarbonate, sodium carbonate, lead carbonate, lead oxid, red cedar leaves.

Q. Is there a monument to Major L'Enfant who planned the city of Washington? C. G. H.

A. An old fashioned type of tombstone marks the grave of L'Enfant. Other than this we have no memorial to him.

Q. Is the axis of the sun inclined with respect to the plane the sun makes with the earth? P. H.

A. The Naval Observatory says the axis of the sun is inclined seven degrees to the plane of the ecliptic.

Q. How would a young man be classified who was born in this country, but whose parents were Canadians and grandparents French? H. H. W.

A. Beginning with 1890, the census reports have classified all white persons whose parents (or one of whose parents) were born in foreign countries according to the country of birth of the parents. The most important use made of the information with regard to the country of birth of the parents is in connection with the classification of what we term the foreign white stock, by country of origin. This classification extends only to the second generation of the descendants of the foreign stock. The person mentioned would, therefore, be classified in the census returns as native with parents born in Canada. In the case of Canada alone, in the tables classifying the foreign white stock by country of origin, a separation is made according to language; that is, persons born in Canada are shown as either "Canada-French" or "Canada-Other." The man about whom you inquire would therefore have his French origin indicated in this manner.

Q. Where is General Lee buried? M. D.

A. The body of General Lee lies in a sarcophagus at Lexington, Va.

Q. For what purpose were the stone houses in Mammoth Cave built? R. G. C.

A. These houses were built almost a century ago by sufferers from tuberculosis who believed living in the cave would cure them. Another story is to the effect that miners who took saltpetre from the cave for powder-making during the war of 1812 built the houses, but while such mining did take place, it is probable the miners lived outside the cave. The fallacy of the underground cure theory for tuberculosis was soon demonstrated and some of the stone huts remain unfinished.

Q. Who was the first layman to be appointed chancellor in England? T. G. D.

A. In 1529, when Wolsey fell, Sir Thomas Moore succeeded him. The latter was the first layman to enjoy this honor.

Q. Are people more apt to be overcome by heat on a dry day or on a damp day? C. H. M.

A. At the same temperature, moist air is more productive of heat prostration than is dry air.

Q. What are places called where bicycle races are held? C. M.

A. They are known as velodromes.

Q. What is the best kind of wood for fuel? D. W. F.

A. Shell bark hickory ranks first in fuel value, with chestnut, white oak, white ash, and red oak following in the order named.

Q. What is the "apron" on a locomotive? A. R. N.

A. The sheet iron plate covering the space between the locomotive and the tender.

Q. Where is the largest art school in America? M. E. R.

A. The Art Institute, Chicago, has the largest art school in America.

Q. Who were the cliff dwellers? J. W. D.

A. The term "cliff dwellers" is used to designate the supposed extinct builders of the numerous cliff ruins scattered throughout the canons of the southwest, along the upper rivers of the Colorado and Rio Grande, in Utah, Colorado, Arizona and New Mexico. For a long time their origin was a subject of much discussion, but recent investigation has proved that these ruins are not the work of any extinct race, but were built by the immediate ancestors of the modern Pueblo Indians, some of whom, notably the Hopi, still have their villages on the summits of almost inaccessible mesas. Evidences of cliff dwellers have also been found in various parts of Europe, having existed during an early period in the history of men.

Q. Where is Moraine Park? B. E. C.

A. The National Conference on State Parks says that Moraine is a proposed state park in eastern Wisconsin and is known as Kettle Moraine park.

Q. What states have school ships? C. V. G.

A. Three states have school ships. They are Pennsylvania, New York and Massachusetts.

WHITE HOUSE IS DOLLED UP FOR COOLIDGES

President and Wife Will Find Spic and Span Home.

WORKMEN BUSY

Small Army on Job Makes Structure Glisten.

WASHINGTON.—President and Mrs. Coolidge will return from their summer vacation to a spic and span White House.

A small army of workmen has improved the president's absence by renovating the big structure inside and out. Indeed, their work is so thorough that Washington wags are asking if the president's first speech on his return won't be a lecture on economy to the custodians of his residence.

Three coats of white paint will make the building glisten in the bright morning sun. The great East Room, scene of the brilliant functions of state, is also being painted, the first time in twelve years. The house keeper's quarter's are being renovated for the first times since 1902.

Much to Be Done.

The more workmen explore the White House the more things they find to do, and if the president remains away long enough he may find his economy program in great danger. For all presidents have been personally economica. They may have approved appropriations for rivers and harbors in creeks that go dry in the summer, but they have hesitated to let those in charge of public buildings spend much money on the White House.

An ordinary crushed stone roadway leads up to the entrance of the White House through a beautiful and spacious yard filled with flowers and trees. More than once dust rolled up by automobiles has poured in through open windows. Now, six thousand dollars is being spent on a new roadway, one that experts say will be dustless and withstand the summer heat.

New Electric Elevator.

A new electric elevator is being installed, to replace the automatic one that is said to have stopped any place from the basement to the roof, sometimes under most embarrassing circumstances.

An elaborate refrigerating plant that will supply ice and cool the entire building is being installed.

The roof, which army engineers say may fall in some day, is not being touched and won't until the president is ready to find another place to live for several months. The White House, being old, is peculiarly constructed. The entire top floor is said to be suspended from the roof, so that when the roof is repaired the floor will have to be torn down.

What if you had to wait as long for the doctor to come as he has to wait for his money?—Zanesville Signal.

EAST LIVERPOOL—AMERICA'S POTTERY CENTER

TUESDAY, AUGUST 3, 1926.

Are You Registered?

With the Republican and Democratic primaries but one week distant, East Liverpool voters should ask themselves "Am I registered?"

In order to vote for candidates for state, district and county nominations and pass judgment on a proposed constitutional amendment relative to the assessment of the cost of public improvements, electors in registration cities must be enrolled.

If a voter qualified at the quadrennial enrollment preceding the presidential election in 1924, or at a subsequent registration, he is entitled to the suffrage privilege at the primaries. Otherwise, he must register on one of the two days designated for this purpose.

Friday and Saturday are registration days. From 9 A. M. to 8 P. M. and 5 to 10 P. M. on each day, registrars will be on duty in the city's 21 precincts to enroll electors and issue transfers. Transfers, too, will be granted from 5 to 9 P. M. on Monday, August 9.

Don't disfranchise yourself by neglecting to register.

Prosperous Canada

Canada is evidently thriving. Figures from Ottawa say that the Dominion now has "the largest favorable per capita trade balance in the world."

No wonder Canadian money is at par, or higher—the only money this is sometimes worth more in exchange than our own.

Canada is doing a heap of business, by the way, with the United States. For the year ending with last March it amounted, incoming and outgoing, to $1,095,000,000, an increase of $158,000,000 over the previous year.

Canada's trade with this country, as it happens, is not "favorable" to her in the usually accepted sense. She bought from us this last year $100,000,000 worth of goods more than she sold us. Canada is out best customer outside of Great Britain. Yet Uncle Sam is a pretty good customer for Canada, too. We bought $485,000,000 worth of stuff from her during the 12 months ending with March.

Counting the millions that Americans spend in Canada, our good northern neighbor probably does better than an even break with us in the matter of trade. Which is an additional reason why the American tourist in Toronto or Quebec is occasionally amazed to find that his dollar is only worth about 98 cents.

Dickens Still Read

The works of Charles Dickens, says The Publisher's Weekly, are more widely read than those of Thackeray, Eliot and Scott put together.

Perhaps the most interesting thing about that bit of news is the apparent fact that those authors are still read. One gets the impression from most current book news and from browsing in book stores that those four literary lights are regarded as antiquated and not worth the time that might be spent on Sherwood Anderson, Theodore Dreiser and the rest of the present-day fashionable ones.

Yet they still have readers. That should inspire current writers. If their works are as good as Dickens', Thackeray's, Eliot's and Scott's, they'll still have readers, too, when they are the old-timers and a new crop of fiction is the rage.

In The Swim at 87

An 87-year-old French woman recently won an endurance contest in swimming. It was during an unduly hot spell when a group of women decided to go in bathing to cool off and incidentally organized some water contests. The aged swimmer who won the endurance test by swimming for an hour, finished her swim without any sign of fatigue.

She told interested spectators later that she had begun swimming at the age of four and was at one time a champion swimmer. At about 67 years she had given up the pastime, but is now tempted to resume it, at least during warm spells.

How many other octogenarians who gave up swimming 20 or more years ago could plunge into the water and duplicate this swimmer's record? Perhaps not a great many, yet at the rate grandparents are retaining their youth and youthful interests, it is likely to become more rather than less common.

The Popular Shade

You may not believe it, but the black stockings still outnumber those of any other color.

Rayon (artificial silk) manufacturers report that black leads white, champagne, atmosphere, grain, French nude, flesh, peach, dove gray and moonlight in popularity. The approach of autumn should further stimulate production and purchase of the more sedate color.

Information on men's socks is lacking, but nobody cares, anyhow. Black has always been preferred by the men folk, and the individual with a flair for the passionate in socks is rare indeed.

Moreover, men's hose were made to be worn, and darned, rather than to be seen, and that makes all the difference in the world.

My Favorite Stories
By IRVIN S. COBB

NO TEMPORIZING WITH SEEMING DISCREPANCIES.

Before leaving his country home on Long Island for New York one morning an actor of convivial habits made his wife a solemn promise that under no circumstances would he suffer himself to be tempted into touching strong drink during his day in the city. He was due home at 6 o'clock. It was nearly seven when he appeared in the distance and it was plain that he was having difficulty in navigating.

His wife, burning with indignation, met him at the foot of the porch steps.

"Bob," she snapped, "you broke your word to me—you've been drinking."

"Dearie," he stated, with an earnestness marred only by a slight thickness of speech, "I am not going to lie to you—I have indeed been drinking. But wait, until you hear the reason why I have been drinking and then, dearie, you will understand all.

"I kept my pledge in town—all day I kept it. This one and that one offered me a drink, but each time I said No. When I got off the train I was sober as a judge. But on the way home I passed Joe Page's house and he called me in and told me a most terrible story. He and his wife have had a terrible quarrel and she's left him and gone to her people. He was desperate—heartbroken, half crazy, all that sort of thing. He was actually threatening to commit suicide.

"As a friend I went in with him to try and calm him and then nothing would do but that I should take a drink with him. He said if I drank with him it might help to make him forget for a little while the shipwreck of all his happiness. What could I do, dearie? It was an emergency—I had to so something for poor old Joe Page if I could. So I drank with him. Then he insisted that I should drink some more with him. And I did. Finally I got him quieted down and now he's gone to bed. And here I am, dearie, slightly under the influence of liquor I admit, but I have probably haved a human life."

Tears overcame him; he sobbed and wiped his eyes.

'Is' that so?" stated his wife in cold and unmoved accents. "Well, would you alter your statement any if I told you that the Pages are over here for dinner and are in the house now, perfectly normal and happy except that they are somewhat annoyed at having had to wait nearly an hour for you to get here?"

"Madam," he answered firmly, "that's my story and I'm going to stick to it!.'

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY
By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—Last night I watched the odd assortment of humans who collect in a cafe in Greenwich Village catering to attic art. They are ludicrous in their posing, and yet no group to me inspires such undercurrent of sympathy for wasted lives.

For indeed many of these young men and women have a natural gift for the arts. They came to New York mostly from small towns bursting with ambition and were lulled by the false glamour of a catch-penny existence. They saw the easy life of fake martyrs to art.

These are those unwashed souls who pose as starving for an ideal when they are in reality impecunious beggars who have not touched a pen, paint brush or bit of clay in years. They have drifted into a life that may be lived without toil.

For a few dollars a week, borrowed here and there from sympathetic listeners, they exist. Their simulation of artistic endeavor lifts them above their real status of stationary hoboes. And so they grow long hair, don wide Latin Quarter hats and smocks and laze through life.

There was the gray-haired woman coiffured into a masculine bob in a mannish garb of tweeds and with pince-nez. A sallow youth with goatee—not more than 23—who wore a heavy gold bracelet. A girl with heavily kohled eyes in a flaming red sweater, and who for no obvious reason carried a riding crop.

There were those in velvet tams—sighing for European places they knew only by reputation. Youths in wide pants—artists for the evening—who would punch department store time clocks next morning. A weather-beaten old fellow who had actually done notable work, but preferred to cast his lot with the salamanders.

Most of them had arisen as the sun went down and would spend the night in the heavy pall of blue smoke, discussing outlandish isms and cosmic urges. The next day they would repeat the formula and it would be difficult to convince one of them that this was not life with a glittering capital "L."

A city can hide a chronic loafer, and indeed at times give him an air of importance he can never hope to achieve in a smaller community. A loafer is tagged over night in a country town. In New York are numerous nimble-witted men who haven't worked for years. They are known as being "in Wall street" or following some other vague pursuits, and there are no questions. The city is too big to notice affairs of an individual.

Many of us secretly admire the successful loafer. I think of one who has not worked to my certain knowledge for ten years. He is not a remittance man, yet wears good clothes, seems to have spending money, and his habits appear above the average. If he is unhappy he does not show it, and he is the sort people enjoy having around. I once asked him his business of profession and he, smiling enigmatically, replied "That worries a lot of people," and changed the subject.

Laziness, it would apear, is about the easiest of all vices to acquire. Sociologists who try to learn the underlying causes of poverty among able-bodied men, say that once a lazy man learns he can exist for six months without work he rarely wants to work again. He becomes a useless member of society and reformation is almost hopeless.

And then there is the really industrious editor in New York who has unique ideas regarding the folly of thrift. He has figures to show the large majority of thrifty eventually have their money taken from them in wild-cat schemes. Yet this editor remains thrifty. There's a lot of fun saving, even if they do take it away from us.

HASKIN'S LETTER
By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

The Home of Jefferson—I.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 3.—With improved highways and hotels, the intelligent activities of the association in charge of the property, and the interest awakened by the sesquicentennial year of the Declaration of Independence, the old Virginia home of Thomas Jefferson has suddenly become a shrine of American pilgrimages which have come to exceed 40,000 per year. Monticello, alone and serene on its mountain top near Charlottesville, had not one tenth as many visitors even ten years ago.

It has happened that Virginia awakened to the need of good roads at just the time the nation discovered in Monticello one of the remarkable and completely preserved memorials of the birth of the United States. Hence the Jefferson shrine, long a most isolated spot, is now just a delightful little motor trip from Washington, and somewhat more accessible from Richmond, while Baltimore and even Philadelphia are considered bases from which to start expeditions to the home of the Declaration's author. The journey to Monticello from any of these cities necessarily lies through lands of great historic interest, battlefields of the Revolution and the Civil War, and past the homes or birthplaces of famous Americans.

From Washington, which is the greatest center of pilgrimages to Monticello, three chief routes are offered, with numerous variations over part of the way. One is via Fredericksburg, Va., and the Chancellorsville and Wilderness battlefields. Another is via Fairfax, Manassas, Bull Run, Warranton, Culpeper, and Orange.

The third is via the Shenandoah Valley, and while it is the longest route it is usually followed for either the going or return trip, as it leads through three states in a day's motoring and passes the scenes of Jubal Early's raids, Frederick, Maryland, the Barbara Fretchie town, Harpers Ferry and Charlestown, West Virginia, where John Brown was captured and where he was tried and hanged, and Winchester, Virginia, whence Sheridan rode in haste, and along the course of his ride to Cedar Creek battlefield where he stayed the Union retreat and turned the rout into a victory.

A Valley of Battles.

Every town in the Shenandoah Valley from Winchester to Staunton saw battles and skirmishes of Stonewall Jackson's campaigns. At Newmarket many monuments mark the fields of combat. Natural wonders also mark the journey, the famous caverns of Luray and Newmarket among the number. The student of history will also be harking back to the earliest colonial settlements, the Indian wars, and the days when pioneers of this valley trekked westward after Daniel Boone, and men like the grandfather of Abraham Lincoln started from here over the wilderness Trail to Tennessee and Kentucky.

At Staunton many will turn aside a few blocks to see the old manse of the Presbyterian church, where Woodrow Wilson was born. From Staunton the way to Charlottesville lies over the Blue Ridge, where a fine highway winds above the valleys, giving magnificent panoramas of the richest farm lands of old Virginia.

Charlottesville has for years been a thriving city, but the reviving interest in the great founder of American liberties has helped to give it a more modern aspect as better hotels and greatly increased auto traffic have filled its streets with travelers. As the home of the University of Virginia, founded by Jefferson, it has long been an important city in the hearts of Virginians, and as the center of a very rich agricultural region it has enjoyed more or less steady prosperity.

Nowadays it is just a little bit inclined to be booming, and its narrow old business street is too crowded for comfort. At one end of this street starts the road to Monticello, the mountain top which looms up at the point of a spur of the Blue Ridge which has struck off to the east. At the other end are the grounds of the beautiful old University.

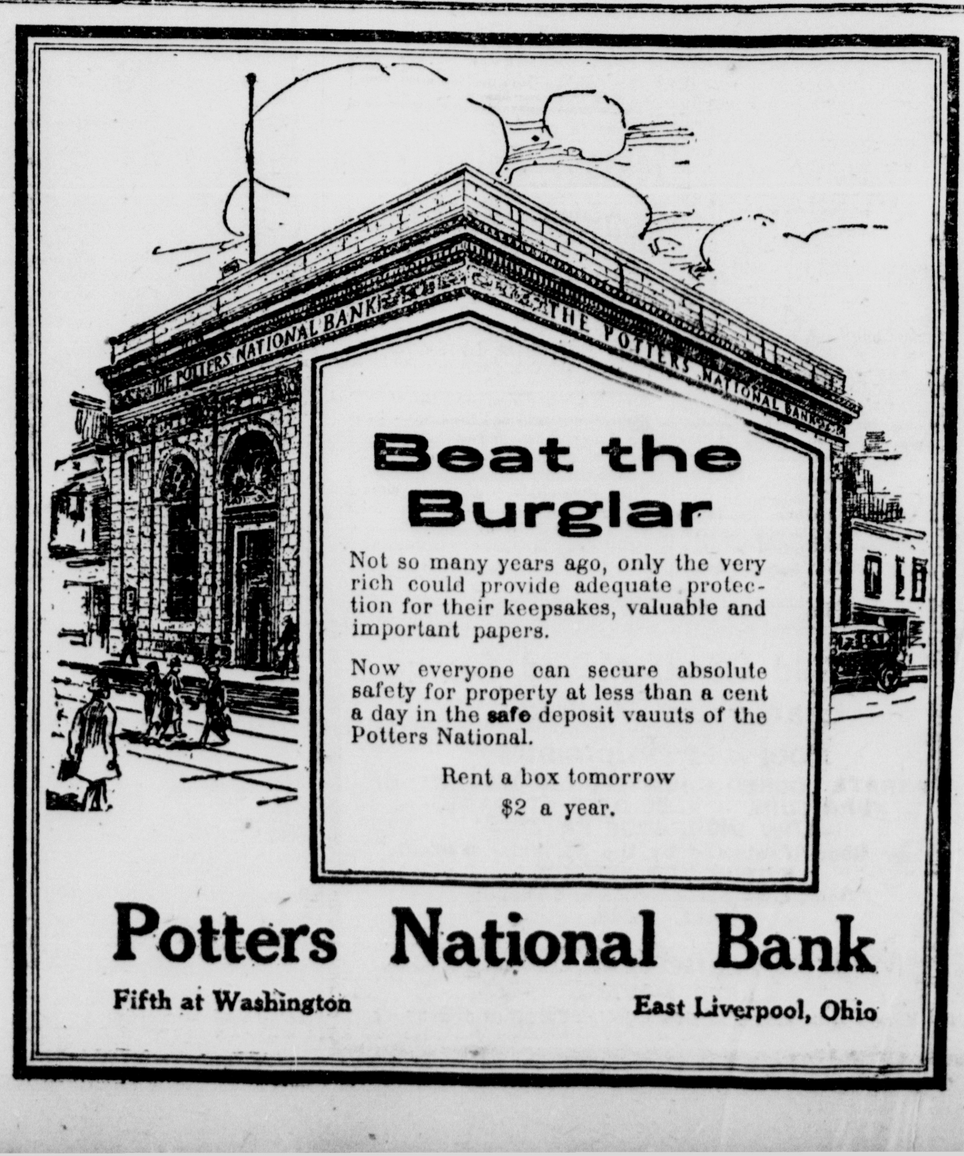

Charlottesville has other claims for fame besides the distinction brought to her by Jefferson. Here were the homes of George Rogers Clark, conqueror of our first Northwest, the territory that is now Ohio and Indiana, Illinois and Michigan, and Wisconsin and Minnesota. From this and other colonial and pioneer towns of western Virginia went out those hardy explorers and settlers of the West, and the fighters who with Clark wrested those lands from the allied enemy, the red coats of Britain and the red skins of the natives, and were the heroes of such tales as have been recorded in "Alice of Old Vincennes." A magnificent statue of Clark stands near the grounds of the University.

Two Other Discoverers Honored.

A few blocks to the east at atriangle of streets is the joint statue of two other great discoverers of the West Meriwether Lewis and William Clark. They were Charlottesville men. Clark was a younger brother of George Rogers Clark. All were friends of Jefferson, and the learning and foresight of the third President which prompted his purchase of the Louisiana Territory was the inspiration of the famous Lewis and Clark journey across the continent to the mouth of the Columbia River in 1804 and 1805. The Lewis and Clark monument portrays the two explorers in the costumes of their day, facing the great West in which they were pioneers.

Charlottesville is full of reminders of the Sage of Monticello, and the routes leading to it from the east and northeast are as abundant in inspiring memories as the Shenandoah highroad. From Richmond comes a beautiful, winding, rolling boulevard along the route Jefferson traveled to attend the meetings of the delegates of his colony, and later to take his place as Governor of Virginia. It comes through Shadwell, the birthplace of Jefferson, and passes near the homes

Battle for Two County Offices Expected to Bring Out Vote.

Approximately 300 ballots had been cast at noon here today in the primary election in which county officers will be named in addition to candidates for congress and state senate. Electors of the Rock Springs park precinct are also balloting on the proposed bond issue of $75,000 for the erection of a new school building in Newell.

Voters are chiefly interested in the contests for county clerk between Robert R. Hobbs and James Gracie and N. W. Ballantyne and M. N. Price for county commissioner. The above candidates made a complete canvass of the county.

Congressman Carl Bachman, of Wheeling, seeking renomination, is pitted against Ben L. Rosenbloom, former representative in congress, while State Senator Wright Hugus has opposition in George C. Beneke and George H. Miller.

Light Democratic vote is predicted as there is no opposition for county offices. Edmund M. Conaway and George W. Oldham, are in the field for the nomination for congress, while Samuel P. Christian and Robert D. Frame, are opponents for state senator of the minority party.

OFFICERS RAID FISHING CAMP

A fishing camp along the Ohio river, at East Steubenville, W. Va., said to have been a rendezvouz for Steubenville miscreants for some weeks was cleaned out last evening by a squad of Brooke county officials.

Seven prisoners, including one woman and the proprietor, were arrested, charged with being drunk and disorderly, and incarcerated in the Brooke county jail, to await preliminary hearing.

Those arrested were Jane Brown, Tom Stafford, proprietor; Andy Sortis, Jabby White, Pat Flemer and Mike Smith.

The raid came as the result of a long series of complaints from people living near East Steubenville who had observed activities at the camp for some time.

EARLY HISTORY OF PALESTINE IS UNCOVERED

Explorers Dig Up Complete Story of Old Lands.

DR. KYLE WRITES

Ancient Fenced City is Believed That of Judah.

ST. LOUIS.—The most complete unbroken history of civilization in Palestine revealed by any city of the land yet uncovered—a history that reached before 200 B. C.— was unearthed by explorers last April and May, according to an interesting letter just received here from Dr. M. G. Kyle, president of the Xenia Theological Seminary, who assisted in the research work.

Dr. Kyle, who will return to the United States soon, was aided in his explorations by the American School of Oriental Research at Jerusalem. His letter tells of the finding of great quantities of ancient pottery and the discovery of quaint gates and an ingenious water supply system in the ancient city of the Canaanites and Israelites.

Fenced City of Judah.

"The site selected as that of the ancient 'fenced city, Kirjath Sepher, proved beyond cavil to be that greatest 'fenced city of Judah,' and the last to fall before the 'whole army of Joshua,'" the letter recites.

"There are eleven points, requirements indeed, which the identification of this city at any place must meet, five archaeological and six topographical. Teli Beit Mirsim, the site selected as Kirjah Sepher, satisfies completely each one of these eleven requirements and there is no other ruin that satisfactorily meets even one of these eleven. Daherjeh, the place marked on maps of Palestine as Kirjath Sepher, has nothing whatever to commend it, except that it is a convenient place for travelers to visit.

"The item in the identification of Tell Beit Mirsim as Kirjath Sepher that is most interesting to the public is that the two wells, the 'upper spring and the nether spring' mentioned in Joshua (15:13-19) are here and unmistakable. Their age can only be reckoned by milleniums. Six successive curbs have been put around these wells, each in turn worn into deep grooves by the running the the ropes in drawing water; these grooves in hard limestone are sometimes three or four inches deep.

Beautiful Pottery.

"But what makes this place so interesting even when identified? It was a typical 'fenced city' of the old Canaanites and of the Israelites—and in such a complete state of preservation that it is possible to see, by clearing away the rubbish, exactly what the walls and the gateway were like.

"The city crowns a conical, isolated hill that seems as if it had been dropped down in the midst of a valley. The wall sloping in the lower part and with perpendicular parapet, still stands about thirty feet high, though the parapet has been almost wholly thrown down; so that with the parapet the whole wall must have been between forty and fifty feet in height."

COUNCIL HOLDS REGULAR MEET

Council met in regular session last night in the municipal building.

Principal business transacted was authorization of the legislation necessary for the improvement of Carolina avenue. The plan is to improve the street by concrete with a brick base.

It was announced that a bond issue of approximately $125,000 to cover the cost of the work would be submitted to the voters at the election in November.

Hood Funeral Services.

Funeral services for Helen, 3-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hood, who died suddenly of heart disease Saturday in the home at Holliday's Cove, were held yesterday afternoon. Burial was made at Florence, Pa.

Club Meeting Scheduled.

Franklin Fancywork club will meet tomorrow afternoon with Mrs. Jess Stewart at her home near Mill Creek.

CHAUTAUQUA OPENS MONDAY

Tent Will be Erected at Tenth and Main Streets.

The chautauqua tent will go up on the vacant lot at Tenth and Main streets next Saturday, Paul Harris, advance man for the Redpath bureau, who arrived here yesterday announced today. The program will open Monday and close on the following Sunday.

There will be afternoon and evening attractions each day and morning sessions as well on Tuesday and Wednesday. The afternoon program will start at 3 o'clock, the evening program at 8 and the two morning entertainments at 10:30 o'clock.

The opening feature will be a concert by Harold Lewis and his Symphony Players Monday afternoon. On Monday evening, Lewis will offer an entirely new program, followed by a lecture, "The Modern Tale of Two Cities," by Charles H. Plattenberg.

An entertainment, "Tinkers and Thinkers," will be presented by Sam Grathwell Tuesday morning. Another lecture, "Getting By Your Hoodoo," will be offered by Grathwell Tuesday afternoon. Channing Pollock's drama, "The Fool," will be presented by a group of players as the evening attraction.

"A Message from No. 16542" is the title of a lecture to be delivered by John H. Dickason Wednesday morning. The afternoon program will be in charge of Howard Wade Kinsey, basso and song director, and Lora Orth Kimsey, pianist, followed by a lecture, "Young America at Bat," by Dickason. Another song session, directed by Kimsey, and a discussion "What is Ahead for Europe?" by D. Thomas Curtin, international newspaper correspondent, is scheduled for Wednesday evening.

A musical prelude, "The Poet of the Home" by the Moscow Artists and a lecture, "Everyday Home," by Anne Campbell, noted reader, will be offered Thursday afternoon. The evening attraction will be a scenic production by the Moscow Artists Ensemble, featuring the Russian Balalika quartet and Mlle. Nina Sergeyeva, premier danseuse.

On Friday afternoon a historical junior pageant, "The Quill," will be presented in connection with a dramatic entertainment by Harrison Clofford. The recent comedy success, "Applesauce," in three acts, will be given by a group of five Friday evening.

A musical prelude by the Alpine Yodlers, a special children's entertainment by Al Baker, magician-ventriloquist, assisted by "Dummy Dennis," are on the Saturday afternoon slate. Another scenic production, "Echoes of the Alps" by the Fiechtl Yodlers, with Jost and Wunderle, will be presented Saturday evening.

The Sunday program will be of some semi-sacred form.

ST. ROCCO DAY ACTION EXPECTED

The city solons at their meeting tonight are expected to act upon the request of Italian residents for permission to hold a St. Rocco's day celebration here.

Petitions, urging that council refuse to grant a permit will be received from the congregation of the First Presbyterian church and the Sunday school of the First Methodist Episcopal church. Opposition to the celebration, an annual affair, was voiced at the council meeting two weeks ago, but action was deferred for two weeks.

Under the city code refusal or permission for such celebrations rests in the hands of council. The proposed celebration is to include a fireworks display at Central park and a parade and banquet.

EXHIBIT NEW INTERURBAN CAR

One of the eight new interurban cars purchased by The Stream Line is to be placed on exhibition at the corner of Fifth and Main streets between 6:30 and 7 o'clock tomorrow evening. The public is invited to inspect the car.

The new cars are steel in construction and were built at a cost of approximately $16,000 each. Four of them will be placed in service between Beaver and Steubenville Thursday.

Gleaners' Class Supper.

Members of the Gleaners' class of the First Methodist Episcopal church will hold a coverdish supper at the church at 7:30 o'clock Thursday evening.

CIVIL SERVICE EXAM AUG. 17

The civil service commission has announced an examination for applicants for police and fire department places which will be conducted in the council chamber of the city hall on Tuesday, August 17.

There is one vacancy in the police force, caused by the dismissal of Patrolman Harry Hurd. This place will be filled from one of three eligibles whose names will be filed with Mayor Fogo by the commission following the examination. Applicants may obtain forms from Grattan Dugan, clerk of the commission.

FOGO ASSESSES $300 IN FINES

One Dry Law Case Among Those Heard by Mayor.

Frank Ross, White street and John Peletto will be given hearings before Mayor Wallace Fogo Thursday evening upon charges of assault.

Ross first caused the arrest of Peletto. The latter immediately preferred a similar charge against Ross.

Michale Barnes, of East Liverpool, arrested over the wek-end, charged with the illegal possession of intoxicating liquors, was fined $100.

Mrs. Olive Simmors, who was arrested at her home corner Twelfth and Lisbon streets, charged with maintaining a disorderly house was also assessed $100. Barnes arranged to settle his fine but the woman was remanded to jail.

Fines of $50 and costs each were levied by Mayor Fogo against William Pugh, Pasquale Ramilla and L. Lorenze, who were arrested upon charges of disorderly conduct by fighting at Fifteenth and Center streets Sunday afternoon.

Missionary Society Picnic.

The Home Missionary society of the First Methodist Protestant church will picnic at Hammond park this afternoon and evening. Supper will be served at 6 o'clock.

Honolulu Shipping Shows Big Increase Over Previous Year

HONOLULU—The amount of shipping which arrives each year at the port of Honolulu shows a steady increase. The figures for the year ending June 30 have been announced by the harbor master as 6,198,604 tons, or 228,509 tons greater than for 1925.

Exports for the calendar year 1925 amounted to $104,625,291 and imports to $83,840,698.

22,266,387 HORSES IN U. S. PROVE DOBBIN IS STAGING COMEBACK

CHICAGO. — Dobbin is staging "comeback!"

Figures just released here by a prominent agricultural service corporation, gleaned from a national survey revealed that the horse not only is not disappearing from the sphere of usefulness, but actually is multiplying his activities.

Quoting Wayne Dinsmore, secretary of the Horse Association of America, the survey declared:

"The motor truck is the only thing on long hauls where speed is essential. But on short hauls, it isn't practical. For the dairy, laundry, bakery and other industries, the horse still is the best means of transportation.

"Speaking of tractors not eating which has to be purchased, at a farm products, they eat something which has t o be purchased at a profit, with the fruit of farm labor, gasoline. Oil of course, also has to be supplied.

"Neither have yet been successfully raised on the farm in an available state. But it is easy to grow corn, oats and hay."

A Chicago concern marketing more harness than any other firm in the country reported an increase of 80 per cent in sales for 1925 over those for 1922.

There are 22,266,387 horses in the United States today, the survey disclosed.

The new car announcements of General Motors have swept Fisher into the greatest eminence in motor car history.

Everywhere you see the emblem—Body by Fisher. In all price classes, it is the inescapable badge of quality. The leaders, such as Cadillac, Buick, Chevrolet, Oakland, Oldsmobile and Pontiac, all display as one of their proudest assets the symbol—Body by Fisher.

It is their assurance of public satisfaction—in safety, in charm of line, in beauty of color and appointment, in comfort and convenience.

Fisher—the greatest body builder in the world—stands head and shoulders above all others in quality. The new General Motors cars all help to prove Fisher leadership.

EAST LIVERPOOL—AMERICA'S POTTERY CENTER

TUESDAY, AUGUST 3, 1926.

Are You Registered?

With the Republican and Democratic primaries but one week distant, East Liverpool voters should ask themselves "Am I registered?"

In order to vote for candidates for state, district and county nominations and pass judgment on a proposed constitutional amendment relative to the assessment of the cost of public improvements, electors in registration cities must be enrolled.

If a voter qualified at the quadrennial enrollment preceding the presidential election in 1924, or at a subsequent registration, he is entitled to the suffrage privilege at the primaries. Otherwise, he must register on one of the two days designated for this purpose.

Friday and Saturday are registration days. From 9 A. M. to 3 P. M. and 5 to 10 P. M. on each day, registrars will be on duty in the city's 21 precincts to enroll electors and issue transfers. Transfers, too, will be granted from 5 to 9 P. M. on Monday, August 9.

Don't disfranchise yourself by neglecting to register.

Prosperous Canada

Canada is evidently thriving. Figures from Ottawa say that the Dominion now has "the largest favorable per capita trade balance in the world."

No wonder Canadian money is at par, or higher—the only money this is sometimes worth more in exchange than our own.

Canada is doing a heap of business, by the way, with the United States. For the year ending with last March it amounted, incoming and outgoing, to $1,095,000,000, an increase of $158,000,000 over the previous year.

Canada's trade with this country, as it happens, is not "favorable" to her in the usually accepted sense. She bought from us this last year $100,000,000 worth of goods more than she sold us. Canada is out best customer outside of Great Britain. Yet Uncle Sam is a pretty good customer for Canada, too. We bought $485,000,000 worth of stuff from her during the 12 months ending with March.

Counting the millions that Americans spend in Canada, our good northern neighbor probably does better than an even break with us in the matter of trade. Which is an additional reason why the American tourist in Toronto or Quebec is occasionally amazed to find that his dollar is only worth about 98 cents.

Dickens Still Read

The works of Charles Dickens, says The Publisher's Weekly, are more widely read than those of Thackeray, Eliot and Scott put together.

Perhaps the most interesting thing about that bit of news is the apparent fact that those authors are still read. One gets the impression from most current book news and from browsing in book stores that those four literary lights are regarded as antiquated and not worth the time that might be spent on Sherwood Anderson, Theodore Dreiser and the rest of the present-day fashionable ones.

Yet they still have readers. That should inspire current writers. If their works are as good as Dickens', Thackeray's, Eliot's and Scott's, they'll still have readers, too, when they are the old-timers and a new crop of fiction is the rage.

In The Swim at 87

An 87-year-old French woman recently won an endurance contest in swimming. It was during an unduly hot spell when a group of women decided to go in bathing to cool off and incidentally organized some water contests. The aged swimmer who won the endurance test by swimming for an hour, finished her swim without any sign of fatigue.

She told interested spectators later that she had begun swimming at the age of four and was at one time a champion swimmer. At about 67 years she had given up the pastime, but is now tempted to resume it, at least during warm spells.

How many other octogenarians who gave up swimming 20 or more years ago could plunge into the water and duplicate this swimmer's record? Perhaps not a great many, yet at the rate grandparents are retaining their youth and youthful interests, it is likely to become more rather than less common.

The Popular Shade

You may not believe it, but the black stockings still outnumber those of any other color.

Rayon (artificial silk) manufacturers report that black leads white, champagne, atmosphere, grain, French nude, flesh, peach, dove gray and moonlight in popularity. The approach of autumn should further stimulate production and purchase of the more sedate color.

Information on men's socks is lacking, but nobody cares, anyhow. Black has always been preferred by the men folk, and the individual with a flair for the passionate in socks is rare indeed.

Moreover, men's hose were made to be worn, and darned, rather than to be seen, and that makes all the difference in the world.

NO TEMPORIZING WITH SEEMING DISCREPANCIES.

Before leaving his country home on Long Island for New York one morning an actor of convivial habits made his wife a solemn promise that under no circumstances would he suffer himself to be tempted into touching strong drink during his day in the city. He was due home at 6 o'clock. It was nearly seven when he appeared in the distance and it was plain that he was having difficulty in navigating.

His wife, burning with indignation, met him at the foot of the porch steps.

"Bob," she snapped, "you broke your word to me—you've been drinking."

"Dearie," he stated, with an earnestness marred only by a slight thickness of speech, "I am not going to lie to you—I have indeed been drinking. But wait, until you hear the reason why I have been drinking and then, dearie, you will understand all.

"I kept my pledge in town—all day I kept it. This one and that one offered me a drink, but each time I said No. When I got off the train I was sober as a judge. But on the way home I passed Joe Page's house and he called me in and told me a most terrible story. He and his wife have had a terrible quarrel and she's left him and gone to her people. He was desperate—heartbroken, half crazy, all that sort of thing. He was actually threatening to commit suicide.

"As a friend I went in with him to try and calm him and then nothing would do but that I should take a drink with him. He said if I drank with him it might help to make him forget for a little while the shipwreck of all his happiness. What could I do, dearie? It was an emergency—I had to so something for poor old Joe Page if I could. So I drank with him. Then he insisted that I should drink some more with him. And I did. Finally I got him quieted down and now he's gone to bed. And here I am, dearie, slightly under the influence of liquor I admit, but I have probably haved a human life."

Tears overcame him; he sobbed and wiped his eyes.

'Is' that so?" stated his wife in cold and unmoved accents. "Well, would you alter your statement any if I told you that the Pages are over here for dinner and are in the house now, perfectly normal and happy except that they are somewhat annoyed at having had to wait nearly an hour for you to get here?"

"Madam," he answered firmly, "that's my story and I'm going to stick to it!.'

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—Last night I watched the odd assortment of humans who collect in a cafe in Greenwich Village catering to attic art. They are ludicrous in their posing, and yet no group to me inspires such undercurrent of sympathy for wasted lives.

For indeed many of these young men and women have a natural gift for the arts. They came to New York mostly from small towns bursting with ambition and were lulled by the false glamour of a catch-penny existence. They saw the easy life of fake martyrs to art.

These are those unwashed souls who pose as starving for an ideal when they are in reality impecunious beggars who have not touched a pen, paint brush or bit of clay in years. They have drifted into a life that may be lived without toil.

For a few dollars a week, borrowed here and there from sympathetic listeners , they exist. Their simulation of artistic endeavor lifts them above their real status of stationary hoboes. And so they grow long hair, don wide Latin Quarter hats and smocks and laze through life.

There was the gray-haired woman coiffured into a masculine bob in a mannish garb of tweeds and with pince-nez. A sallow youth with goatee —not more than 23—who wore a heavy gold bracelet. A girl with heavily kohled eyes in a flaming red sweater, and who for no obvious reason carried a riding crop.

There were those in velvet tams—sighing for European places they knew only by reputation. Youths in wide pants—artists for the evening—who would punch department store time clocks next morning. A weather-beaten old fellow who had actually done notable work, but preferred to cast his lot with the salamanders.

Most of them had arisen as the sun went down and would spend the night in the heavy pall of blue smoke, discussing outlandish isms and cosmic urges. The next day they would repeat the formula and it would be difficult to convince one of them that this was not life with a glittering capital "L."

A city can hide a chronic loafer, and indeed at times give him an air of importance he can never hope to achieve in a smaller community. A loafer is tagged over night in a country town. In New York are numerous nimble-witted men who haven't worked for years. They are known as being "in Wall street" or following some other vague pursuits, and there are no questions. The city is too big to notice affairs of an individual.

Many of us secretly admire the successful loafer. I think of one who has not worked to my certain knowledge for ten years. He is not a remittance man, yet wears good clothes, seems to have spending money, and his habits appear above the average. If he is unhappy he does not show it, and he is the sort people enjoy having around. I once asked him his business of profession and he, smiling enigmatically, replied "That worries a lot of people," and changed the subject.

Laziness, it would apear, is about the easiest of all vices to acquire. Sociologists who try to learn the underlying causes of poverty among able-bodied men, say that once a lazy man learns he can exist for six months without work he rarely wants to work again. He becomes a useless member of society and reformation is almost hopeless.

And then there is the really industrious editor in New York who has unique ideas regarding the folly of thrift. He has figures to show the large majority of thrifty eventually have their money taken from them in wild-cat schemes. Yet this editor remains thrifty. There's a lot of fun saving, even if they do take it away from us.

HASKIN'S LETTER

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

The Home of Jefferson—1.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 3.—With improved highways and hotels, the intelligent activities of the association in charge of the property, and the interest awakened by the sesquicentennial year of the Declaration of Independence, the old Virginia home of Thomas Jefferson has suddenly become a shrine of American pilgrimages which have come to exceed 40,000 per year. Monticello, alone and serene on its mountain top near Charlottesville, had not one tenth as many visitors even ten years ago.

It has happened that Virginia awakened to the need of good roads at just the time the nation discovered in Monticello one of the remarkable and completely preserved memorials of the birth of the United States. Hence the Jefferson shrine, long a most isolated spot, is now just a delightful little motor trip from Washington, and somewhat more accessible from Richmond, while Baltimore and even Philadelphia are considered bases from which to start expeditions to the home of the Declaration's author. The journey to Monticello from any of these cities necessarily lies through lands of great historic interest, battlefields of the Revolution and the Civil War, and past the homes or birthplaces of famous Americans.

From Washington, which is the greatest center of pilgrimages to Monticello, three chief routes are offered, with numerous variations over part of the way. One is via Fredericksburg, Va., and the Chancellorsville and Wilderness battlefields. Another is via Fairfax, Manassas, Bull Run, Warranton, Culpeper, and Orange.

The third is via the Shenandoah Valley, and while it is the longest route it is usually followed for either the going or return trip, as it leads through three states in a day's motoring and passes the scenes of Jubal Early's raids, Frederick, Maryland, the Barbara Fretchie town, Harpers Ferry and Charlestown, West Virginia, where John Brown was captured and where he was tried and hanged, and Winchester, Virginia, whence Sheridan rode in haste, and along the course of his ride to Cedar Creek battlefield where he stayed the Union retreat and turned the rout into a victory.

A Valley of Battles.

Every town in the Shenandoah Valley from Winchester to Staunton saw battles and skirmishes of Stonewall Jackson's campaigns. At Newmarket many monuments mark the fields of combat. Natural wonders also mark the journey, the famous caverns of Luray and Newmarket among the number. The student of history will also be harking back to the earliest colonial settlements, the Indian wars, and the days when pioneers of this valley trekked westward after Daniel Boone, and men like the grandfather of Abraham Lincoln started from here over the wilderness Trail to Tennessee and Kentucky.

At Staunton many will turn aside a few blocks to see the old manse of the Presbyterian church, where Woodrow Wilson was born. From Staunton the way to Charlottesville lies over the Blue Ridge, where a fine highway winds above the valleys, giving magnificent panoramas of the richest farm lands of old Virginia.

Charlottesville has for years been a thriving city, but the reviving interest in the great founder of American liberties has helped to give it a more modern aspect as better hotels and greatly increased auto traffic have filled its streets with travelers. As the home of the University of Virginia, founded by Jefferson, it has long been an important city in the hearts of Virginians, and as the center of a very rich agricultural region it has enjoyed more or less steady prosperity.

Nowadays it is just a little bit inclined to be booming, and its narrow old business street is too crowded for comfort. At one end of this street starts the road to Monticello, the mountain top which looms up at the point of a spur of the Blue Ridge which has struck off to the east. At the other end are the grounds of the beautiful old University.

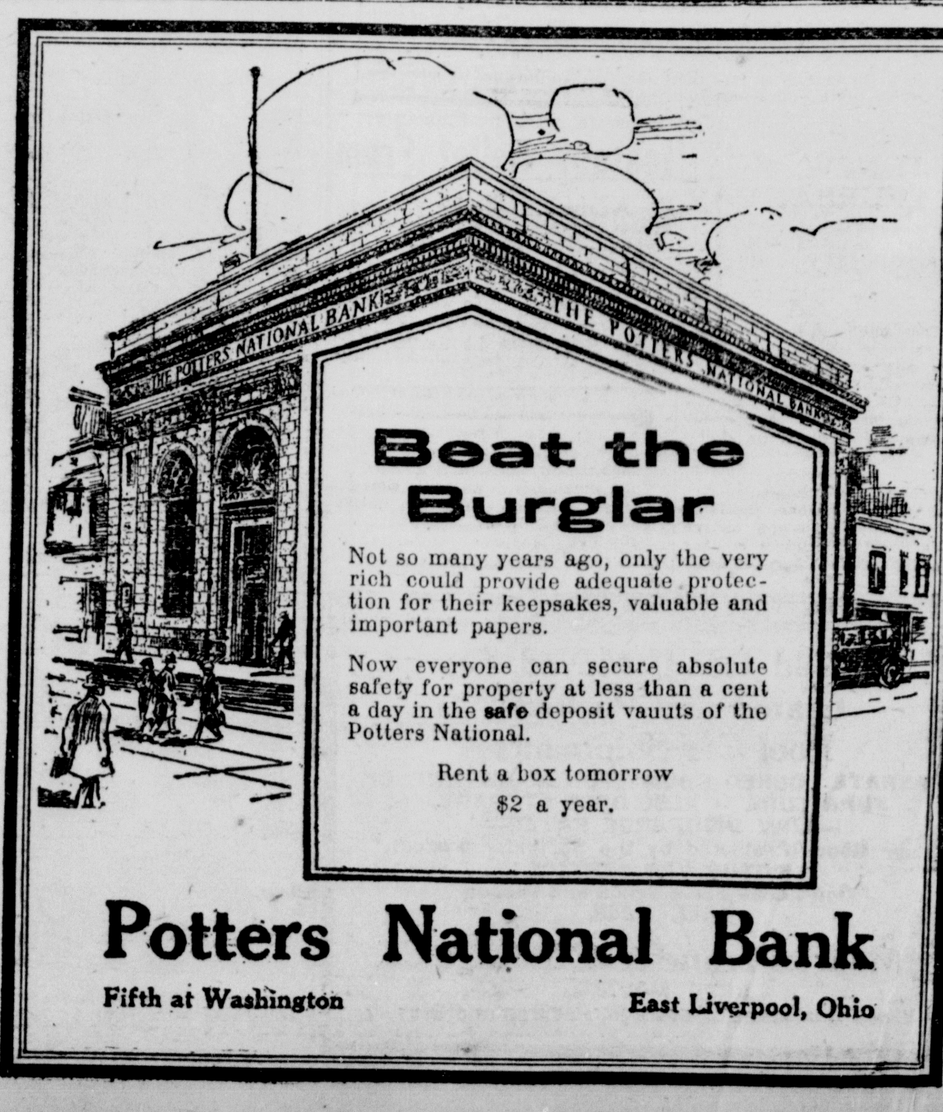

Charlottesville has other claims for fame besides the distinction brought to her by Jefferson. Here were the homes of George Rogers Clark, conqueror of our first Northwest, the territory that is now Ohio and Indiana, Illinois and Michigan, and Wisconsin and Minnesota. From this and other colonial and pioneer towns of western Virginia went out those hardy explorers and settlers of the West, and the fighters who with Clark wrested those lands from the allied enemy, the red coats of Britain and the red skins of the natives, and were the heroes of such tales as have been recorded in "Alice of Old Vincennes." A magnificent statue of Clark stands near the grounds of the University.

Two Other Discoverers Honored.

A few blocks to the east at atriangle of streets is the joint statue of two other great discoverers of the West Meriwether Lewis and William Clark. They were Charlottesville men. Clark was a younger brother of George Rogers Clark. All were friends of Jefferson, and the learning and foresight of the third President which prompted his purchase of the Louisiana Territory was the inspiration of the famous Lewis and Clark journey across the continent to the mouth of the Columbia River in 1804 and 1805. The Lewis and Clark monument portrays the two explorers in the costumes of their day, facing the great West in which they were pioneers.

Charlottesville is full of reminders of the Sage of Monticello, and the routes leading to it from the east and northeast are as abundant in inspiring memories as the Shenandoah highroad. From Richmond comes a beautiful, winding, rolling boulevard along the route Jefferson traveled to attend the meetings of the delegates of his colony, and later to take his place as Governor of Virginia. It comes through Shadwell, the birthplace of Jefferson, and passes near the homes

He is not a remittance man, yet wears good clothes, seems to have spending money, and his habits appear above the average. If he is unhappy he does not show it, and he is the sort people enjoy having around. I once asked him his business of profession and he, smiling enigmatically, replied "That worries a lot of people," and changed the subject.

Laziness, it would apear, is about the easiest of all vices to acquire. Sociologists who try to learn the underlying causes of poverty among able-bodied men, say that once a lazy man learns he can exist for six months without work he rarely wants to work again. He becomes a useless member of society and reformation is almost hopeless.

And then there is the really industrious editor in New York who has unique ideas regarding the folly of thrift. He has figures to show the large majority of thrifty eventually have their money taken from them in wild-cat schemes. Yet this editor remains thrifty. There's a lot of fun saving, even if they do take it away from us.

HASKIN'S LETTER
By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

The Home of Jefferson—1.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 3.—With improved highways and hotels, the intelligent activities of the association in charge of the property, and the interest awakened by the sesquicentennial year of the Declaration of Independence, the old Virginia home of Thomas Jefferson has suddenly become a shrine of American pilgrimages which have come to exceed 40,000 per year. Monticello, alone and serene on its mountain top near Charlottesville, had not one tenth as many visitors even ten years ago.

It has happened that Virginia awakened to the need of good roads at just the time the nation discovered in Monticello one of the remarkable and completely preserved memorials of the birth of the United States. Hence the Jefferson shrine, long a most isolated spot, is now just a delightful little motor trip from Washington, and somewhat more accessible from Richmond, while Baltimore and even Philadelphia are considered bases from which to start expeditions to the home of the Declaration's author. The journey to Monticello from any of these cities necessarily lies through lands of great historic interest, battlefields of the Revolution and the Civil War, and past the homes or birthplaces of famous Americans.

From Washington, which is the greatest center of pilgrimages to Monticello, three chief routes are offered, with numerous variations over part of the way. One is via Fredericksburg, Va., and the Chancellorsville and Wilderness battlefields. Another is via Fairfax, Manassas, Bull Run, Warranton, Culpeper, and Orange.

The third is via the Shenandoah Valley, and while it is the longest route it is usually followed for either the going or return trip, as it leads through three states in a day's motoring and passes the scenes of Jubal Early's raids, Frederick, Maryland, the Barbara Fretchie town, Harpers Ferry and Charlestown, West Virginia, where John Brown was captured and where he was tried and hanged, and Winchester, Virginia, whence Sheridan rode in haste, and along the course of his ride to Cedar Creek battlefield where he stayed the Union retreat and turned the rout into a victory.

A Valley of Battles.

Every town in the Shenandoah Valley from Winchester to Staunton saw battles and skirmishes of Stonewall Jackson's campaigns. At Newmarket many monuments mark the fields of combat. Natural wonders also mark the journey, the famous caverns of Luray and Newmarket among the number. The student of history will also be harking back to the earliest colonial settlements, the Indian wars, and the days when pioneers of this valley trekked westward after Daniel Boone, and men like the grandfather of Abraham Lincoln started from here over the wilderness Trail to Tennessee and Kentucky.

At Staunton many will turn aside a few blocks to see the old manse of the Presbyterian church, where Woodrow Wilson was born. From Staunton the way to Charlottesville lies over the Blue Ridge, where a fine highway winds above the valleys, giving magnificent panoramas of the richest farm lands of old Virginia.

Charlottesville has for years been a thriving city, but the reviving interest in the great founder of American liberties has helped to give it a more modern aspect as better hotels and greatly increased auto traffic have filled its streets with travelers. As the home of the University of Virginia, founded by Jefferson, it has long been an important city in the hearts of Virginians, and as the center of a very rich agricultural region it has enjoyed more or less steady prosperity.

Nowadays it is just a little bit inclined to be booming, and its narrow old business street is too crowded for comfort. At one end of this street starts the road to Monticello, the mountain top which looms up at the point of a spur of the Blue Ridge which has struck off to the east. At the other end are the grounds of the beautiful old University.

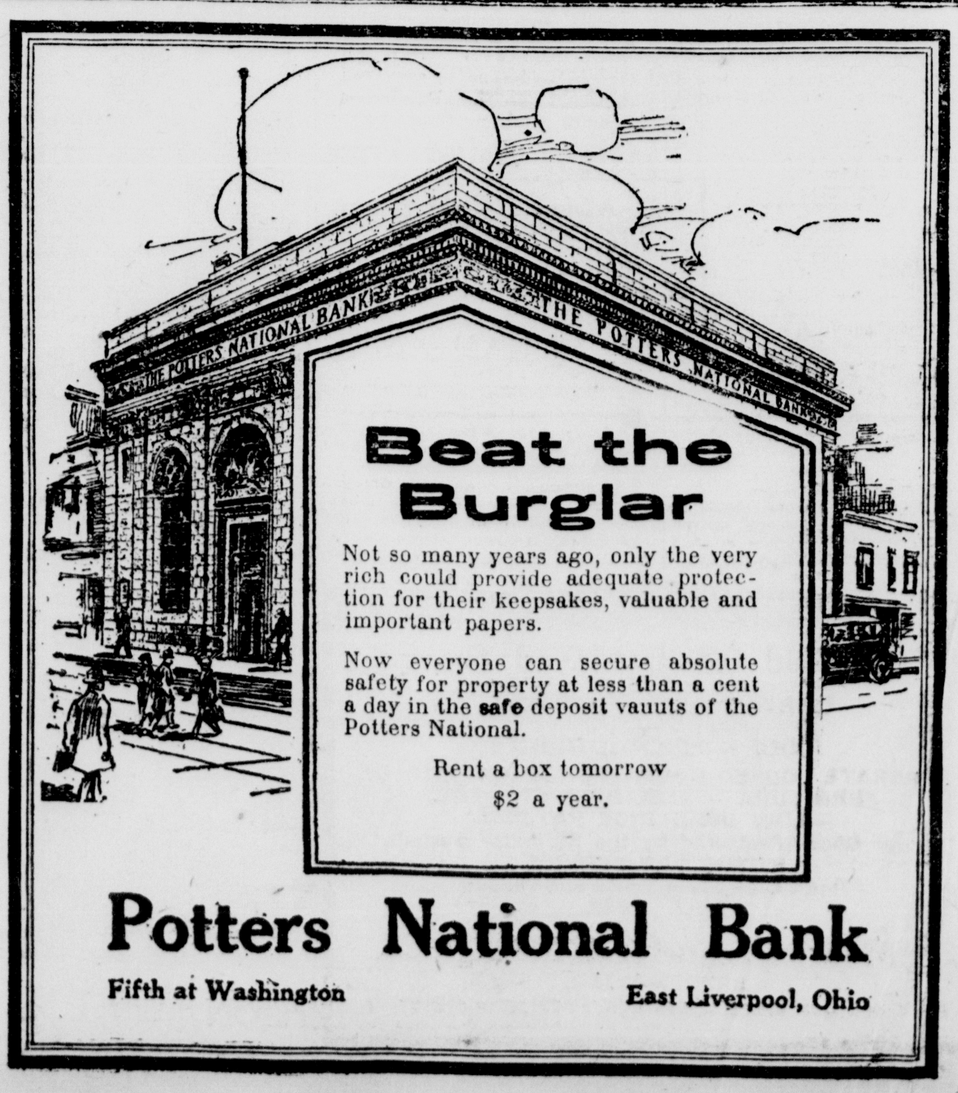

Charlottesville has other claims for fame besides the distinction brought to her by Jefferson. Here were the homes of George Rogers Clark, conqueror of our first Northwest, the territory that is now Ohio and Indiana, Illinois and Michigan, and Wisconsin and Minnesota. From this and other colonial and pioneer towns of western Virginia went out those hardy explorers and settlers of the West, and the fighters who with Clark wrested those lands from the allied enemy, the red coats of Britain and the red skins of the natives, and were the heroes of such tales as have been recorded in "Alice of Old Vincennes." A magnificent statue of Clark stands near the grounds of the University.

Two Other Discoverers Honored.

A few blocks to the east at atriangle of streets is the joint statue of two other great discoverers of the West Meriwether Lewis and William Clark. They were Charlottesville men. Clark was a younger brother of George Rogers Clark. All were friends of Jefferson, and the learning and foresight of the third President which prompted his purchase of the Louisiana Territory was the inspiration of the famous Lewis and Clark journey across the continent to the mouth of the Columbia River in 1804 and 1805. The Lewis and Clark monument portrays the two explorers in the costumes of their day, facing the great West in which they were pioneers.

Charlottesville is full of reminders of the Sage of Monticello, and the routes leading to it from the east and northeast are as abundant in inspiring memories as the Shenandoah high road. From Richmond comes a beautiful, winding, rolling boulevard along the route Jefferson traveled to attend the meetings of the delegates of his colony, and later to take his place as Governor of Virginia. It comes through Shadwell, the birthplace of Jefferson, and passes near the homes

CHAUTAUQUA OPENS MONDAY

Tent Will be Erected at Tenth and Main Streets.

The chautauqua tent will go up on the vacant lot at Tenth and Main streets next Saturday, Paul Harris, advance man for the Redpath bureau, who arrived here yesterday announced today. The program will open Monday and close on the following Sunday.

There will be afternoon and evening attractions each day and morning sessions as well on Tuesday and Wednesday. The afternoon program will start at 3 o'clock, the evening program at 8 and the two morning entertainments at 10:30 o'clock.

The opening feature will be a concert by Harold Lewis and his Symphony Players Monday afternoon. On Monday evening, Lewis will offer an entirely new program, followed by a lecture, "The Modern Tale of Two Cities," by Charles H. Plattenberg.

An entertainment, "Tinkers and Thinkers," will be presented by Sam Grathwell Tuesday morning. Another lecture, "Getting By Your Hoodoo," will be offered by Grathwell Tuesday afternoon. Channing Pollock's drama, "The Fool," will be presented by a group of players as the evening attraction.

"A Message from No. 16542" is the title of a lecture to be delivered by John H. Dickason Wednesday morning. The afternoon program will be in charge of Howard Wade Kinsey, basso and song director, and Lora Orth Kimsey, pianist, followed by a lecture, "Young America at Bat," by Dickason. Another song session, directed by Kimsey, and a discussion "What is Ahead for Europe?" by D. Thomas Curtin, international newspaper correspondent, is scheduled for Wednesday evening.

A musical prelude, "The Poet of the Home" by the Moscow Artists and a lecture, "Everyday Home," by Anne Campbell, noted reader, will be offered Thursday afternoon. The evening attraction will be a scenic production by the Moscow Artists Ensemble, featuring the Russian Balalika quartet and Mlle. Nina Sergeyeva, premier danseuse.

On Friday afternoon a historical junior pageant, "The Quill," will be presented in connection with a dramatic entertainment by Harrison Clofford. The recent comedy success, "Applesauce," in three acts, will be given by a group of five Friday evening.

A musical prelude by the Alpine Yodlers, a special children's entertainment by Al Baker, magician-ventriloquist, assisted by "Dummy Dennis," are on the Saturday afternoon slate. Another scenic production, "Echoes of the Alps" by the Fiechtl Yodlers, with Jost and Wunderle, will be presented Saturday evening.

The Sunday program will be of some semi-sacred form.

ST. ROCCO DAY ACTION EXPECTED

The city solons at their meeting tonight are expected to act upon the request of Italian residents for permission to hold a St. Rocco's day celebration here.

Petitions, urging that council refuse to grant a permit will be received from the congregation of the First Presbyterian church and the Sunday school of the First Methodist Episcopal church. Opposition to the celebration, an annual affair, was voiced at the council meeting two weeks ago, but action was deferred for two weeks.

Under the city code refusal or permission for such celebrations rests in the hands of council. The proposed celebration is to include a fireworks display at Central park and a parade and banquet.

EXHIBIT NEW INTERURBAN CAR

One of the eight new interurban cars purchased by The Stream Line is to be placed on exhibition at the corner of Fifth and Main streets between 6:30 and 7 o'clock tomorrow evening. The public is invited to inspect the car.

The new cars are steel in construction and were built at a cost of approximately $16,000 each. Four of them will be placed in service between Beaver and Steubenville Thursday.

Gleaners' Class Supper.

Members of the Gleaners' class of the First Methodist Episcopal church will hold a coverdish supper at the church at 7:30 o'clock Thursday evening.

CIVIL SERVICE EXAM AUG. 17

The civil service commission has announced an examination for applicants for police and fire department places which will be conducted in the council chamber of the city hall on Tuesday, August 17.

There is one vacancy in the police force, caused by the dismissal of Patrolman Harry Hurd. This place will be filled from one of three eligibles whose names will be filed with Mayor Fogo by the commission following the examination. Applicants may obtain forms from Grattan Dugan, clerk of the commission.

FOGO ASSESSES $300 IN FINES

One Dry Law Case Among Those Heard by Mayor.

Frank Ross, White street and John Peletto will be given hearings before Mayor Wallace Fogo Thursday evening upon charges of assault.

Ross first caused the arrest of Peletto. The latter immediately preferred a similar charge against Ross.

Michale Barnes, of East Liverpool, arrested over the wek-end, charged with the illegal possession of intoxicating liquors, was fined $100.

Mrs. Olive Simmors, who was arrested at her home corner Twelfth and Lisbon streets, charged with maintaining a disorderly house was also assessed $100. Barnes arranged to settle his fine but the woman was remanded to jail.

Fines of $50 and costs each were levied by Mayor Fogo against William Pugh, Pasquale Ramilla and L. Lorenze, who were arrested upon charges of disorderly conduct by fighting at Fifteenth and Center streets Sunday afternoon.

Missionary Society Picnic.

The Home Missionary society of the First Methodist Protestant church will picnic at Hammond park this afternoon and evening. Supper will be served at 6 o'clock.

Honolulu Shipping Shows Big Increase Over Previous Year

HONOLULU—The amount of shipping which arrives each year at the port of Honolulu shows a steady increase. The figures for the year ending June 30 have been announced by the harbor master as 6,198,604 tons, or 228,509 tons greater than for 1925.

Exports for the calendar year 1925 amounted to $104,625,291 and imports to $83,840,698.

22,266,387 HORSES IN U. S. PROVE DOBBIN IS STAGING COMEBACK

CHICAGO. — Dobbin is staging "comeback!"

Figures just released here by a prominent agricultural service corporation, gleaned from a national survey revealed that the horse not only is not disappearing from the sphere of usefulness, but actually is multiplying his activities.

Quoting Wayne Dinsmore, secretary of the Horse Association of America, the survey declared:

"The motor truck is the only thing on long hauls where speed is essential. But on short hauls, it isn't practical. For the dairy, laundry, bakery and other industries, the horse still is the best means of transportation.

"Speaking of tractors not eating which has to be purchased, at a farm products, they eat something which has to be purchased at a profit, with the fruit of farm labor, gasoline. Oil of course, also has to be supplied.

"Neither have yet been successfully raised on the farm in an available state. But it is easy to grow corn, oats and hay."

A Chicago concern marketing more harness than any other firm in the country reported an increase of 80 per cent in sales for 1925 over those for 1922.

There are 22,266,387 horses in the United States today, the survey disclosed.

EAST LIVERPOOL—AMERICA'S POTTERY CENTER

TUESDAY, AUGUST 3, 1926.

Are You Registered?

With the Republican and Democratic primaries but one week distant, East Liverpool voters should ask themselves "Am I registered?"

In order to vote for candidates for state, district and county nominations and pass judgment on a proposed constitutional amendment relative to the assessment of the cost of public improvements, electors in registration cities must be enrolled.

If a voter qualified at the quadrennial enrollment preceding the presidential election in 1924, or at a subsequent registration, he is entitled to the suffrage privilege at the primaries. Otherwise, he must register on one of the two days designated for this purpose.

Friday and Saturday are registration days. From 9 A. M. to 3 P. M. and 5 to 10 P. M. on each day, registrars will be on duty in the city's 21 precincts to enroll electors and issue transfers. Transfers, too, will be granted from 5 to 9 P. M. on Monday, August 9.

Don't disfranchise yourself by neglecting to register.

Prosperous Canada

Canada is evidently thriving. Figures from Ottawa say that the Dominion now has "the largest favorable per capita trade balance in the world."

No wonder Canadian money is at par, or higher—the only money this is sometimes worth more in exchange than our own.

Canada is doing a heap of business, by the way, with the United States. For the year ending with last March it amounted, incoming and outgoing, to $1,095,000,000, an increase of $158,000,000 over the previous year.

Canada's trade with this country, as it happens, is not "favorable" to her in the usually accepted sense. She bought from us this last year $100,000,000 worth of goods more than she sold us. Canada is out best customer outside of Great Britain. Yet Uncle Sam is a pretty good customer for Canada, too. We bought $485,000,000 worth of stuff from her during the 12 months ending with March.

Counting the millions that Americans spend in Canada, our good northern neighbor probably does better than an even break with us in the matter of trade. Which is an additional reason why the American tourist in Toronto or Quebec is occasionally amazed to find that his dollar is only worth about 98 cents.

Dickens Still Read

The works of Charles Dickens, says The Publisher's Weekly, are more widely read than those of Thackeray, Eliot and Scott put together.

Perhaps the most interesting thing about that bit of news is the apparent fact that those authors are still read. One gets the impression from most current book news and from browsing in book stores that those four literary lights are regarded as antiquated and not worth the time that might be spent on Sherwood Anderson, Theodore Dreiser and the rest of the present-day fashionable ones.

Yet they still have readers. That should inspire current writers. If their works are as good as Dickens', Thackeray's, Eliot's and Scott's, they'll still have readers, too, when they are the old-timers and a new crop of fiction is the rage.

In The Swim at 87

An 87-year-old French woman recently won an endurance contest in swimming. It was during an unduly hot spell when a group of women decided to go in bathing to cool off and incidentally organized some water contests. The aged swimmer who won the endurance test by swimming for an hour, finished her swim without any sign of fatigue.

She told interested spectators later that she had begun swimming at the age of four and was at one time a champion swimmer. At about 67 years she had given up the pastime, but is now tempted to resume it, at least during warm spells.

How many other octogenarians who gave up swimming 20 or more years ago could plunge into the water and duplicate this swimmer's record? Perhaps not a great many, yet at the rate grandparents are retaining their youth and youthful interests, it is likely to become more rather than less common.

The Popular Shade

You may not believe it, but the black stockings still outnumber those of any other color.

Rayon (artificial silk) manufacturers report that black leads white, champagne, atmosphere, grain, French nude, flesh, peach, dove gray and moonlight in popularity. The approach of autumn should further stimulate production and purchase of the more sedate color.

Information on men's socks is lacking, but nobody cares, anyhow. Black has always been preferred by the men folk, and the individual with a flair for the passionate in socks is rare indeed.

Moreover, men's hose were made to be worn, and darned, rather than to be seen, and that makes all the difference in the world.

My Favorite Stories

NO TEMPORIZING WITH SEEMING DISCREPANCIES.

Before leaving his country home on Long Island for New York one morning an actor of convivial habits made his wife a solemn promise that under no circumstances would he suffer himself to be tempted into touching strong drink during his day in the city. He was due home at 6 o'clock. It was nearly seven when he appeared in the distance and it was plain that he was having difficulty in navigating.

His wife, burning with indignation, met him at the foot of the porch steps.

"Bob," she snapped, "you broke your word to me—you've been drinking."

"Dearie," he stated, with an earnestness marred only by a slight thickness of speech, "I am not going to lie to you—I have indeed been drinking. But wait, until you hear the reason why I have been drinking and then, dearie, you will understand all.

"I kept my pledge in town—all day I kept it. This one and that one offered me a drink, but each time I said No. When I got off the train I was sober as a judge. But on the way home I passed Joe Page's house and he called me in and told me a most terrible story. He and his wife have had a terrible quarrel and she's left him and gone to her people. He was desperate—heartbroken, half crazy, all that sort of thing. He was actually threatening to commit suicide.

"As a friend I went in with him to try and calm him and then nothing would do but that I should take a drink with him. He said if I drank with him it might help to make him forget for a little while the shipwreck of all his happiness. What could I do, dearie? It was an emergency—I had to so something for poor old Joe Page if I could. So I drank with him. Then he insisted that I should drink some more with him. And I did. Finally I got him quieted down and now he's gone to bed. And here I am, dearie, slightly under the influence of liquor I admit, but I have probably haved a human life."

Tears overcame him; he sobbed and wiped his eyes.

'Is' that so?" stated his wife in cold and unmoved accents. "Well, would you alter your statement any if I told you that the Pages are over here for dinner and are in the house now, perfectly normal and happy except that they are somewhat annoyed at having had to wait nearly an hour for you to get here?"

"Madam," he answered firmly, "that's my story and I'm going to stick to it!.'

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY
By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—Last night I watched the odd assortment of humans who collect in a cafe in Greenwich Village catering to attic art. They are ludicrous in their posing, and yet no group to me inspires such undercurrent of sympathy for wasted lives.

For indeed many of these young men and women have a natural gift for the arts. They came to New York mostly from small towns bursting with ambition and were lulled by the false glamour of a catch-penny existence. They saw the easy life of fake martyrs to art.

These are those unwashed souls who pose as starving for an ideal when they are in reality impecunious beggars who have not touched a pen, paint brush or bit of clay in years. They have drifted into a life that may be lived without toil.

For a few dollars a week, borrowed here and there from sympathetic listeners , they exist. Their simulation of artistic endeavor lifts them above their real status of stationary hoboes. And so they grow long hair, don wide Latin Quarter hats and smocks and laze through life.

There was the gray-haired woman coiffured into a masculine bob in a mannish garb of tweeds and with pince-nez. A sallow youth with goatee—not more than 23—who wore a heavy gold bracelet. A girl with heavily kohled eyes in a flaming red sweater, and who for no obvious reason carried a riding crop.

There were those in velvet tams—sighing for European places they knew only by reputation. Youths in wide pants—artists for the evening—who would punch department store time clocks next morning. A weather-beaten old fellow who had actually done notable work, but preferred to cast his lot with the salamanders.

Most of them had arisen as the sun went down and would spend the night in the heavy pall of blue smoke, discussing outlandish isms and cosmic urges. The next day they would repeat the formula and it would be difficult to convince one of them that this was not life with a glittering capital "L."

A city can hide a chronic loafer, and indeed at times give him an air of importance he can never hope to achieve in a smaller community. A loafer is tagged over night in a country town. In New York are numerous nimble-witted men who haven't worked for years. They are known as being "in Wall street" or following some other vague pursuits, and there are no questions. The city is too big to notice affairs of an individual.

Many of us secretly admire the successful loafer. I think of one who has not worked to my certain knowledge for ten years. He is not a remittance man, yet wears good clothes, seems to have spending money, and his habits appear above the average. If he is unhappy he does not show it, and he is the sort people enjoy having around. I once asked him his business of profession and he, smiling enigmatically, replied "That worries a lot of people," and changed the subject.

Laziness, it would apear, is about the easiest of all vices to acquire. Sociologists who try to learn the underlying causes of poverty among able-bodied men, say that once a lazy man learns he can exist for six months without work he rarely wants to work again. He becomes a useless member of society and reformation is almost hopeless.

And then there is the really industrious editor in New York who has unique ideas regarding the folly of thrift. He has figures to show the large majority of thrifty eventually have their money taken from them in wild-cat schemes. Yet this editor remains thrifty. There's a lot of fun saving, even if they do take it away from us.

HASKIN'S LETTER
By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

The Home of Jefferson—1.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 3.—With improved highways and hotels, the intelligent activities of the association in charge of the property, and the interest awakened by the sesquicentennial year of the Declaration of Independence, the old Virginia home of Thomas Jefferson has suddenly become a shrine of American pilgrimages which have come to exceed 40,000 per year. Monticello, alone and serene on its mountain top near Charlottesville, had not one tenth as many visitors even ten years ago.

It has happened that Virginia awakened to the need of good roads at just the time the nation discovered in Monticello one of the remarkable and completely preserved memorials of the birth of the United States. Hence the Jefferson shrine, long a most isolated spot, is now just a delightful little motor trip from Washington, and somewhat more accessible from Richmond, while Baltimore and even Philadelphia are considered bases from which to start expeditions to the home of the Declaration's author. The journey to Monticello from any of these cities necessarily lies through lands of great historic interest, battlefields of the Revolution and the Civil War, and past the homes or birthplaces of famous Americans.

From Washington, which is the greatest center of pilgrimages to Monticello, three chief routes are offered, with numerous variations over part of the way. One is via Fredericksburg, Va., and the Chancellorsville and Wilderness battlefields. Another is via Fairfax, Manassas, Bull Run, Warranton, Culpeper, and Orange.

The third is via the Shenandoah Valley, and while it is the longest route it is usually followed for either the going or return trip, as it leads through three states in a day's motoring and passes the scenes of Jubal Early's raids, Frederick, Maryland, the Barbara Fretchie town, Harpers Ferry and Charlestown, West Virginia, where John Brown was captured and where he was tried and hanged, and Winchester, Virginia, whence Sheridan rode in haste, and along the course of his ride to Cedar Creek battlefield where he stayed the Union retreat and turned the rout into a victory.

A Valley of Battles.

Every town in the Shenandoah Valley from Winchester to Staunton saw battles and skirmishes of Stonewall Jackson's campaigns. At Newmarket many monuments mark the fields of combat. Natural wonders also mark the journey, the famous caverns of Luray and Newmarket among the number. The student of history will also be harking back to the earliest colonial settlements, the Indian wars, and the days when pioneers of this valley trekked westward after Daniel Boone, and men like the grandfather of Abraham Lincoln started from here over the wilderness Trail to Tennessee and Kentucky.

At Staunton many will turn aside a few blocks to see the old manse of the Presbyterian church, where Woodrow Wilson was born. From Staunton the way to Charlottesville lies over the Blue Ridge, where a fine highway winds above the valleys, giving magnificent panoramas of the richest farm lands of old Virginia.

Charlottesville has for years been a thriving city, but the reviving interest in the great founder of American liberties has helped to give it a more modern aspect as better hotels and greatly increased auto traffic have filled its streets with travelers. As the home of the University of Virginia, founded by Jefferson, it has long been an important city in the hearts of Virginians, and as the center of a very rich agricultural region it has enjoyed more or less steady prosperity.

Nowadays it is just a little bit inclined to be booming, and its narrow old business street is too crowded for comfort. At one end of this street starts the road to Monticello, the mountain top which looms up at the point of a spur of the Blue Ridge which has struck off to the east. At the other end are the grounds of the beautiful old University.

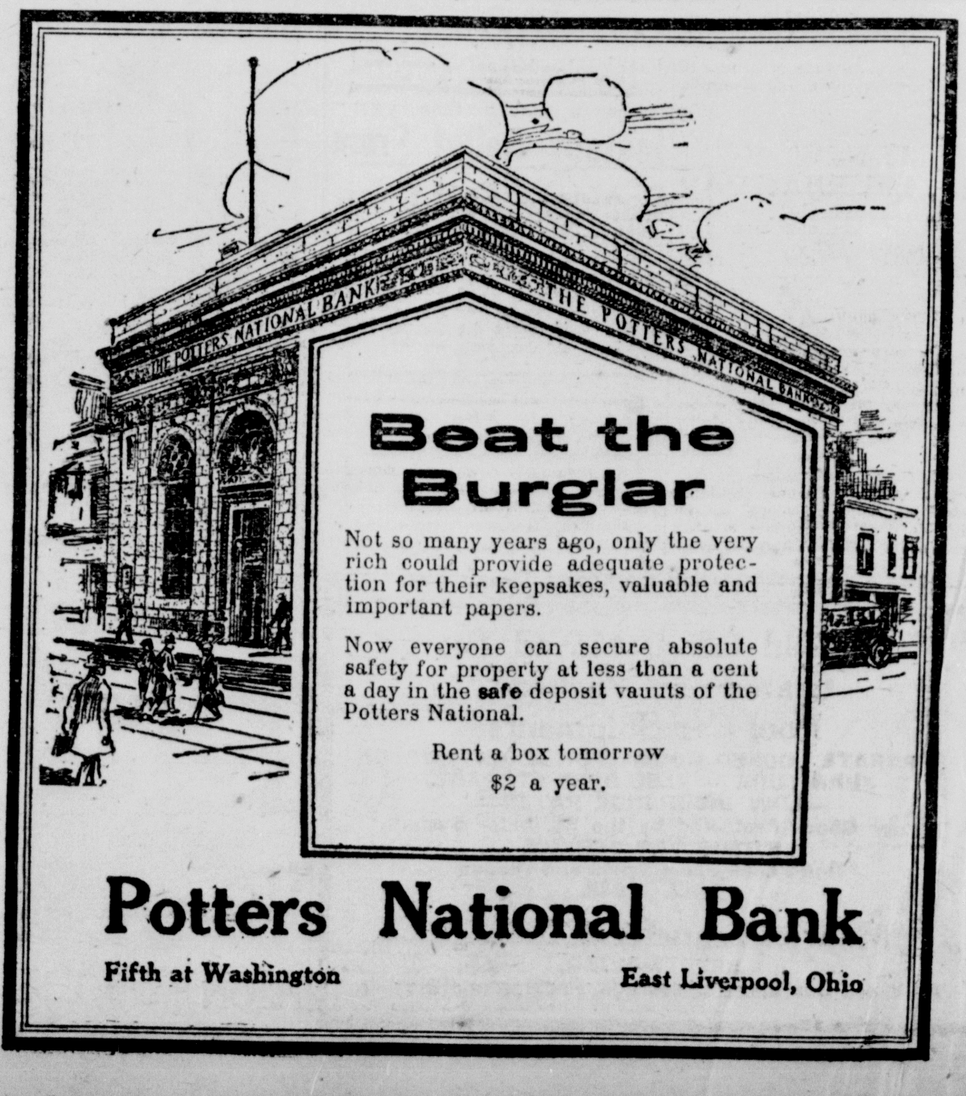

Charlottesville has other claims for fame besides the distinction brought to her by Jefferson. Here were the homes of George Rogers Clark, conqueror of our first Northwest, the territory that is now Ohio and Indiana, Illinois and Michigan, and Wisconsin and Minnesota. From this and other colonial and pioneer towns of western Virginia went out those hardy explorers and settlers of the West, and the fighters who with Clark wrested those lands from the allied enemy, the red coats of Britain and the red skins of the natives, and were the heroes of such tales as have been recorded in "Alice of Old Vincennes." A magnificent statue of Clark stands near the grounds of the University.

Two Other Discoverers Honored.

A few blocks to the east at atriangle of streets is the joint statue of two other great discoverers of the West Meriwether Lewis and William Clark. They were Charlottesville men. Clark was a younger brother of George Rogers Clark. All were friends of Jefferson, and the learning and foresight of the third President which prompted his purchase of the Louisiana Territory was the inspiration of the famous Lewis and Clark journey across the continent to the mouth of the Columbia River in 1804 and 1805. The Lewis and Clark monument portrays the two explorers in the costumes of their day, facing the great West in which they were pioneers.

Charlottesville is full of reminders of the Sage of Monticello, and the routes leading to it from the east and northeast are as abundant in inspiring memories as the Shenandoah highroad. From Richmond comes a beautiful, winding, rolling boulevard along the route Jefferson traveled to attend the meetings of the delegates of his colony, and later to take his place as Governor of Virginia. It comes through Shadwell, the birthplace of Jefferson, and passes near the homes

Principals in Two Weddings Alternate, In Attendant Roles

At 9 o'clock this morning in the Methodist Protestant church, Miss Helen Dunn, daughter of Mrs. E. E. Dunn, of Chestnut street, became the bride of Harold Kaufman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kaufman, of Avondale street. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. F. Dimit. Miss Ruth Maloney and George Spratley were the attendants.

The bride was gowned in French blue georgette with hat to match, and carried a bouquet of Ophelia roses, showered with lilies of the valley. Previous to her marriage she was employed in the office of the American Paper Product company. The bridegroom is employed as a machinist by the Patterson Foundry and Machine company.

Following this ceremony the bridal party left for St. John's Lutheran church, where the attendants, Miss Maloney and Mr. Spratley, were united in marriage by Dr. J. G. Reinartz. Mr. and Mrs. Kaufman were the attendants. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Maloney, of Church street, and the bridegroom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Grant Spratley, of East Sixth street.

The bride wore Bois-de-rose flat crepe with hat to match. Her bouquet was made of Ophelia roses and sweetpeas. She has been employed in the office of the Ohio Power company, while the bridegroom is a decorator at the Knowles, Taylor and Knowles pottery.

Immediately following this ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Spratley and Mr. and Mrs. Kaufman left for a honeymoon by motor through Canada.

Wain-Factor Wedding.

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Miss Hilda Wain, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Wain of Wheeling, former residents of Avondale street, and Richard Davis Factor, formerly of Zanesville, now located in Columbus. The bride was a teacher in the local schools.

Mr. and Mrs. Factor are now at home at 48 Seventeenth avenue, Columbus.

Missionary Society Session.

The monthly meeting of the Women's Foreign Missionary society met last evening in the parlors of the First Methodist Episcopal church. Mrs. William Rowe was in charge of the program, and Mrs. Kenney directed the devotionals. Papers were read by Mesdames Frank Small, Barrett and Valentine. An address was given by Miss Martingale, a missionary to Mexico.

Mite boxes were opened.

Golf Tournament for Ladies.

More Lighthouses Sought by Marine Circles in Japan

TOKIO — More and better lighthouses is the cry that has been raised in marine circles in Japan as the result of the wrecking of the Ellerman line freighter City of Naples on Zenisu reef on June 15. Zenisu reef is forty miles from the nearest lighthouse and has been dreaded for years by all coastwise sailormen.

There are only 493 lighthouses along Japan's 1,888 miles of seacoast and many of the existing beacons have not been modernized. Experts declare that at least 1,000 lighthouses are needed to properly safeguard ships traveling along the coast lines.

CHAUTAUQUA OPENS MONDAY

Tent Will be Erected at Tenth and Main Streets.

The chautauqua tent will go up on the vacant lot at Tenth and Main streets next Saturday, Paul Harris, advance man for the Redpath bureau, who arrived here yesterday announced today. The program will open Monday and close on the following Sunday.

There will be afternoon and evening attractions each day and morning sessions as well on Tuesday and Wednesday. The afternoon program will start at 3 o'clock, the evening program at 8 and the two morning entertainments at 10:30 o'clock.

The opening feature will be a concert by Harold Lewis and his Symphony Players Monday afternoon. On Monday evening, Lewis will offer an entirely new program, followed by a lecture, "The Modern Tale of Two Cities," by Charles H. Plattenberg.

An entertainment, "Tinkers and Thinkers," will be presented by Sam Grathwell Tuesday morning. Another lecture, "Getting By Your Hoodoo," will be offered by Grathwell Tuesday afternoon. Channing Pollock's drama, "The Fool," will be presented by a group of players as the evening attraction.

"A Message from No. 16542" is the title of a lecture to be delivered by John H. Dickason Wednesday morning. The afternoon program will be in charge of Howard Wade Kinsey, basso and song director, and Lora Orth Kimsey, pianist, followed by a lecture, "Young America at Bat," by Dickason. Another song session, directed by Kimsey, and a discussion "What is Ahead for Europe?" by D. Thomas Curtin, international newspaper correspondent, is scheduled for Wednesday evening.

A musical prelude, "The Poet of the Home" by the Moscow Artists and a lecture, "Everyday Home," by Anne Campbell, noted reader, will be offered Thursday afternoon. The evening attraction will be a scenic production by the Moscow Artists Ensemble, featuring the Russian Balalika quartet and Mlle. Nina Sergeyeva, premier danseuse.

On Friday afternoon a historical junior pageant, "The Quill," will be presented in connection with a dramatic entertainment by Harrison Clofford. The recent comedy success, "Applesauce," in three acts, will be given by a group of five Friday evening.

A musical prelude by the Alpine Yodlers, a special children's entertainment by Al Baker, magician-ventriloquist, assisted by "Dummy Dennis," are on the Saturday afternoon slate. Another scenic production, "Echoes of the Alps" by the Fiechtl Yodlers, with Jost and Wunderle, will be presented Saturday evening.

The Sunday program will be of some semi-sacred form.

ST. ROCCO DAY ACTION EXPECTED

The city solons at their meeting tonight are expected to act upon the request of Italian residents for permission to hold a St. Rocco's day celebration here.

Petitions, urging that council refuse to grant a permit will be received from the congregation of the First Presbyterian church and the Sunday school of the First Methodist Episcopal church. Opposition to the celebration, an annual affair, was voiced at the council meeting two weeks ago, but action was deferred for two weeks.

Under the city code refusal or permission for such celebrations rests in the hands of council. The proposed celebration is to include a fireworks display at Central park and a parade and banquet.

EXHIBIT NEW INTERURBAN CAR

One of the eight new interurban cars purchased by The Stream Line is to be placed on exhibition at the corner of Fifth and Main streets between 6:30 and 7 o'clock tomorrow evening. The public is invited to inspect the car.

The new cars are steel in construction and were built at a cost of approximately $16,000 each. Four of them will be placed in service between Beaver and Steubenville Thursday.

Gleaners' Class Supper.

Members of the Gleaners' class of the First Methodist Episcopal church will hold a coverdish supper at the church at 7:30 o'clock Thursday evening.

CIVIL SERVICE EXAM AUG. 17

The civil service commission has announced an examination for applicants for police and fire department places which will be conducted in the council chamber of the city hall on Tuesday, August 17.

There is one vacancy in the police force, caused by the dismissal of Patrolman Harry Hurd. This place will be filled from one of three eligibles whose names will be filed with Mayor Fogo by the commission following the examination. Applicants may obtain forms from Grattan Dugan, clerk of the commission.

FOGO ASSESSES $300 IN FINES

One Dry Law Case Among Those Heard by Mayor.

Frank Ross, White street and John Peletto will be given hearings before Mayor Wallace Fogo Thursday evening upon charges of assault.

Ross first caused the arrest of Peletto. The latter immediately preferred a similar charge against Ross.

Michale Barnes, of East Liverpool, arrested over the wek-end, charged with the illegal possession of intoxicating liquors, was fined $100.

Mrs. Olive Simmors, who was arrested at her home corner Twelfth and Lisbon streets, charged with maintaining a disorderly house was also assessed $100. Barnes arranged to settle his fine but the woman was remanded to jail.

Fines of $50 and costs each were levied by Mayor Fogo against William Pugh, Pasquale Ramilla and L. Lorenze, who were arrested upon charges of disorderly conduct by fighting at Fifteenth and Center streets Sunday afternoon.

Missionary Society Picnic.

The Home Missionary society of the First Methodist Protestant church will picnic at Hammond park this afternoon and evening. Supper will be served at 6 o'clock.

Mrs. Homer Todd and Mrs. Cloyd Boring, of Chester, have returned from a visit with Akron friends.

Honolulu Shipping Shows Big Increase Over Previous Year

HONOLULU—The amount of shipping which arrives each year at the port of Honolulu shows a steady increase. The figures for the year ending June 30 have been announced by the harbor master as 6,198,604 tons, or 228,509 tons greater than for 1925.

Exports for the calendar year 1925 amounted to $104,625,291 and imports to $83,840,698.

22,266,387 HORSES IN U. S. PROVE DOBBIN IS STAGING COMEBACK

CHICAGO. — Dobbin is staging "comeback!"

Figures just released here by a prominent agricultural service corporation, gleaned from a national survey revealed that the horse not only is not disappearing from the sphere of usefulness, but actually is multiplying his activities.

Quoting Wayne Dinsmore, secretary of the Horse Association of America, the survey declared:

"The motor truck is the only thing on long hauls where speed is essential. But on short hauls, it isn't practical. For the dairy, laundry, bakery and other industries, the horse still is the best means of transportation.

"Speaking of tractors not eating which has to be purchased, at a farm products, they eat something which has to be purchased at a profit, with the fruit of farm labor, gasoline. Oil of course, also has to be supplied.

"Neither have yet been successfully raised on the farm in an available state. But it is easy to grow corn, oats and hay."

A Chicago concern marketing more harness than any other firm in the country reported an increase of 80 per cent in sales for 1925 over those for 1922.

There are 22,266,387 horses in the United States today, the survey disclosed.

JACK WALTON SEEKS TOGA IN OKLAHOMA RACE

Former Governor Before Voters in Democratic Primary.

FIVE IN FIGHT

Eighteen Candidates in Contest for Governorship.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 3.—J. C. (Iron Jack) Walton, former governor and commander-in-chief of all Oklahoma's military and civil forces, came back before the voters of his state today in an effort to gain the Democratic nomination for United States senate, an honor which he had two years ago but met defeat overwhelmingly by E. B. Pine, Republican.

The "iron man,' who in 1923 put the whole of Oklahoma under martial law, called out the national guard, asked for 75,000 volunteers, kept a legislature from meeting by force of arms, appointed "22,000 minute men" to stop an election and numerous other precedents in a "war against the invisible government of the Ku Klux Klan" and was later impeached, this time opposes four other contestants, one a woman senator who voted to impeach him.

"The klan must die," is the former governor's campaign slogan. He charged throughout his campaign the state of Oklahoma "still was ruled by that invisible hand that threw me out of office" and promised to carry the fight to the United States senate if elected.

Elmer Thomas, former congressman; W. A. Ledbetter, former Muskogee peace office; Mrs. Lamar Looney, state senator, and M. L. Misherheimer are the candidates opposing him.

Republican candidates for senatorial race nomination are: J. W. Harreld, incumbent; John W. Buckles, Joe C. Fox, B. G. Bingham, U. S. Stone, Preston Ashing and D. Lafe Hubler.

Second in interest to the senatorial campaign is the gubernatorial race. There are 18 candidates running for the seat of Governor M. E. Trapp, recently held ineligible to succeed himself by the State Supreme court. They are: J. B. A. Robertson, former Governor; W. M. Darnell, Frank F. Davis, John R. Clarke, T. H. Wren, O. A. Cargill, Henry S. Johnson, Porter N. McCallum, J. Anderson and William M. Franklin.

Democrats: James Hepburn, Omer K. Benowot, Henry L. Clouck, George Hialy, W. J. Otjen, James Harris, Edward D. Evans and John Gleiber.

Expect Light Vote in Kansas.

TOPEKA, Kans., Aug. 3.— Kansas primaries opened today with weather throughout the state cool and cloudy and no exceptionally heavy vote expected.

The Democratic voters will chose between ex-Governor Jonathan M. Davis, recently acquitted on charges of selling a pardon while in office, and Donald Muir, for the gubernatorial nomination. Golden B. Davis opposes Governor Ben S. Paulen, who is trying for the Republican nomination to succeed himself. Senator Charles Curtis, Republican floor leader, seeks renomination against a negro, Nick Chiles, of Topeka.

Primary in Missouri.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Aug. 3.—Missouri today was holding its primary, which was to determine the party nominees for United States senate, congress and a few state officers.

In the Democratic senatorial race, Congressman Harry B. Hawes, a wet, entered for both long and short terms, was opposed by two drys, Judge Cockrell of Warrensburg, running against him for the long term nomination, and W. H. Meredith, of Poplar Bluff, for the short term. Robert I. Young, St. Joseph, A fourth candidate, favored modification of the dry act.

In the Republican contest, David M. Proctor of Kansas City, a dry, was running against Senator George M. Williams, a neutral on the dry issue, who seeks re-election. Blodgett Priest of St. Louis was a wet.

the tide at her back, attempting the long roundabout course which had been found the most feasible method by the five successful channel swimmers in the past.

The twentieth hour found her using a slow, weary overhand stroke still two miles from her goal.

Miss Barrett started strongly using a powerful breast stroke. At 1 o'clock, five hours after starting, she had changed to a fast crawl and reached a point 10 miles off the French coast —an astonishing speed average. In this time she had covered as much distance as Norman Berham, the British swimmer, had in 12 hours before he was forced to abandon the struggle.

Farstad Fails Second Time.

CAPE GRIS NEZ, Aug. 3. — Olaf Farstad met defeat at the hands of the English channel today, for the second time in 10 days.

Farstad was forced to give up his attempt to swim the channel at 1 o'clock this afternoon, after having been in the water for nine hours and twenty-nine minutes.

Heavy seas and a driving rain made it impossible for the Oslo policeman to continue his courageous effort.

Farstad's failure today is the third victory for the channel in 36 hours, Clarabelle Barrett of New York and Dr. George Brewster of London having been forced to abandon their attempts which they started yesterday.

Asa Yoleson, or Al Jolson, Divorced By Ethel Delmar

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—A Paris dispatch yesterday stating that Asa Yoleson had been divorced by Alma Osborne Yoleson didn't attract any notice along Broadway but when the news came out today that Asa Yoelson is none other than Al Jolson of "Mammy" fame Broadway sat up.

On the stage Mrs. Jolson before her marriage was known as Ethel Delmar. Friends had heard reports of differences between the couple but none believed divorce was planned.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—General Motors was the central figure of a raging stock market in the first hour of trading today. Stimulated by the reported decline of $19,000,000 in brokers' loans and the wide publicity given to the Cochran interview, outside speculative points poured in buying orders for the stock on a tidal wave of advancing prices.

Again the ticker service proceeded to be inadequate as the volume of trading expanded and the price advanced another 10 points to 211¼ in the first half hour.

The speculative fever spread to the industrial stocks, the low priced motor shares and the oils, the latter responding to the excellent earnings statement issued by Sinclair Consolidated, showing a gain of 65 per cent in earnings as compared with the same period last year. Yellow Truck, affiliated with General Motors, sold up to 36 for a gain of 10 points from Monday's low, while White Motors, Willys Overland, Packard, Hudson and Nash advanced from 1 to 2½ points in an unusually heavy turnover. DuPont jumped seven points to 295.

United States Steel then commanded attention, with its brisk run-up to 149½, duplicating its former high record price, and finally passing that milestone when 1,400 shares of the stock sold at 149½. Independent steels were quiet, as also were the rails, equipments, mercantile shares and utilities.

MEXICO-CHURCH DEADLOCK IS TIGHTER TODAY

Police Guards are Withdrawn From Houses of Worship.

CHURCHES OPEN

Renew Efforts Made to Bring About Peace.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 3.—The deadlock between the Mexican government and the Catholic church today seemed tighter than ever, but the tensity of the situation appears to have been somewhat relieved.

Police guards have been withdrawn from the churches in many places, and additional military stationed in the streets have returned to their barracks.

The control of the churches has passed into the hands of municipal committees in almost every district of Mexico, and they have been opened again for services conducted by lawreaders.

Thus far the economic boycott put into effect by the Catholics, has not resulted in any general tie-up of business.

Although the early peace overtures have been rejected by the government, as exclusively announced by the International News Service yesterday, it is learned that renewed efforts are being made to bring about some sort of an accord.

Calles Stands Pat.

President Calles stands pat in his insistence that the laws must be administered in full force, and at present it is difficult to see how a compromise can be reached that will not be a back-down for one side or the other.

Archbishop Jose Maria y Del Rio, head of the Catholic church in Mexico, is still occupying his private offices, and while refraining from all church services it is understood that he continues to function in connection with secular business of the church.

The archbishop today received the correspondent of the International News Service and requested that American people, both Catholics and Protestants, be thanked on his behalf for "their manifest sympathy for the Catholic church in Mexico during the present trials."

The alleged plot against the life of President Calles appears now to have been thoroughly squelched with the arrest of seven more alleged plotters, thus making a total of 15 in jail for this conspiracy. The police are on the alert for other plots of this sort, but it is believed that the order which has prevailed is indicative of an intent by the people in general, except for a handful of fanatics perhaps, to leave the working out of this difficult situation to the recognized leaders of the government and the church.

Catholic leaders point to the order which has prevailed as evidence of their intent to pursue only peaceful measures in carrying on their struggle.

American Episcopal Church Seized.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—The state department today made public the report of Alexander W. Weddell, consul general at Mexico City, on the seizure by police last Saturday of the church of England at San Jose in Mexico City. The church is owned by the American Episcopal church.

Police stated that the church was seized because the church officers had not made proper reports to the authorities. It is believed that the differences will be settled in Mexico City without resort to diplomatic exchanges between Mexico and the United States.

FINED $25, THEN GOES TO JAIL

F. W. McLaughlin is Found Guilty of Reckless Driving.

F. W. McLaughlin, Seventh street, was fined $25 and costs and committed to jail until the fine and costs are paid when he was found guilty by Municipal Judge J. C. Hanley today upon a charge of fast and reckless driving in connection with an automobile crash on Pennsylvania avenue about two weeks ago. He was arrested upon information of William Finley, Bradshaw avenue, who charged that McLaughlin, after sideswiping his car failed to stop. McLaughlin entered a plea of not guilty when arraigned last Saturday.

Upon recommendation of Solicitor Frank Hoover, Fred C. Million, who was arrested by Patrolman Roth in Diamond alley Sunday, charged with the illegal possession of intoxicating liquors, was dismissed by Judge Hanley for the lack of evidence. Million was charged with having been the owner of eight half pints of moonshine whisky found by the patrolman in a sewer.

James Anas, arrested by Patrolman James Haley Saturday night, on a charge of having a gambling device in his possession, forfeited his bond of $55.80 when he failed to appear for a hearing. Anas is said to have had a book of baseball pool tickets when apprehe. ded.

and it was no more monarchial than the fine private cars in which the late J. Pierpont Morgan carried bishops and distinguished laymen to a gathering of the Episcopalian church.

THE UNIMPORTANT opinion of this writer is that President Coolidge will be renominated and re-elected. If anything could interfere with that programme it would be a series of foolish attacks on Governor Smith because of his religion. You will not find Calvin Coolidge making or instigating such attacks. He also knows politics.

TWENTY PASSENGER airplanes are employed between London and Paris, carrying more than 400 passengers a day. Only seventeen years ago the first flight was made across the English Channel. This country, which invented the flying machine, is slow to use it. The chief hope is in the Fords, father and son, who have the ability and the money. In Europe the government helps such important developments.

MR. FOKKER. European genius, who built the ship on which Commander Byrd flew over the North Pole, is in this country, and could put the United States ahead on commercial and other aviation if the government would give him backing.

THERE are serious conditions in Mexica, business is injured by the boycott instituted by Catholics, a few are killed, many injured and arrested in riots. Military guards and police are stoned at some of the churches, women leading the attacks. The world sees in Mexico what has always happened in quarrels based on religion.

PRESIDENT CALLES issues a statement accusing the Catholic archbishops and bishops of abandoning their only field of action, the conscience of the Catholic, to invade the field of politics and of government and provoke movements of disorder and incite, secretly or openly, to rebellion.

CATHOLIC authorities accuse Presendent Calles of seeking to destroy the church and take its property.

President Calles replies that the Catholic church would usurp the powers of government and says the issue in Mexico is government of the country by Catholic bishops and others appointed abroad, or government by public officials elected in Mexico.

It is not a pleasant fight.

forming southwest of here in the neighborhood where the slain girl's father worked. Sheriff Marquard sent deputies to the scene of the reported gathering but they reported no sign of the mob.

Extra guards were stationed about the jail. The crowd, although sentiment ran high, showed no disposition of disorder, and shortly after midnight began dispersing. A few lingered all night, but it was a curious gathering.

Pleaded Guilty.

Thompson pleaded guilty yesterday when arraigned before Mayor Heaton and was bound over to the grand jury without bail. He admitted, it was said, having served a term in the Kansas state prison for assaulting a woman. He is a widower and has five children.

Thompson was not removed from the county jail here during the night. The sheriff declined to say where the prisoner was, leading to rumors that he had been spirited away.

COLUMBUS, O., August 3.—National guardsmen will not be sent to Coshocton where it was feared last night a mob would storm the jail for Robert Thompson, confessed slayer of a 10-year-old girl, James Huffman, executive clerk to Gov. Donahey, said today.

Huffman received a call from the Coshocton county sheriff detailing the situation last night. The call was referred to General Henderson, of the National Guard at Camp Perry, but no orders were issued for mobilization for immediate call.

Suspected of Double Slaying.

STEUBENVILLE, O., Aug. 3.—Robert Thompson, 54, known as a roving farm hand who confessed to killing a 10-year-old girl near Coshocton and who is now in the Coshocton county jail, may be the farm hand last in the employe of Robert and Nettie Herron, of Two Bridges, near here, both of whom were mysteriously slain last March 2, local authorities believed today.

Prosecutor Roy Merryman said that his office was checking up on Thompson and that nothing would be left undone to bring to justice the person who committed the worst double crime in the county's history.

City Solicitor C. L. Williams, who defended and secured the acquittal of John Cook, a negro, tried for the murder of Nettie Herron, went to Coshocton yesterday. He was accompanied by Thomas J. Dignan.

"We have always maintained that a white farm hand, a man of Thompson's age and description, committed the Herron murders," Williams said.

Cook is now in jail here awaiting trial on an indictment charging him with the murder of Robert Herron.

The Herrons, brother and sister, were slain while at work on their farm. Robert was killed by a blow from a mattox while Nettie, after being ravaged, was hanged from the ceiling.

Boy is Injured.

Merle, six-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Reese, Canons Mills, suffered a badly lacerated right foot yesterday when it was caught in a lawn mower which he was pushing. The lad was brought to the City hospital where the injury was dressed by Dr. W. A. Hobbs.

Fifteen "Gas Hawks" Nabbed

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 3.—Fifteen mashers were scheduled to appear in police court today as the result of an energetic drive by police last night against the so-called "gas-hawks." Most of them were nabbed on the east side.

FIND WITNESS TO DEATH PLOT

New Sensation in Hall-Mills Murder Investigation.

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Aug. 3.—A witness, who lurked in the shadows of the Phillips farm, and saw the Rev. Edward W. Hall, and Mrs. Eleanor R. Mills, his choir-singer, shot to death four years ago, has been found by investigators and is ready to tell the story of the killing.

This was today's sensation in the renewed investigation of the crime.

The eye-witness, whose name has been carefully guarded, already has given information to Gov. Moore, State Senator Alexander Simpson, special prosecutor, announced, and the story is said virtually to substantiate that of Mrs. Jane Gibson, the "pig-woman."

effect that the suspect had made a clean escape.

From another authoritative source came the confident statement that "McDermott's capture is not far away."

Guard Officer Threatened.

Interest in the McDermott manhunt was sidetracked for a while today by the statement of Colonel C. F. Bluem, of the Ohio National Guard, personal representative of Gov. Donahey, that he had been "threatened with actual violence because of his policies in connection with the investigation."

"They threatened to run me out of town and said they would 'break me," he told newspaper men. Colonel Bluem refused to name the persons making the threat and would not say that he would change his policies.

Bluem refused to discuss his "policies."

Slater Holds Key, He Says.

Slater, who worked ceaselessly while dissension was springing up among other agents, today declared that the "hub-hub" set up by certain investigators was founded on personal jealously.

"They were angry because I hold the key to the whole murder and because they were not in on it," Slater declared. "I still hold the key and I'm going to keep right on holding it."

"The fact that another detective gave out the name of the informer being held here ought to prove that it wouldn't be safe to turn all the evidence over to him," the sleepless detective from the Cal Crim agency, stated.

"It is just a matter of time until we find McDermott. Then the murder will be solved, he added.

Trace Ownership of Coupe.

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 3. — Police today were trying to determine whether an abandoned Ford coupe in front of 1315 Granger avenue, Lakewood, though to be a Canton, Ohio, car, had any connection with Patrick McDermott, wanted badly for questioning in the shooting of Don R. Mellett, Canton publisher.

The machine bore license number 688-251, police said. It had stood where it was found for three days.

Police here had no report of the theft of such a car.

Reports from the state automobile registry department at Columbus stated the license carried by the Lakewood mystery car was issued to Steve Tate, Louisville, Ohio, northeast of Canton.

Man and His Unmarried Daughter Suicide; Child Killed

Blissfield, Mich., Authorities Seek Motive for Strange Death Pact After Girl, 5, is Poisoned.

BLISSFIELD, Mich., Aug. 3.—County authorities today sought a motive for the strange suicide pact of John Bogar, 50, and his unmarried daughter, Agnes, and the murder of the girl's five-year-old daughter, Amelia.

Poison administered to the child killed her, probably Saturday, and then the father and daughter took doses of the same drink and calmly awaited their deaths.

Sunday came and the poison had failed to work. On the same day Bogar went to a neighbor's house and said that "something terrible" was happening. Returning home, he found his daughter had hanged herself, it is believed.

Apparently Bogar sat in the farmhouse all day, unable to make up his mind to hasten his own death by hanging. He slipped again to the neighbor's house, stuck a note on a fence post where it was found later in the day, went home and hanged himself.

"Hurry over to my house," the note read. "You might be too late anyhow."

Investigation disclosed the three bodies.

According to authorities Bogar had quarreled with a suitor for Agnes' hand and had refused to sanction her association with young men in the community.

COLUMBUS MAN'S BODY MANGLED

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 3.—Police today were investigating the finding of a body of a man believed to be John D. Duncan, of this city, in the Pennsylvania freight yards shortly after midnight.

The body, horribly mangled and the head severed, was removed to an undertaking parlor. A broken watch showed 10:30 believed to be the time the man was killed.

person and something must be provided to keep him occupied during that period of recreation."

He briefly discussed the efforts of the Y. M. C. A. to be of service to the young men between the ages of 16 and 26. "We do not have to worry about the boy under 16 and there's no use to attempt to form new habits in the young man over 26, but it is the youth between the two ages that needs the care," he said.

Nagal gave a report of the activities of the Sunday Afternoon club last season. Eleven meetings were held, the smallest attendance being 68 and the largest 123, with a general average of 94. The meetings, which were suspended for the summer, will be resumed in November.

Auto is Damaged In Crash; Driver In Wrong Lane

A touring car, driven by George Bradfield, West Ninth street, lost both front wheels in a collision with an automobile driven by Mrs. Helen Hall, 1618 Elm street, Youngstown, at the intersection of Lisbon and West Eighth streets at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon. No one was injured.

Bradfield, police say, was driving in the wrong lane in the direction of Wellsville. He attempted to cut across in front of the Youngstown woman's car which was coming down the hill at a slow rate of speed. The Youngstown machine was only slightly damaged and was driven away under its own power.

Chief of Police Hugh McDermott made an investigation of the crash.

Near-Riot on Floor Of Stock Exchange Over General Motors

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—A rush to buy General Motors stock precipitated a near riot on the floor of the stock exchange today as brokers struggled and tugged at each other in a wild scramble to execute their orders.

The stock soared 10 points in the first half-hour of trading and sold at the record high price of $211¼ a share in blocks from 500 to 5,000 shares. An over-night gain of 4 to 53 points was only a modest introduction to the boiling market for the stock which developed with the influx of buying orders from all sections of the county.

United States Steel, the side partner of General Motors in the July advance in the stock market, surpassed all of its previous records today when it sold at 149½.

SOCIETY

Principals in Two Weddings Alternate, In Attendant Roles

At 9 o'clock this morning in the Methodist Protestant church, Miss Helen Dunn, daughter of Mrs. E. E. Dunn, of Chestnut street, became the bride of Harold Kaufman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kaufman, of Avondale street. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. F. Dimit. Miss Ruth Maloney and George Spratley were the attendants.

The bride was gowned in French blue georgette with hat to match, and carried a bouquet of Ophelia roses, showered with lilies of the valley. Previous to her marriage she was employed in the office of the American Paper Product company. The bridegroom is employed as a machinist by the Patterson Foundry and Machine company.

Following this ceremony the bridal party left for St. John's Lutheran church, where the attendants, Miss Maloney and Mr. Spratley, were united in marriage by Dr. J. G. Reinartz. Mr. and Mrs. Kaufman were the attendants. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Maloney, of Church street, and the bridegroom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Grant Spratley, of East Sixth street.

The bride wore Bois-de-rose flat crepe with hat to match. Her bouquet was made of Ophelia roses and sweetpeas. She has been employed in the office of the Ohio Power company, while the bridegroom is a decorator at the Knowles, Taylor and Knowles pottery.

Immediately following this ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Spratley and Mr. and Mrs. Kaufman left for a honeymoon by motor through Canada.

Wain-Factor Wedding.

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Miss Hilda Wain, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Wain of Wheeling, former residents of Avondale street, and Richard Davis Factor, formerly of Zanesville, now located in Columbus. The bride was a teacher in the local schools.

Mr. and Mrs. Factor are now at home at 48 Seventeenth avenue, Columbus.

Missionary Society Session.

The monthly meeting of the Women's Foreign Missionary society met last evening in the parlors of the First Methodist Episcopal church. Mrs. William Rowe was in charge of the program, and Mrs. Kenney directed the devotionals. Papers were read by Mesdames Frank Small, Barrett and Valentine. An address was given by Miss Martingale, a missionary to Mexico.

Mite boxes were opened.

Golf Tournament for Ladies.

Ladies of the East Liverpool Country club, who will take part tomorrow in the 18-hole medal golf play with full handicap, are requested to be present promptly at 9 o'clock to draw for partners. Trophies will be presented by Mesdames W. E. Wells and Walter B. Hill.

S. B. A. Initiation.

The Security Benefit association, meeting tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock in the Sons of Veterans' hall, East Sixth street, will initiate a class of candidates. Refreshments will be served by the social committee of which Mrs. Gertrude Bennett is chairman.

Watermelon Party at Campbell Home

Fifty guests, including residents of the Oak Grove Campground, were entertained last evening by Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Campbell at a watermelon feast. The tables were arranged on the campus. Dancing on the tennis court was a diversion.

Wee-Gee Club Dinner.

Members of the Wee-Gee club will entertain with a 6 o'clock dinner Friday evening at Rock Springs park, Chester.

More Lighthouses Sought by Marine Circles in Japan

TOKIO — More and better lighthouses is the cry that has been raised in marine circles in Japan as the result of the wrecking of the Ellerman line freighter City of Naples on Zenisu reef on June 15. Zenisu reef is forty miles from the nearest lighthouse and has been dreaded for years by all coastwise sailormen.

There are only 493 lighthouses along Japan's 1,888 miles of seacoast and many of the existing beacons have not been modernized. Experts declare that at least 1,000 lighthouses are needed to properly safeguard ships traveling along the coast lines.

ELECTORS FLOCK TO POLLS HERE

Heavy vote is being cast here today in the state wide primary election at which candidates will be nominated for state, federal, county and district offices.

Electors here are interested chiefly in the proposed $75,000 bond issue for a new school building to be erected in Newell and the choice of two members of the Grant district board of education. District constable will be nominated to fill an existing vacancy.

TAX AMENDMENT BEFORE ELECTORS

Proposed taxation amendment to the constitution will be voted on at the November election. The question was ordered submitted to the electors of the state at the last session of the legislature.

Number of leading citizens of the state are taking a lively interest in the outcome of the proposal.

MANY CASES TO BE INVESTIGATED

Record breaking number of cases will be investigated by the next grand jury which does not meet until October. Since the close of the June term of the circuit court many arrests have been made in which the defendants were bound over to court.

Majority of these cases involve violation of the state prohibition laws.

Game Here Tonight.

Laughlin Grays and Potters Supply teams will hook up in the first of a five game series tonight on the Newell diamond. The second game this week will be staged on Patterson field.

JACK WALTON SEEKS TOGA IN OKLAHOMA RACE

Former Governor Before Voters in Democratic Primary.

FIVE IN FIGHT

Eighteen Candidates in Contest for Governorship.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 3.—J. C. (Iron Jack) Walton, former governor and commander-in-chief of all Oklahoma's military and civil forces, came back before the voters of his state today in an effort to gain the Democratic nomination for United States senate, an honor which he had two years ago but met defeat overwhelmingly by E. B. Pine, Republican.

The "iron man,' who in 1923, put the whole of Oklahoma under martial law, called out the national guard, asked for 75,000 volunteers, kept a legislature from meeting by force of arms, appointed "22,000 minute men" to stop an election and numerous other precedents in a "war against the invisible government of the Ku Klux Klan" and was later impeached, this time opposes four other contestants, one a woman senator who voted to impeach him.

"The klan must die," is the former governor's campaign slogan. He charged throughout his campaign the state of Oklahoma "still was ruled by that invisible hand that threw me out of office" and promised to carry the fight to the United States senate if elected.

Elmer Thomas, former congressman; W. A. Ledbetter, former Muskogee peace office; Mrs. Lamar Looney, state senator, and M. L. Misherheimer are the candidates opposing him.

Republican candidates for senatorial race nomination are: J. W. Harreld, incumbent; John W. Buckles, Joe C. Fox, B. G. Bingham, U. S. Stone, Preston Ashing and D. Lafe Hubler.

Second in interest to the senatorial campaign is the gubernatorial race. There are 18 candidates running for the seat of Governor M. E. Trapp, recently held ineligible to succeed himself by the State Supreme court. They are: J. B. A. Robertson, former Governor; W. M. Darnell, Frank F. Davis, John R. Clarke, T. H. Wren, O. A. Cargill, Henry S. Johnson, Porter N. McCallum, J. Anderson and William M. Franklin.

Democrats: James Hepburn, Omer K. Benowot, Henry L. Clouck, George Hlaly, W. J. Otjen, James Harris, Edward D. Evans and John Gleiber.

Expect Light Vote in Kansas.

TOPEKA, Kans., Aug. 3.— Kansas primaries opened today with weather throughout the state cool and cloudy and no exceptionally heavy vote expected.

The Democratic voters will chose between ex-Governor Jonathan M. Davis, recently acquitted on charges of selling a pardon while in office, and Donald Muir, for the gubernatorial nomination. Golden B. Davis opposes Governor Ben S. Paulen, who is trying for the Republican nomination to succeed himself. Senator Charles Curtis, Republican floor leader, seeks renomination against a negro, Nick Chiles, of Topeka.

Primary in Missouri.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Aug. 3.—Missouri today was holding its primary, which was to determine the party nominees for United States senate, congress and a few state officers.

In the Democratic senatorial race, Congressman Harry B. Hawes, a wet, entered for both long and short terms, was opposed by two drys, Judge Cockrell of Warrensburg, running against him for the long term nomination, and W. H. Meredith, of Poplar Bluff, for the short term. Robert I. Young, St. Joseph, A fourth candidate, favored modification of the dry act.

In the Republican contest, David M. Proctor of Kansas City, a dry, was running against Senator George M. Williams, a neutral on the dry issue, who seeks re-election. Blodgett Priest of St. Louis was a wet.

New York Girl

the tide at her back, attempting the long roundabout course which had been found the most feasible method by the five successful channel swimmers in the past.

The twentieth hour found her using a slow, weary overhand stroke still two miles from her goal.

Miss Barrett started strongly using a powerful breast stroke. At 1 o'clock, five hours after starting, she had changed to a fast crawl and reached a point 10 miles off the French coast —an astonishing speed average. In this time she had covered as much distance as Norman Berham, the British swimmer, had in 12 hours before he was forced to abandon the struggle.

Farstad Fails Second Time.

CAPE GRIS NEZ, Aug. 3. — Olaf Farstad met defeat at the hands of the English channel today, for the second time in 10 days.

Farstad was forced to give up his attempt to swim the channel at 1 o'clock this afternoon, after having been in the water for nine hours and twenty-nine minutes.

Heavy seas and a driving rain made it impossible for the Oslo policeman to continue his courageous effort.

Farstad's failure today is the third victory for the channel in 36 hours, Clarabelle Barrett of New York and Dr. George Brewster of London having been forced to abandon their attempts which they started yesterday.

Asa Yoleson, or Al Jolson, Divorced By Ethel Delmar

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—A Paris dispatch yesterday stating that Asa Yoleson had been divorced by Alma Osborne Yoleson didn't attract any notice along Broadway but when the news came out today that Asa Yoelson is none other than Al Jolson of "Mammy" fame Broadway sat up.

On the stage Mrs. Jolson before her marriage was known as Ethel Delmar. Friends had heard reports of differences between the couple but none believed divorce was planned.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—General Motors was the central figure of a raging stock market in the first hour of trading today. Stimulated by the reported decline of $19,000,000 in brokers' loans and the wide publicity given to the Cochran interview, outside speculative points poured in buying orders for the stock on a tidal wave of advancing prices.

Again the ticker service proceeded to be inadequate as the volume of trading expanded and the price advanced another 10 points to 211¼ in the first half hour.

The speculative fever spread to the industrial stocks, the low priced motor shares and the oils, the latter responding to the excellent earnings statement issued by Sinclair Consolidated, showing a gain of 65 per cent in earnings as compared with the same period last year. Yellow Truck, affiliated with General Motors, sold up to 36 for a gain of 10 points from Monday's low, while White Motors, Willys Overland, Packard, Hudson and Nash advanced from 1 to 2½ points in an unusually heavy turnover. DuPont jumped seven points to 295.

United States Steel then commanded attention, with its brisk run-up to 149½, duplicating its former high record price, and finally passing that milestone when 1,400 shares of the stock sold at 149½. Independent steels were quiet, as also were the rails, equipments, mercantile shares and utilities.

MEXICO-CHURCH DEADLOCK IS TIGHTER TODAY

Police Guards are Withdrawn From Houses of Worship.

CHURCHES OPEN

Renew Efforts Made to Bring About Peace.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 3.—The deadlock between the Mexican government and the Catholic church today seemed tighter than ever, but the tensity of the situation appears to have been somewhat relieved.

Police guards have been withdrawn from the churches in many places, and additional military stationed in the streets have returned to their barracks.

The control of the churches has passed into the hands of municipal committees in almost every district of Mexico, and they have been opened again for services conducted by lay-readers.

Thus far the economic boycott put into effect by the Catholics, has not resulted in any general tie-up of business.

Although the early peace overtures have been rejected by the government, as exclusively announced by the International News Service yesterday, it is learned that renewed efforts are being made to bring about some sort of an accord.

Calles Stands Pat.

President Calles stands pat in his insistence that the laws must be administered in full force, and at present it is difficult to see how a compromise can be reached that will not be a back-down for one side or the other.

Archbishop Jose Maria y Del Rio, head of the Catholic church in Mexico, is still occupying his private offices, and while refraining from all church services it is understood that he continues to function in connection with secular business of the church.

The archbishop today received the correspondent of the International News Service and requested that American people, both Catholics and Protestants, be thanked on his behalf for "their manifest sympathy for the Catholic church in Mexico during the present trials."

The alleged plot against the life of President Calles appears now to have been thoroughly squelched with the arrest of seven more alleged plotters, thus making a total of 15 in jail for this conspiracy. The police are on the alert for other plots of this sort, but it is believed that the order which has prevailed is indicative of an intent by the people in general, except for a handful of fanatics perhaps, to leave the working out of this difficult situation to the recognized leaders of the government and the church.

Catholic leaders point to the order which has prevailed as evidence of their intent to pursue only peaceful measures in carrying on their struggle.

American Episcopal Church Seized.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—The state department today made public the report of Alexander W. Weddell, consul general at Mexico City, on the seizure by police last Saturday of the church of England at San Jose in Mexico City. The church is owned by the American Episcopal church.

Police stated that the church was seized because the church officers had not made proper reports to the authorities. It is believed that the differences will be settled in Mexico City without resort to diplomatic exchanges between Mexico and the United States.

FINED $25, THEN GOES TO JAIL

F. W. McLaughlin is Found Guilty of Reckless Driving.

F. W. McLaughlin, Seventh street, was fined $25 and costs and committed to jail until the fine and costs are paid when he was found guilty by Municipal Judge J. C. Hanley today upon a charge of fast and reckless driving in connection with an automobile crash on Pennsylvania avenue about two weeks ago. He was arrested upon information of William Finley, Bradshaw avenue, who charged that McLaughlin, after sideswiping his car failed to stop. McLaughlin entered a plea of not guilty when arraigned last Saturday.

Upon recommendation of Solicitor Frank Hoover, Fred C. Million, who was arrested by Patrolman Roth in Diamond alley Sunday, charged with the illegal possession of intoxicating liquors, was dismissed by Judge Hanley for the lack of evidence. Million was charged with having been the owner of eight half pints of moonshine whisky found by the patrolman in a sewer.

James Anas, arrested by Patrolman James Haley Saturday night, on a charge of having a gambling device in his possession, forfeited his bond of $55.80 when he failed to appear for a hearing. Anas is said to have had a book of baseball pool tickets when apprehended.

and it was no more monarchial than the fine private cars in which the late J. Pierpont Morgan carried bishops and distinguished laymen to a gathering of the Episcopalian church.

THE UNIMPORTANT opinion of this writer is that President Coolidge will be renominated and re-elected. If anything could interfere with that programme it would be a series of foolish attacks on Governor Smith because of his religion. You will not find Calvin Coolidge making or instigating such attacks. He also knows politics.

TWENTY PASSENGER airplanes are employed between London and Paris, carrying more than 400 passengers a day. Only seventeen years ago the first flight was made across the English Channel. This country, which invented the flying machine, is slow to use it. The chief hope is in the Fords, father and son, who have the ability and the money. In Europe the government helps such important developments.

MR. FOKKER. European genius, who built the ship on which Commander Byrd flew over the North Pole, is in this country, and could put the United States ahead on commercial and other aviation if the government would give him backing.

THERE are serious conditions in Mexica, business is injured by the boycott instituted by Catholics, a few are killed, many injured and arrested in riots. Military guards and police are stoned at some of the churches, women leading the attacks. The world sees in Mexico what has always happened in quarrels based on religion.

PRESIDENT CALLES issues a statement accusing the Catholic archbishops and bishops of abandoning their only field of action, the conscience of the Catholic, to invade the field of politics and of government and provoke movements of disorder and incite, secretly or openly, to rebellion.

CATHOLIC authorities accuse Presendent Calles of seeking to destroy the church and take its property.

President Calles replies that the Catholic church would usurp the powers of government and says the issue in Mexico is government of the country by Catholic bishops and others appointed abroad, or government by public officials elected in Mexico.

It is not a pleasant fight.

forming southwest of here in the neighborhood where the slain girl's father worked. Sheriff Marquard sent deputies to the scene of the reported gathering but they reported no sign of the mob.

Extra guards were stationed about the jail. The crowd, although sentiment ran high, showed no disposition of disorder, and shortly after midnight began dispersing. A few lingered all night, but it was a curious gathering.

Pleaded Guilty.

Thompson pleaded guilty yesterday when arraigned before Mayor Heaton and was bound over to the grand jury without bail. He admitted, it was said, having served a term in the Kansas state prison for assaulting a woman. He is a widower and has five children.

Thompson was not removed from the county jail here during the night. The sheriff declined to say where the prisoner was, leading to rumors that he had been spirited away.

COLUMBUS, O., August 3.—National guardsmen will not be sent to Coshocton where it was feared last night a mob would storm the jail for Robert Thompson, confessed slayer of a 10-year-old girl, James Huffman, executive clerk to Gov. Donahey, said today.

Huffman received a call from the Coshocton county sheriff detailing the situation last night. The call was referred to General Henderson, of the National Guard at Camp Perry, but no orders were issued for mobilization for immediate call.

Suspected of Double Slaying.

STEUBENVILLE, O., Aug. 3.—Robert Thompson, 54, known as a roving farm hand who confessed to killing a 10-year-old girl near Coshocton and who is now in the Coshocton county jail, may be the farm hand last in the employe of Robert and Nettie Herron, of Two Bridges, near here, both of whom were mysteriously slain last March 2, local authorities believed today.

Prosecutor Roy Merryman said that his office was checking up on Thompson and that nothing would be left undone to bring to justice the person who committed the worst double crime in the county's history.

City Solicitor C. L. Williams, who defended and secured the acquittal of John Cook, a negro, tried for the murder of Nettie Herron, went to Coshocton yesterday. He was accompanied by Thomas J. Dignan.

"We have always maintained that a white farm hand, a man of Thompson's age and description, committed the Herron murders," Williams said.

Cook is now in jail here awaiting trial on an indictment charging him with the murder of Robert Herron.

The Herrons, brother and sister, were slain while at work on their farm. Robert was killed by a blow from a mattox while Nettie, after being ravaged, was hanged from the ceiling.

Boy is Injured.

Merle, six-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Reese, Canons Mills, suffered a badly lacerated right foot yesterday when it was caught in a lawn mower which he was pushing. The lad was brought to the City hospital where the injury was dressed by Dr. W. A. Hobbs.

Fifteen "Gas Hawks" Nabbed

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 3.—Fifteen mashers were scheduled to appear in police court today as the result of an energetic drive by police last night against the so-called "gas-hawks." Most of them were nabbed on the east side.

FIND WITNESS TO DEATH PLOT

New Sensation in Hall-Mills Murder Investigation.

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Aug. 3.—A witness, who lurked in the shadows of the Phillips farm, and saw the Rev. Edward W. Hall, and Mrs. Eleanor R. Mills, his choir-singer, shot to death four years ago, has been found by investigators and is ready to tell the story of the killing.

This was today's sensation in the renewed investigation of the crime.

The eye-witness, whose name has been carefully guarded, already has given information to Gov. Moore, State Senator Alexander Simpson, special prosecutor, announced, and the story is said virtually to substantiate that of Mrs. Jane Gibson, the "pig-woman."

effect that the suspect had made a clean escape.

From another authoritative source came the confident statement that "McDermott's capture is not far away."

Guard Officer Threatened.

Interest in the McDermott manhunt was sidetracked for a while today by the statement of Colonel C. F. Bluem, of the Ohio National Guard, personal representative of Gov. Donahey, that he had been "threatened with actual violence because of his policies in connection with the investigation."

"They threatened to run me out of town and said they would 'break me,' he told newspaper men. Colonel Bluem refused to name the persons making the threat and would not say that he would change his policies.

Bluem refused to discuss his "policies."

Slater Holds Key, He Says.

Slater, who worked ceaselessly while dissension was springing up among other agents, today declared that the "hub-hub" set up by certain investigators was founded on personal jealously.

"They were angry because I hold the key to the whole murder and because they were not in on it," Slater declared. "I still hold the key and I'm going to keep right on holding it."

"The fact that another detective gave out the name of the informer being held here ought to prove that it wouldn't be safe to turn all the evidence over to him," the sleepless detective from the Cal Crim agency, stated.

"It is just a matter of time until we find McDermott. Then the murder will be solved, he added.

Trace Ownership of Coupe.

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 3. — Police today were trying to determine whether an abandoned Ford coupe in front of 1345 Granger avenue, Lakewood, though to be a Canton, Ohio, car, had any connection with Patrick McDermott, wanted badly for questioning in the shooting of Don R. Mellett, Canton publisher.

The machine bore license number 688-251, police said. It had stood where it was found for three days.

Police here had no report of the theft of such a car.

Reports from the state automobile registry department at Columbus stated the license carried by the Lakewood mystery car was issued to Steve Tate, Louisville, Ohio, northeast of Canton.

Man and His Unmarried Daughter Suicide; Child Killed

Blissfield, Mich., Authorities Seek Motive for Strange Death Pact After Girl, 5, is Poisoned.

BLISSFIELD, Mich., Aug. 3.—County authorities today sought a motive for the strange suicide pact of John Bogar, 50, and his unmarried daughter, Agnes, and the murder of the girl's five-year-old daughter, Amelia.

Poison administered to the child killed her, probably Saturday, and then the father and daughter took doses of the same drink and calmly awaited their deaths.

Sunday came and the poison had failed to work. On the same day Bogar went to a neighbor's house and said that "something terrible" was happening. Returning home, he found his daughter had hanged herself, it is believed.

Apparently Bogar sat in the farmhouse all day, unable to make up his mind to hasten his own death by hanging. He slipped again to the neighbor's house, stuck a note on a fence post where it was found later in the day, went home and hanged himself.

"Hurry over to my house," the note read. "You might be too late anyhow."

Investigation disclosed the three bodies.

According to authorities Bogar had quarreled with a suitor for Agnes' hand and had refused to sanction her association with young men in the community.

COLUMBUS MAN'S BODY MANGLED

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 3.—Police today were investigating the finding of a body of a man believed to be John D. Duncan, of this city, in the Pennsylvania freight yards shortly after midnight.

The body, horribly mangled and the head severed, was removed to an undertaking parlor. A broken watch showed 10:30 believed to be the time the man was killed.

person and something must be provided to keep him occupied during that period of recreation."

He briefly discussed the efforts of the Y. M. C. A. to be of service to the young men between the ages of 16 and 26. "We do not have to worry about the boy under 16 and there's no use to attempt to form new habits in the young man over 26, but it is the youth between the two ages that needs the care," he said.

Nagal gave a report of the activities of the Sunday Afternoon club last season. Eleven meetings were held, the smallest attendance being 68 and the largest 123, with a general average of 94. The meetings, which were suspended for the summer, will be resumed in November.

Auto is Damaged In Crash; Driver In Wrong Lane

A touring car, driven by George Bradfield, West Ninth street, lost both front wheels in a collision with an automobile driven by Mrs. Helen Hall, 1618 Elm street, Youngstown, at the intersection of Lisbon and West Eighth streets at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon. No one was injured.

Bradfield, police say, was driving in the wrong lane in the direction of Wellsville. He attempted to cut across in front of the Youngstown woman's car which was coming down the hill at a slow rate of speed. The Youngstown machine was only slightly damaged and was driven away under its own power.

Chief of Police Hugh McDermott made an investigation of the crash.

Near-Riot on Floor Of Stock Exchange Over General Motors

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—A rush to buy General Motors stock precipitated a near riot on the floor of the stock exchange today as brokers struggled and tugged at each other in a wild scramble to execute their orders.

The stock soared 10 points in the first half-hour of trading and sold at the record high price of $211¼ a share in blocks from 500 to 5,000 shares. An over-night gain of 4 to 53 points was only a modest introduction to the boiling market for the stock which developed with the influx of buying orders from all sections of the county.

United States Steel, the side partner of General Motors in the July advance in the stock market, surpassed all of its previous records today when it sold at 149½.

REPORT FILED BY COPELAND

Weather Observer Sees Small Chance for Corn Crop.

Last month was the driest July in 33 years, and the harvest one of the largest in recent years, according to the records of Lawrence H. Copeland, cooperative weather observer at Millport, whose report has just been forwarded to the department at Washington.

The cutting of hay has been about completed, and wheat is still in the fields, although thrashing has been going on for some time on some farms.

Assurance of a corn crop is almost abandoned, and the only thing that will save the corn now is an abundance of rain. Pastures are drying up, and many runs have gone dry. Much stock about the county is now on feed.

July had two cool periods and three hot periods, July 21st. being the hottest day of the year, when the temperature stood at 98. The mean maximum temperature for July was 82.2 and the mean minimum was 55.8, with a mean temperature of 69. The minimum temperature for the month of July was 40, which was registered July 2nd. The greatest daily range was also on this latter date when there was a change of 42 degrees in the temperature.

There were eight days in July when the percipitation was .01 or more. July had but 10 clear days, with three cloudy days and 19 partly cloudy days. There were two thunderstorms last month, these being recorded on July 6th. and 22nd.

The rainfall this year so far is five inches below normal, over a period of 33 years, the county records show. Just a year ago the ground was soaked with water, "corn was booming and oats nearly in shock," the report reads. "No oats are cut as yet."

Normal temperature in this county during the last 33 years is 70.6 and the normal percipitation 4.37 inches. In July 1925, the rainfall was 8.15 inches.

CIGARETTE TAX IS DISTRIBUTED

Warrants for the payment of the annual cigarette license money have just been issued by County Auditor Elmer E. Walker. These warrants were sent to the clerks of 11 corporations and 10 townships, the total distribution being $9,329.12.

Of the money distributed from the collection of this license fee, 75 per cent goes to the state, and the 25 per cent going to the corporations is divided equally between the general find and the poor fund, or 12½ per cent to each fund in each corporation and township.

Commissioners Hold Public Road Hearing; Claims Presented

Fewer claims for damages have been filed with the county commissioners on Section G-3 and E of the East Liverpool and Youngstown intercounty highway than any other proposed new highway in the county, the records of the commissioners' journal disclose.

Only 15 claims were filed with the commissioners during a public hearing this week, and 80 per cent of those filing claims asked nothing for land, but made requests for the reconstruction of a fence, the caring of drainage water, the removal of a small building here and there, and similar small requests.

A number of land owners advised the commissioners they were sufficiently pleased to have the road built over the designated route. The road hearing lasted less than one hour. All requests, with the possible exception of three or four were granted by the commissioners, and other claims were held up until a view of the properties in question could be made with County Surveyor Lloyd C. Kirk.

The hearing had to do with the construction of this new road north of Williamsport, upon which sections no contracts have so far been awarded.

MACKALL FILES HIS FIRST CASE

Attorney P. V. Mackall of East Liverpool, recently admitted to the practice of law in Ohio has filed his first case in common pleas court, it being the divorce petition of Ida Bell Pugh against her husband James Samuel Pugh, residing on R. F. D. No. 1, Grafton, W. Va.

The petition relates the couple were married at Chester, W. Va., Dec. 28, 1912. Gross neglect of duty is charged. It is also declared in the petition that although Pugh is making $200 per month, he abandoned the plaintiff and her children Dec. 22, 1924, and that he has never contributed anything to their support.

It is also related in the petition that Pugh had been arrested for nonsupport and that he gave bond, following his plea of guilty, and that after the bond was filed, he left the jurisdiction of the court.

Cited for Contempt.

Sheriff George Wright has been ordered by Judge W. H. Spence to present George H. Heckathorne in common pleas court next Friday under a contempt of court order. In the divorce action filed by Ruth M. Heckathorne against her husband George H. Heckathorne, the court ordered the custody of children to be given the mother. It is now contended that this order of court has been violated by the defendant.

Seek To Modify Order.

An application has been filed in common pleas court in the divorce action of Irene Lutton against her husband George R. Lutton to modify a former order of alimony. The application will be heard by Judge W. H. Spence next Friday morning.

Former Class Members Will Be Entertained In Bethesda Church

Members of the Sunday school classes of Miss Lura Fife and L. H. Copeland, will entertain all former members in the basement of the Bethesda Presbyterian church, Saturday evening, August 7. Dinner will be served at 6 P. M. Former teachers of Miss Fife's class were Mrs. J. G. Black, Mrs. E. J. Travers and Mrs. E. J. Cox. L. H. Copeland has been teaching his class 25 years. Many former members of these classes are scattered in various parts of the country. More than 200 invitations have been sent out, and a large crowd is expected. Miss Helen Black, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. J. G. Black, a former pastor, and a product of Bethesda church will be a guest of honor. Miss Black, who has spent the past seven years as a missionary in India, will conclude a furlough, September 6, returning to her work in India. She will give a talk on "Mission Work in India."

SHASTEEN HELD FOR GRAND JURY

Albert Shasteen of Hanover township, Lincoln highway, who was arrested Thursday of last week following a raid on his home by Sheriff George Wetzel of Centre township, entered a plea of not guilty to a charge of possessing implements for the manufacturing of intoxicating liquor when given a hearing before Justice M. K. Zimerman at Lisbon Monday night, and was bound over to the grand jury under $1,000 bond.

What is considered the most complete still ever uncovered in the county was found when the officers visited the Shasteen house. The still was in operation in the basement of the small house, and the officers after dumping a lot of mash and liquor, took eight gallon of liquor with them, together with 200 pounds of sugar, ground mash and the still. The entire outfit is now under guard at the county jail.

Marriage Licenses.

A marriage license has been issued to Harold C. Kaufman, a machinist and son of Mr. and Mrs. William T. Kaufman of East Liverpool and Miss Helen F. Dunn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Dunn, also of East Liverpool. They are to be married by the Rev. John F. Dimit of the Methodist Protestant church at East Liverpool.

George W. Spratley, a decorator, and Miss Ruth E. Maloney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William T. Maloney of East Liverpool have obtained a marriage license, and are to be married by the Rev. J. G. Reinartz, of St. Johns Evangelical Lutheran church of East Liverpool.

Street Fair Planned.

The annual street fair at Columbiana has been set for Sept. 17-18 by Benjamin Firestone Post, American Legion, which organization has been sponsering the fair for some years. This fair will immediately follow the county fair at Lisbon, which is scheduled for Sept. 14-15 and 16.

Many concessions at the county fair will move to Columbiana, which has also been a rule in former years. Two automobiles are to be given away the last night of the fair.

WORK LAUNCHED ON NEW BRIDGE

N. R. Porterfield of Youngstown, recently awarded the contract for the construction of a new concrete bridge on the Westville-Alliance road plans to have his contract finished and the road opened to through traffic about August 15, it has been announced by County Surveyor Lloyd C. Kirk.

This road is now being surface treated by the state highway department, and a detour has been arranged around the bridge that is now under construction.

According to agreement with the Knox township trustees and the county commissioners, made a matter of record several years ago, this road will be topped with a paving block surface within a few years.

Divorce Decree Issued.

A decree of divorce has been handed down by Judge W. H. Spence to Margaret Baker, a minor, who through her next friend Ellan Hester filed an action for divorce in common pleas court against her husband Carl F. Baker. The decree was granted on the grounds of gross neglect of duty. The plaintiff has also been restored by the court to her maiden name, that of Margaret Hester.

Judgment Asked.

A petition has ben filed in common pleas court by Brooks & Thompson of East Liverpool in behalf of the Erwin Feldspar company, seeking judgment for $6,057.58 and interest from March 12th, 1926, against Richard C. Sant. The claim is based upon an account claimed to be due for merchandise sold and delivered defendant at his request.

Alimony Order.

In the divorce action now pending in common pleas court wherin Myrtle Isabelle Pugh is seeking a decree against her husband, Harold E. Pugh, the defendant has been ordered by the court to pay his wife $30 alimony on or before Aug. 14th, the payment of an order under a former order of court. After this payment, Pugh has been ordered by Judge Spence to give $200 for the satisfaction of the order.

ELECTORS FLOCK TO POLLS HERE

Heavy vote is being cast here today in the state wide primary election at which candidates will be nominated for state, federal, county and district offices.

Electors here are interested chiefly in the proposed $75,000 bond issue for a new school building to be erected in Newell and the choice of two members of the Grant district board of education. District constable will be nominated to fill an existing vacancy.

TAX AMENDMENT BEFORE ELECTORS

Proposed taxation amendment to the constitution will be voted on at the November election. The question was ordered submitted to the electors of the state at the last session of the legislature.

Number of leading citizens of the state are taking a lively interest in the outcome of the proposal.

MANY CASES TO BE INVESTIGATED

Record breaking number of cases will be investigated by the next grand jury which does not meet until October. Since the close of the June term of the circuit court many arrests have been made in which the defendants were bound over to court.

Majority of these cases involve violation of the state prohibition laws.

Game Here Tonight.

Laughlin Grays and Potters Supply teams will hook up in the first of a five game series tonight on the Newell diamond. The second game this week will be staged on Patterson field.

To Enjoy Boat Ride.

Number of local people plan to enjoy the excursion tonight on the steamer Washington. The boat will leave the Broadway wharf in East Liverpool at 8 o'clock.

Pastor Visiting Here.

Rev. and Mrs. Herman H. Hisack and son, Robert, of Perrysville, Pa. are visiting with Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Wilhelm, Grant street.

Laughlin and Chester Capture Industrial League Games

K. T. K. Defeated, 9-8; Cebula's Curves Awe Wellsville Batsmen

First-half victors on Long End of Score in Zig-Zag Contest at Columbian Park, While Clever Pitching of Riley's Ace Features Central Park Battle.

With both teams hitting handily and scoring recklessly at times Laughlin, first-half winners, finally defeated K. T. K. at Columbian park in what was a zig-zag contest last evening, the score being 9 to 8.

Wild running of the pathways, particularly by Laughlin, featured the contest. Two double steals by Babb and Finley in the third, the latter continuing beyond third and reaching the plate successfully as Bubin walked, being an outstanding occurrence of the contest.

Myers showed his hitting capabilities by slashing out two doubles and a single in three tries for a 1000 mark. Finley, Jackson and Barr swatted at a .667 clip with two safeties in a trio of attempts.

Though Laughlin made three runs in the first, K. T. K. came right back and made four in the second only to have their opponents annex a quintet of runs in the third which the Ohio potters rebutted with three in the third, just one run behind. In the fourth both clubs made a run each and both went scoreless in the fifth which darkness ensuing, continued the one-tally margin in favor of the McCoyites.

Barr, new Laughlin hurler, fresh from a season's non-work with Nash-Turk flung at the victorious end of the game. He allowed nine hits, fanned four, but walked none. But he hit the ball hard despite his enforced absence from the game.

Hi Allison held Laughlin to eight safeties. He, too, fanned four, but he passed four, all of whom subsequently scored. Both pitchers had one assist each.

Thus Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen explained today in an interview, her reason for deciding to turn professional and make a tour of the North American continent.

Suzanne, radiant and beaming, appeared in high glee over the contract which she has made with C. C. Pyle, American sports promoter, and she was very frank in her admission that she turned professional because she felt that tennis, to which she has devoted her life, owes her the wealth which will provide for her in the day when her deadly aim, her driving forearm, and her agile legs fail her on the courts.

Suzanne has just one regret, she says over this business of turning professional and that regret concerns Helen Wills, American champion. Suzanne feels that her victory over Miss Wills on the Riviera last winter was not quite decisive enough, and she would like one more match with the Californian. In fact, the French ace cherishes a secret hope that perhaps the United States Lawn Tennis association might waive its regulations long enough to permit Miss Wills to engage in a battle with a professional, providing there is an arrangement whereby the proceeds might to to charity.

RECORD CROWD AT WELLSVILLE

But Two Safe Drives are Permitted by Chester Twirler.

Unable to hit M. Cebula, who permitted but two safe drives, Wellsville lost to Chester in a City Industrial league contest at Central park of the down river city last evening. The score was 8 to 1.

Cebula fanned seven men. Wellsville's only run was made in the third when Meyer was safe on Heckathorn's error. The former stole second and reached third on Pott's wide heave on the play. He scored on Rager's grounder to P. Cebula.

Because Wellsville had previously defeated Chester 5 to 1, the largest crowd of the season turned out to witness the contest.

Morgan supplanted Meyers in the fifth after Chester had touched him for four hits which netted three runs.

McMath's single to right in the fifth sent two runs across the plate. Potts, Marshall and Heckathorne then went out in order.

M. Cebula, with two safeties in three attempts, also led his club with the stick. Hancock made a double off him in the second and Deemer, pinch hitting for Rager, in the sixth. Accordingly Cebula has the unique record of permitting but two hits in the last two contests in which he has worked, he having allowed no safe drives in his previous appearance.

K. of C.-Golden Star Dairy Game Ends in 3-3 Tie

The Knights of Columbus and Golden Star Dairy team played to a 3-3 tie at Glenmoor last night, darkness putting an end to the battle which was witnessed by many fans from the Lincoln highway district.

Carey and Kinsey were at points for the Glenmoor nine, while McKenna and Gerace formed the lodge men's battery.

DEMPSEY--KEARNS RING CONTRACT EXPIRES

CHAMP DEFERS SIGNING FOR TUNNEY BOUT

Hopes to Evade Payment of Split to Ex-manager.

NO ARMISTICE

By Davis J. Walsh.

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—The estrangement between Jack Dempsey, heavyweight champion of the entire world with the possible exception of Harlem, and Jack Kearns, his whilom manager, became an actuality today when their three-year contract duly expired and died. There will be no reconciliation, no armistice, no truce. The nearest Jack Kearns will be to Dempsey's corner when and if the champion meets Gene Tunney will be a ringside seat at th ecustomary rate of exchange.

Tex Rickard vouched for the accuracy of this statement today when he declared there wasn't the slightest possibility of the pair getting together.

"I'm afraid those two boys are going to wind up battling in the courts," the promoter said. "I hate to see it because I like them both. However, I have not meddled in their affairs and don't intend to do so."

Kearns' Card In Hole.

Be that as it might, Richard revealed the fact that he had been a party to an arrangement, whereby Dempsey may hope to evade payment of Kearns' managerial third of the Tunney purse. He let the well known cat out for an airing when he disclosed the fact that Dempsey had not signed a ringside seat at the customary rate not do so until two days hence.

In brief, he will be able to tell a court of law that Kearns could have no interest in the proceedings because the match was signed for after the expiration of their contract.

Kearns probably will counter with the reply that Dempsey signed an option with Rickard in Texas several months ago, and that besides he, himself, Jack Kearns personally signed the champion for this identical match, as he had every right to do under the terms of their agreement. This document, by the way, makes Dempsey liable to Kearns for one-third of the contractural price provided the boxer match Kearns happened to make for declines to abide by the terms of any him.

Training in Witness Box.

This makes it appear as though Dempsey will do a lot of his training in the witness box. B. C. Clements, Chicago promoter who seems to think he has the champion tied up in a Wills match, tapped him on the head with a summons before he left Colorado Springs. Further, there was a report on Broadway today that Harry Wills would begin some action locally in the hope of starting something that, perhaps, some one else will finish.

Incidentally, it has been noted that Dempsey has wiped Chicago off his itinerary as he journeys east, the inference being that the champion feared further reprisals from the irrepressible Clements. On Thursday, Clements is supposed to put $300,000 in Dempsey's hand, which will be a good trick whether he does it or not. It may be harder to find the hand than the $300,000.

As a matter of fact, Dempsey is likely to spend Thursday formally signing with Rickard. After which there will be no trouble at all beyond the fact that the local license committee may refuse to sanction his appearance in the ring with Tunney.

The more one looks at this proposition, the less one likes it. The only thing that makes it look good is the fact that Rickard is beind it and it is a matter of record that that gentleman hasn't been wrong since his arrival in this man's town.

Acme Team Hangs Up 5 to 1 Victory Over East End Team

The East Liverpool Acmes registered another victory at Patterson field Sunday afternoon at the expense of the East End Bulldozers. The score was 5 to 1. Carey and Gilchrist twirled for the winners, while Sutherin was on the mound for the visitors.

The Acmes are out with a challenge to the Bulger Drugs, the Chester Reserves and the Madison Billiards. Call Elmer Carey, manager, telephone 2049-W.

INSIDE GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON,
Maker of 51 Golf Champions. "Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans.

Tying a belt into a loop and placing it about the arms, to hold the arms in position while the swing is made, will reveal several surprising things about the position of the arms throughout the swing when the elbows are thus held in their correct position. Not the least of these will be the position you find the elbows occupying at the finish. With the loop about the arms, you will find the left elbow down at the finish and the right arm projecting more toward straight up. This will happen because the right arm, with the elbows guided correctly by the loop, will shoot straight through the ball as it should while the left arm will travel through on a low plane, following the club head after the ball.

REPORT FILED BY COPELAND

Weather Observer Sees Small Chance for Corn Crop.

Last month was the driest July in 33 years, and the harvest one of the largest in recent years, according to the records of Lawrence H. Copeland, cooperative weather observer at Millport, whose report has just been forwarded to the department at Washington.

The cutting of hay has been about completed, and wheat is still in the fields, although thrashing has been going on for some time on some farms.

Assurance of a corn crop is almost abandoned, and the only thing that will save the corn now is an abundance of rain. Pastures are drying up, and many runs have gone dry. Much stock about the county is now on feed.

July had two cool periods and three hot periods, July 21st. being the hottest day of the year, when the temperature stood at 98. The mean maximum temperature for July was 82.2 and the mean minimum was 55.8, with a mean temperature of 69. The minimum temperature for the month of July was 40, which was registered July 2nd. The greatest daily range was also on this latter date when there was a change of 42 degrees in the temperature.

There were eight days in July when the percipitation was .01 or more. July had but 10 clear days, with three cloudy days and 19 partly cloudy days. There were two thunderstorms last month, these being recorded on July 6th. and 22nd.

The rainfall this year so far is five inches below normal, over a period of 33 years, the county records show. Just a year ago the ground was soaked with water, "corn was booming and oats nearly in shock," the report reads. "No oats are cut as yet."

Normal temperature in this county during the last 33 years is 70.6 and the normal percipitation 4.37 inches. In July 1925, the rainfall was 8.15 inches.

CIGARETTE TAX IS DISTRIBUTED

Warrants for the payment of the annual cigarette license money have just been issued by County Auditor Elmer E. Walker. These warrants were sent to the clerks of 11 corporations and 10 townships, the total distribution being $9,329.12.

Of the money distributed from the collection of this license fee, 75 per cent goes to the state, and the 25 per cent going to the corporations is divided equally between the general find and the poor fund, or 12½ per cent to each fund in each corporation and township.

Commissioners Hold Public Road Hearing; Claims Presented

Fewer claims for damages have been filed with the county commissioners on Section G-3 and E of the East Liverpool and Youngstown intercounty highway than any other proposed new highway in the county, the records of the commissioners' journal disclose.

Only 15 claims were filed with the commissioners during a public hearing this week, and 80 per cent of those filing claims asked nothing for land, but made requests for the reconstruction of a fence, the caring of drainage water, the removal of a small building here and there, and similar small requests.

A number of land owners advised the commissioners they were sufficiently pleased to have the road built over the designated route. The road hearing lasted less than one hour. All requests, with the possible exception of three or four were granted by the commissioners, and other claims were held up until a view of the properties in question could be made with County Surveyor Lloyd C. Kirk.

The hearing had to do with the construction of this new road north of Williamsport, upon which sections no contracts have so far been awarded.

MACKALL FILES HIS FIRST CASE

Attorney P. V. Mackall of East Liverpool, recently admitted to the practice of law in Ohio has filed his first case in common pleas court, it being the divorce petition of Ida Bell Pugh against her husband James Samuel Pugh, residing on R. F. D. No. 1, Grafton, W. Va.

The petition relates the couple were married at Chester, W. Va., Dec. 28, 1912. Gross neglect of duty is charged. It is also declared in the petition that although Pugh is making $200 per month, he abandoned the plaintiff and her children Dec. 22, 1924, and that he has never contributed anything to their support.

It is also related in the petition that Pugh had been arrested for nonsupport and that he gave bond, following his plea of guilty, and that after the bond was filed, he left the jurisdiction of the court.

Cited for Contempt.

Sheriff George Wright has been ordered by Judge W. H. Spence to present George H. Heckathorne in common pleas court next Friday under a contempt of court order. In the divorce action filed by Ruth M. Heckathorne against her husband George H. Heckathorne, the court ordered the custody of children to be given the mother. It is now contended that this order of court has been violated by the defendant.

Seek To Modify Order.

An application has been filed in common pleas court in the divorce action of Irene Lutton against her husband George R. Lutton to modify a former order of alimony. The application will be heard by Judge W. H. Spence next Friday morning.

Former Class Members Will Be Entertained In Bethesda Church

Members of the Sunday school classes of Miss Lura Fife and L. H. Copeland, will entertain all former members in the basement of the Bethesda Presbyterian church, Saturday evening, August 7. Dinner will be served at 6 P. M. Former teachers of Miss Fife's class were Mrs. J. G. Black, Mrs. E. J. Travers and Mrs. E. J. Cox. L. H. Copeland has been teaching his class 25 years. Many former members of these classes are scattered in various parts of the country. More than 200 invitations have been sent out, and a large crowd is expected. Miss Helen Black, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. J. G. Black, a former pastor, and a producttt of Bethesda church will be a guest of honor. Miss Black, who has spent the past seven years as a missionary in India, will conclude a furlough, September 6, returning to her work in India. She will give a talk on "Mission Work in India."

SHASTEEN HELD FOR GRAND JURY

Albert Shasteen of Hanover township, Lincoln highway, who was arrested Thursday of last week following a raid on his home by Sheriff George Wetzel of Centre township, entered a plea of not guilty to a charge of possessing implements for the manufacturing of intoxicating liquor when given a hearing before Justice M. K. Zimerman at Lisbon Monday night, and was bound over to the grand jury under $1,000 bond.

What is considered the most complete still ever uncovered in the county was found when the officers visited the Shasteen house. The still was in operation in the basement of the small house, and the officers after dumping a lot of mash and liquor, took eight gallon of liquor with them, together with 200 pounds of sugar, ground mash and the still. The entire outfit is now under guard at the county jail.

Marriage Licenses.

A marriage license has been issued to Harold C. Kaufman, a machinist and son of Mr. and Mrs. William T. Kaufman of East Liverpool and Miss Helen F. Dunn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Dunn, also of East Liverpool. They are to be married by the Rev. John F. Dimit of the Methodist Protestant church at East Liverpool.

George W. Spratley, a decorator, and Miss Ruth E. Maloney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William T. Maloney of East Liverpool have obtained a marriage license, and are to be married by the Rev. J. G. Reinartz, of St. Johns Evangelical Lutheran church of East Liverpool.

Street Fair Planned.

The annual street fair at Columbiana has been set for Sept. 17-18 by Benjamin Firestone Post, American Legion, which organization has been sponsering the fair for some years. This fair will immediately follow the county fair at Lisbon, which is scheduled for Sept. 14-15 and 16.

Many concessions at the county fair will move to Columbiana, which has also been a rule in former years. Two automobiles are to be given away the last night of the fair.

WORK LAUNCHED ON NEW BRIDGE

N. R. Porterfield of Youngstown, recently awarded the contract for the construction of a new concrete bridge on the Westville-Alliance road plans to have his contract finished and the road opened to through traffic about August 15, it has been announced by County Surveyor Lloyd C. Kirk.

This road is now being surface treated by the state highway department, and a detour has been arranged around the bridge that is now under construction.

According to agreement with the Knox township trustees and the county commissioners, made a matter of record several years ago, this road will be topped with a paving block surface within a few years.

Divorce Decree Issued.

A decree of divorce has been handed down by Judge W. H. Spence to Margaret Baker, a minor, who through her next friend Ellan Hester filed an action for divorce in common pleas court against her husband Carl F. Baker. The decree was granted on the grounds of gross neglect of duty. The plaintiff has also been restored by the court to her maiden name, that of Margaret Hester.

Judgment Asked.

A petition has ben filed in common pleas court by Brooks & Thompson of East Liverpool in behalf of the Erwin Feldspar company, seeking judgment for $6,057.58 and interest from March 12th, 1926, against Richard C. Sant. The claim is based upon an account claimed to be due for merchandise sold and delivered defendant at his request.

Alimony Order.

In the divorce action now pending in common pleas court wherin Myrtle Isabelle Pugh is seeking a decree against her husband, Harold E. Pugh, the defendant has been ordered by the court to pay his wife $30 allmony on or before Aug. 14th, the payment of an order under a former order of court. After this payment, Pugh has been ordered by Judge Spence to give $200 for the satisfaction of the order.

Bed-Bugs?

Instant Death for the Pesky Creatures

Yes, instant death to bed-bugs, roaches or fleas. The moment P.D.Q., the new chemical discovery touches these insects they die. Can do no damage to your springs, or furniture; won't rot or stain clothing. P.D.Q. is used and recommended by leading hotels, hospitals and railroads as the quickest and safest way of getting rid of pesky insects. Instantly it smothers and kills the living creatures; coats their eggs, and stops them from hatching and multiplying. A 35c package of this golden chemical will make a quart of mixture—so deadly it will kill a million bed-bugs. P.D.Q. can also be had in double-strength liquid form—ready for use. Free patent spout enables you to reach hard-to-get-at places with ease. Get P.D.Q. at your druggist's today. Your money back if the bugs are not gone tomorrow.

Major Leagues Watching Work of This Sacker

Several major league scouts are trailing the Elmira team in the New York-Pennsylvania league to watch the much touted "Ted" Donovan, its captain and southpaw, first sacker. The player's fielding and throwing is nothing short of sensational and he's batting .300. He leads all first sackers in the Farrell circuit in fielding.

Haskin's Letter

of Madison and of Monroe and of many another famous early statesman.

Connecting at Orange, Virginia, are roads from the east and from the north. To the east lies Fredericksburg, and before it is reached one passes through the terrible battlefields of the campaigns between the States, where Hooker and Meade and Grant pounded long and often vainly against the ranks of Lee at Chancellorsville, in the Wilderness and at Fredericksburg on the banks of the Rappahanock. Beside this road stands the monument on the lonely spot where Stonewall Jackson fell mortally wounded, and the gallant cavalry leader J. E. B. Stuart, fell not many miles from there.

Northward lies the road through Culpeper, Warrenton, and Manassas, past which latter town winds the little stream of Bull Run where Virginia soil was first stained with fraternal blood. Along this road passed Jefferson on his journeys to the north, to Philadelphia, to write the Declaration of Independence, to the new city of Washington, to serve as Vice President with Adams as President, and later to tie his horse before the steps of the Capitol and take the oath as Chief Executive.

And along this road he returned in later years to his one great love, the home he had built on the heights at Monticello overlooking the great valley and the quaint little town where his university was building, the symbol of his belief that only through an educated proletariat could a free government be maintained among men. At Monticello and at the University of Virginia we will find, as thousands of pilgrims are now finding each year, the great monuments to one of the most remarkable of Americans.

TAGGING ALL --BASES--

The baseballs used in the Yankee-White Sox game were wetter than a Pennsylvania congressman as Red Faber and Urban Shocker clashed in a spitball duel. Red expectorated all over New York's winning streak of eleven straight games and halted the league leaders, 2 to 1.

Ehmke and Grove looked to be worth the jack they cost as the A's slammed the Tigers twice, 6 to 0 and 10 to 1. Manush's eleventh homer of the season was Detroit's only score in eighteen dismal frames.

The Senators smothered the Browns again in a 14 to 11 slugfest. The Nats scored six runs in the eighth and won in the ninth when Bluege cracked a homer with two on.

The Giants crushed the Cardinals for the fourth straight time, 4 to 2, Al Tyson being the big noise. Annoyed because he was beaned by Keen, Al nicked Sherdel for a single which drove in the winning runs.

Pittsburgh lost to the pesky Phillies, who pounded Nichols and Songer, and won 8 to 3. Wayland Dean set the champs down with seven hits.

The Cubs came to life and nosed out the Dodgers, 5 to 4. Hack Wilson got his fifteenth homer of the season.

Thousands of tons given away—Club Now Forming

Want a ton of coal—free?

You can get it by joining our Heatrola Free Coal Club—a part of the national Free Coal Club that you read about last week in The Saturday Evening Post. This is the fifth consecutive year that thousands of tons of coal will be given away, free.

Join our Free Coal Club now, and you will get a ton of coal, free, with an Estate Heatrola—delivered long before cold weather sets in, and to be paid for on easy, convenient terms. The enrollment fee of $2 is applied to the purchase price of the Heatrola.

Remember, the Heatrola—the original first-floor heating plant—will give you furnace comfort, as a saving of 45 per cent in fuel. And the Heatrola is so feautiful—it looks like a fine mahogany cabinet. Everyone admires it!

Come in — have us show you the Heatrola and explain our Free Coal offer. This offer expires August 21st—so don't delay.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT TO THE CONSTITUTION OF OHIO.

ARTICLE XVIII, SECTION 11.

PROPOSING AN AMENDMENT TO SECTION 11 OF ARTICLE XVIII OF THE CONSTITUTION OF THE STATE OF OHIO, RELATIVE TO ASSESSMENTS FOR THE COST OF ACQUIRING PROPERTY.

Be it resolved by the General Assembly of the State of Ohio, three-fifths of the members elected to both houses concurring therein:

That there shall be submitted to the electors of this state in the manner provided by law, on the second Tuesday in August, 1926, a proposal to amend section 11 of article XVIII of the constitution of Ohio, so as to read as follows:

Sec. 11. Any municipality acquiring property by purchase or appropriation for a public improvement may provide money therefor, in whole or in part, by assessments upon property benefited by the improvement whether abutting, adjacent or otherwise located. Such assessments shall in no case exceed special benefits conferred thereby.

Be it further resolved, That at such election above referred to this amendment shall be placed on the official ballot, in the manner provided by law and designated as follows:

"To authorize assessment by municipalities of the cost of acquiring property for public improvement upon lands benefited thereby," or, in other language, sufficiently clear to designate such purpose.

If adopted, said amendment shall take effect on the first day of January, 1927.

Adopted March 27, 1925.

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA,
STATE OF OHIO.
Office of the Secretary of State.
I, THAD BROWN, Secretary of State, of the State of Ohio, do hereby certify that the foregoing is an exemplified copy, carefully compared by me with the original now on file in my office and in my official custody as Secretary of State and found to be true and correct of a Joint Resolution adopted by the 86th General Assembly of the State of Ohio on March 27, 1925, and filed in the office of the Secretary of State, on April 3, 1925, proposing to amend Article XVIII, Section 11 of the Constitution, relative to assessments for the costs of acquiring property.
IN TESTIMONY WHEREOF, I have hereunto subscribed my name and affixed my official seal at Columbus, Ohio, this 15th day of June, A. D. 1926.

The prayer of the said Petition that said property be sold to carry out the requests and bequeaths made by the last will and Testament of the said John Todd Kountz, deceased, as aforesaid. Grant Wenzlaff and Hattie

Laughlin and Chester Capture Industrial League Games

K. T. K. Defeated, 9-8; Cebula's Curves Awe Wellsville Batsmen

First-half victors on Long End of Score in Zig-Zag Contest at Columbian Park, While Clever Pitching of Riley's Ace Features Central Park Battle.

With both teams hitting handily and scoring recklessly at times Laughlin, first-half winners, finally defeated K. T. K. at Columbian park in what was a zig-zag contest last evening, the score being 9 to 8.

Wild running of the pathways, particularly by Laughlin, featured the contest. Two double steals by Babb and Finley in the third, the latter continuing beyond third and reaching the plate successfully as Bubin walked, being an outstanding occurrence of the contest.

Myers showed his hitting capabilities by slashing out two doubles and a single in three tries for a 1000 mark. Finley, Jackson and Barr swatted at a .667 clip with two safeties in a trio of attempts.

Though Laughlin made three runs in the first, K. T. K. came right back and made four in the second only to have their opponents annex a quintet of runs in the third which the Ohio potters rebutted with three in the third, just one run behind. In the fourth both clubs made a run each and both went scoreless in the fifth which darkness ensuing, continued the one-tally margin in favor of the McCoyites.

Barr, new Laughlin hurler, fresh from a season's non-work with Nash-Turk flung at the victorious end of the game. He allowed nine hits, fanned four, but walked none. But he hit the ball hard despite his enforced absence from the game.

Hi Allison held Laughlin to eight safeties. He, too, fanned four, but he passed four, all of whom subsequently scored. Both pitchers had one assist each.

RECORD CROWD AT WELLSVILLE

But Two Safe Drives are Permitted by Chester Twirler.

Unable to hit M. Cebula, who permitted but two safe drives, Wellsville lost to Chester in a City Industrial league contest at Central park of the down river city last evening. The score was 8 to 1.

Cebula fanned seven men. Wellsville's only run was made in the third when Meyer was safe on Heckathorn's error. The former stole second and reached third on Pott's wide heave on the play. He scored on Rager's grounder to P. Cebula.

Because Wellsville had previously defeated Chester 5 to 1, the largest crowd of the season turned out to witness the contest.

Morgan supplanted Meyers in the fifth after Chester had touched him for four hits which netted three runs.

McMath's single to right in the fifth sent two runs across the plate. Potts, Marshall and Heckathorne then went out in order.

M. Cebula, with two safeties in three attempts, also led his club with the stick. Hancock made a double off him in the second and Deemer, pinch hitting for Rager, in the sixth. Accordingly Cebula has the unique record of permitting but two hits in the last two contests in which he has worked, he having allowed no safe drives in his previous appearance.

MLLE. LENGLEN BECOMES "PRO"

French Tennis Star Will Tour North America.

POURVILLE - SUR-MER, France, Aug. 3.—"During the last few years tennis has taken a new trend and everybody wants to make money out of it, I do think that I should have mine too."

Thus Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen explained today in an interview, her reason for deciding to turn professional and make a tour of the North American continent.

Suzanne, radiant and beaming, appeared in high glee over the contract which she has made with C. C. Pyle, American sports promoter, and she was very frank in her admission that she turned professional because she felt that tennis, to which she has devoted her life, owes her the wealth which will provide for her in the day when her deadly aim, her driving forearm, and her agile legs fail her on the courts.

Suzanne has just one regret, she says over this business of turning professional and that regret concerns Helen Wills, American champion. Suzanne feels that her victory over Miss Wills on the Riviera last winter was not quite decisive enough, and she would like one more match with the Californian. In fact, the French ace cherishes a secret hope that perhaps the United States Lawn Tennis association might waive its regulations long enough to permit Miss Wills to engage in a battle with a professional, providing there is an arrangement whereby the proceeds might to to charity.

DEMPSEY--KEARNS RING CONTRACT EXPIRES

CHAMP DEFERS SIGNING FOR TUNNEY BOUT

Hopes to Evade Payment of Split to Ex-manager.

NO ARMISTICE

By Davis J. Walsh.

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—The estrangement between Jack Dempsey, heavyweight champion of the entire world with the possible exception of Harlem, and Jack Kearns, his whilom manager, became an actuality today when their three-year contract duly expired and died. There will be no reconciliation, no armistice, no truce. The nearest Jack Kearns will be to Dempsey's corner when and if the champion meets Gene Tunney will be a ringside seat at th ecustomary rate of exchange.

Tex Rickard vouched for the accuracy of this statement today when he declared there wasn't the slightest possibility of the pair getting together.

"I'm afraid those two boys are going to wind up battling in the courts," the promoter said. "I hate to see it because I like them both. However, I have not meddled in their affairs and don't intend to do so."

Kearns' Card In Hole.

Be that as it might, Richard revealed the fact that he had been a party to an arrangement, whereby Dempsey may hope to evade payment of Kearns' managerial third of the Tunney purse. He let the well known cat out for an airing when he disclosed the fact that Dempsey had not signed a ringside seat at the customary rate not do so until two days hence.

In brief, he will be able to tell a court of law that Kearns could have no interest in the proceedings because the match was signed for after the expiration of their contract.

Kearns probably will counter with the reply that Dempsey signed an option with Rickard in Texas several months ago, and that besides he, himself, Jack Kearns personally signed the champion for this identical match, as he had every right to do under the terms of their agreement. This document, by the way, makes Dempsey liable to Kearns for one-third of the contractural price provided the boxer match Kearns happened to make for declines to abide by the terms of any him.

Training in Witness Box.

This makes it appear as though Dempsey will do a lot of his training in the witness box. B. C. Clements, Chicago promoter who seems to think he has the champion tied up in a Wills match, tapped him on the head with a summons before he left Colorado Springs. Further, there was a report on Broadway today that Harry Wills would begin some action locally in the hope of starting something that, perhaps, some one else will finish.

Incidentally, it has been noted that Dempsey has wiped Chicago off his itinerary as he journeys east, the inference being that the champion feared further reprisals from the irrepressible Clements. On Thursday, Clements is supposed to put $300,000 in Dempsey's hand, which will be a good trick whether he does it or not. It may be harder to find the hand than the $300,000.

As a matter of fact, Dempsey is likely to spend Thursday formally signing with Rickard. After which there will be no trouble at all beyond the fact that the local license committee may refuse to sanction his appearance in the ring with Tunney.

The more one looks at this proposition, the less one likes it. The only thing that makes it look good is the fact that Rickard is beind it and it is a matter of record that that gentleman hasn't been wrong since his arrival in this man's town.

INSIDE GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON, Maker of 51 Golf Champions. "Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans.

Tying a belt into a loop and placing it about the arms, to hold the arms in position while the swing is made, will reveal several surprising things about the position of the arms throughout the swing when the elbows are thus held in their correct position. Not the least of these will be the position you find the elbows occupying at the finish. With the loop about the arms, you will find the left elbow down at the finish and the right arm projecting more toward straight up. This will happen because the right arm, with the elbows guided correctly by the loop, will shoot straight through the ball as it should while the left arm will travel through on a low plane, following the club head after the ball.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE.

Bee and Lou are modern girls sharing a Greenwich Village apartment. Bee is an actress, at present in the chorus, but keeping a stiff upper lip and a fond hope of success. Into the Village comes Delia, frail poetess of New England, seeking freedom from the repressions of her home. And Bee, a school chum of the freedom-seeking, invites her to share their apartment. Delia is determined to win through to the freedom she came for. Before the first evening is well under way Delia has met Wilbur, a young artist who is suffering from "too much mother" and whom Lou has undertaken to rescue; and Leslie, intimate of Lou, and Arthur Rockwell, the poet whose work Delia knows and admires, and various others of the Village crowd.

Bee and Lou have their troubles. Bee is beset by a highly successful young business man who wants to marry her and carry her off from the Village; Lou and Leslie come to a misunderstanding because of her efforts in behalf of Wilbur. And Delia fast succumbs to the fascination of Rockwell, who is unscrupulous in love. Matters grow tense. Bee loses her theater job and takes to waiting in a Village tea room. Wilbur, driven desperate by his mother, prevails on Lou to pretend she is engaged to him. This, though unhappily, she undertakes to do. Bee and Fred appear to have broken off definitely and Delia begins to discover the tragedy of trusting Arthur. Bee, in a final effort to find work on the stage attempts work as a chorus girl in a revue but discovers she is expected to pose in the nude as part of an "art" presentation. She flares up, leaves the job and is readjusting her philosophy as this instalment begins.

A chapter missed from this point on spoils the effect of a really good story.

CHAPTER THIRTY-ONE.

"Isn't self-interest the most important factor?" asked Bee, intense in working out her newly accented philosophy.

"I thing it is."

"Think nothing! You know it's so. Where's your logic. The sane thing is honest self-interest. Self-pity is a vice. Look at Wilbur's mother!" ("I've been looking at her," murmured Lou.) "This rotten old possessive instinct is another vice. Wilbur's mother again; and Leslie, and Fred. You can't own another human creature. You can only accept what other creatures are moved to give you, and they what you're moved to give them. Isn't that fundamental sense?" (Oh, you," breather Lou, "of course.") "You can't carry other people's lives along without pauperizing them emotionally—any more than you can carry them financially. You can't. This muddled old world hasn't learned that yet, and as a result it's filthy—outraged wives, ruined girls, alimony, all that dirty stuff. Love never ruined anybody. Love's a joy, or it's nothing. Take Delia, now—"

"This I've observed," put in Lou, absorbed by her own deep thoughts, "in the business: I wouldn't for a minute hang onto a stenographer or an errand boy that didn't measure up to the work, I'd discharge 'em quick."

"Exactly. It wouldn't matter to you if they went in for self-pity."

"Not at all."

"You'd know it was the beest thing for them to throw them out to sink or swim."

"That's just what I'm grouping around to. It would be the best thing for them. Certainly I'd know that. Over and over again I've seen some of our boys and girls made, really made, by just that sort of rough treatment. Taught humility, I mean—thrown bang up against the truth, sobered up, tempered. And I've been wondering lately if we shouldn't accept the same philosophy in matters of the emotions."

"That's what I'm telling you, Lou. Isn't it fundamental truth?"

"I'm not sure that it isn't."

"But it is! This Victorian civilization has made the awful mess of things we see around us precisely by going false on that one point. Sentimentalizing life. They're just about wrecked the whole darn thing by going false there. Just as sentimentality would wreck your business in a year. Take Delia, now: She's vague and imaginative and helpless and out for a thrill. All right. Since she's all set for it, let her have it. After all, it's nothing but experience. It'll either make her or break her. She's got to live it out. Likely as not, it'll stir her up to real poetry. Make a success of her. Her own personal happiness or unhappiness doesn't matter. Probably unhappiness is what she needs." And Bee quoted Heine:

"Aus meninen grossen Schmerzon Mach Ich die kleine Lieder."

"The only out about it—and I'm not wholly convinced yet that you can carry the philosophy of business life over onto the emotional plane—oh, I'm receptive, but not entirely convinced—the out I seem to be struggling with is this old maternal instinct."

"Look out for sentimentality, Lou."

"Yes, of course it may be that I've simply got a weak streak in me. Something I've got to reckon with. I don't know. Mind you, I'm not arguing for it. I'm just trying to figure it out. No use going into the details, but—oh, well, I'm afraid I thought I was independent and strong, and I had this deep impulse to help weaker folks. Yes, carry them emotionally. I indulged it, all over the place! And as a result I'm in a most awful mess. Just a mess! That's why I've begun to feel that you may be right."

"It looks very, very clear to me," said Bee soberly.

"But on the other hand, the mothering impulse is just as strong as ever. It's a fact. It's real. I don't know what to do about it. I'm pretty shaken, Bee." This was a moving admission. "I seem to be living in a paradox. I'll confess it beats me. It's not that what you say doesn't seem logical to me—more than logical; true. But that truth simply emphasizes the complexity of life. Sometimes I wonder if this queer business of life isn't made up of a lot of contradictory truths battling each new line of force that nobody can see now. The eternal biological struggle. I don't know. But it beats me. I'm bang up against a wall, Bee."

This was the real Louise, puzzled, stung, speaking out from a heart that had seldom in their deep friendship found direct voice. "You know, of course, that I'm going through a pretty difficult time with Leslie. He writes. Oh, the reproaches! And no matter how often I settle the thing in my mind, there are moments—it's all coming out now, Bee—when I'm afraid I'll just give up and marry him. Through sheer weakness, I suppose. Surrender to emotion and pity. Though it's an idea I can't face mentally. And then there's Wilbur. Right around my neck. You've no idea what—" She closed her lips on that.

"But you can't marry Leslie to get rid of him, Lou. That wouldn't be honest."

"No."

"And you can't marry Wilbur to save him from his mother."

"No."

"No more than I could marry Fred to save him from himself. I might as well marry for a living, and that's about the lowest thing of all. And the most common."

For a time the two girls gave way to a moody silence that was at length broken by Bee. "I wonder," she mused, darkly, "I wonder what's going to become of us two. I'm just about fed up, myself."

Jewish Zealots Seek To Revive Sacrifices At Ancient Mosque

JERUSALEM—Permission to bring a burnt offering to Mount Moriah, where the Mosque of Omah stands, is being sought by a small faction of Jewish zealots.

They have asked their lawyer to endeavor to persuade the Supreme Moslem Council to allow the erection of altars where a temple once stood in order to revise the sacrifices interrupted when the temple was destroyed 2,000 years ago.

Several Hebron ritual animal slaughters were suspected of conducting secret animal sacrifices in anticipation of a revival of sacrificial worship.

BIG FILM HIT AT CERAMIC

"Fascinating Youth" is Paramount's Latest Comedy.

Novelty—thy name is Cinema.

"Fascinating Youth," Paramount's latest comedy, opened at the Ceramic theatre last night. It is no ordinary film—this hilarious concoction. Rather is it unique in that an original idea has been successfully employed.

The principal parts are all enacted by members of the Paramount Picture School. This, you will remember was the outcome of last year's nation-wide hunt for hidden talent. The boys and girls appearing in the film, would seem to be the "cream of the cream." And—strange to say—every single mother's son or daughter, does his or her work in a manner that would win laurels for any experienced player.

Perhaps credit for the picture's success is due Director Sam Wood. Certainly, it takes patience, experience and a whole lot of knowledge to make a flock of amateurs act as though they had lived their lives in front of a camera.

Byron Morgan's story concerns itself with a rich youth who lives in Greenwich Village and has nothing else to do but stage Charleston parties. It must be admitted though, that all his little playmates are agile and dept dancers. Then along comes papa.

"Make good on a job I'll give you—or marry the girl I've picked out."

And so—that he may wed the girl of his own heart, our hero starts to make his father's dreary winter resort a success. How he does this, with the aid of his friends, goes to make a very amusing comedy.

Everything needed to produce a good picture has been included in "Fascinating Youth." We have youth, beauty, action, romance, thrills, sport and a hundred other ingredients—more than enough to go round and satisfy all fans.

In addition to the Junior Stars, a cast of experienced players headed by Ralph Lewis, is seen. And—there's a surprise contained in the film which is too good to divulge. Just go to—and regain some of your "Fascinating Youth."

Several major league scouts are trailing the Elmira team in the New York-Pennsylvania league to watch the much touted "Ted" Donovan, its captain and southpaw first sacker. The player's fielding and throwing is nothing short of sensational and he's batting .300. He leads all first sackers in the Farrell circuit in fielding.

Haskin's Letter

of Madison and of Monroe and of many another famous early statesman.

Connecting at Orange, Virginia, are roads from the east and from the north. To the east lies Fredericksburg, and before it is reached one passes through the terrible battlefields of the campaigns between the States, where Hooker and Meade and Grant pounded long and often vainly against the ranks of Lee at Chancellorsville, in the Wilderness and at Fredericksburg on the banks of the Rappahanock. Beside this road stands the monument on the lonely spot where Stonewall Jackson fell mortally wounded, and the gallant cavalry leader J. E. B. Stuart, fell not many miles from there.

Northward lies the road through Culpeper, Warrenton, and Manassas, past which latter town winds the little stream of Bull Run where Virginia soil was first stained with fraternal blood. Along this road passed Jefferson on his journeys to the north, to Philadelphia, to write the Declaration of Independence, to the new city of Washington, to serve as Vice President with Adams as President, and later to tie his horse before the steps of the Capitol and take the oath as Chief Executive.

And along this road he returned in later years to his one great love, the home he had built on the heights at Monticello overlooking the great valley and the quaint little town where his university was building, the symbol of his belief that only through an educated proletariat could a free government be maintained among men. At Monticello and at the University of Virginia we will find, as thousands of pilgrims are now finding each year, the great monuments to one of the most remarkable of Americans.

TAGGING ALL --BASES--

The baseballs used in the Yankee-White Sox game were wetter than a Pennsylvania congressman as Red Faber and Urban Shocker clashed in a spitball duel. Red expectorated all over New York's winning streak of eleven straight games and halted the league leaders, 2 to 1.

Ehmke and Grove looked to be worth the jack they cost as the A's slammed the Tigers twice, 6 to 0 and 10 to 1. Manush's eleventh homer of the season was Detroit's only score in eighteen dismal frames.

The Senators smothered the Browns again in a 14 to 11 slugfest. The Nats scored six runs in the eighth and won in the ninth when Bluege cracked a homer with two on.

The Giants crushed the Cardinals for the fourth straight time, 4 to 2, Al Tyson being the big noise. Annoyed because he was beaned by Keen, Al nicked Sherdel for a single which drove in the winning runs.

Pittsburgh lost to the pesky Phillies, who pounded Nichols and Songer, and won 8 to 3. Wayland Dean set the champs down with seven hits.

The Cubs came to life and nosed out the Dodgers, 5 to 4. Hack Wilson got his fifteenth homer of the season.

5th annual free coal Offer

Thousands of tons given away—Club Now Forming

Want a ton of coal—free?

You can get it by joining our Heatrola Free Coal Club—a part of the national Free Coal Club that you read about last week in The Saturday Evening Post. This is the fifth consecutive year that thousands of tons of coal will be given away, free.

Join our Free Coal Club now, and you will get a ton of coal, free, with an Estate Heatrola—delivered long before cold weather sets in, and to be paid for on easy, convenient terms. The enrollment fee of $2 is applied to the purchase price of the Heatrola.

Remember, the Heatrola—the original first-floor heating plant—will give you furnace comfort, as a saving of 45 per cent in fuel. And the Heatrola is so feautiful—it looks like a fine mahogany cabinet. Everyone admires it!

Come in — have us show you the Heatrola and explain our Free Coal offer. This offer expires August 21st—so don't delay.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT TO THE CONSTITUTION OF OHIO.
ARTICLE XVIII, SECTION 11.
PROPOSING AN AMENDMENT TO SECTION 11 OF ARTICLE XVIII OF THE CONSTITUTION OF THE STATE OF OHIO, RELATIVE TO ASSESSMENTS FOR THE COST OF ACQUIRING PROPERTY.

Be it resolved by the General Assembly of the State of Ohio, three-fifths of the members elected to both houses concurring therein:

That there shall be submitted to the electors of this state in the manner provided by law, on the second Tuesday in August, 1926, a proposal to amend section 11 of article XVIII of the constitution of Ohio, so as to read as follows:

Sec. 11. Any municipality acquiring property by purchase or appropriation for a public improvement may provide money therefor, in whole or in part, by assessments upon property benefited by the improvement whether abutting, adjacent or otherwise located. Such assessments shall in no case exceed special benefits conferred thereby.

Be it further resolved, That at such election above referred to this amendment shall be placed on the official ballot, in the manner provided by law and designated as follows:

"To authorize assessment by municipalities of the cost of acquiring property for public improvement upon lands benefited thereby," or, in other language, sufficiently clear to designate such purpose.

If adopted, said amendment shall take effect on the first day of January, 1927.

Adopted March 27, 1925.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE.

Bee and Lou are modern girls sharing a Greenwich Village apartment. Bee is an actress, at present in the chorus, but keeping a stiff upper lip and a fond hope of success. Into the Village comes Delia, frail poetess of New England, seeking freedom from the repressions of her home. And Bee, a school chum of the freedom-seeking, invites her to share their apartment. Delia is determined to win through to the freedom she came for. Before the first evening is well under way Delia has met Wilbur, a young artist who is suffering from "too much mother" and whom Lou has undertaken to rescue; and Leslie, intimate of Lou, and Arthur Rockwell, the poet whose work Delia knows and admires, and various others of the Village crowd.

Bee and Lou have their troubles. Bee is beset by a highly successful young business man who wants to marry her and carry her off from the Village; Lou and Leslie come to a misunderstanding because of her efforts in behalf of Wilbur. And Delia fast succumbs to the fascination of Rockwell, who is unscrupulous in love. Matters grow tense. Bee loses her theater job and takes to waiting in a Village tea room. Wilbur, driven desperate by his mother, prevails on Lou to pretend she is engaged to him. This, though unhappily, she undertakes to do. Bee and Fred appear to have broken off definitely and Delia begins to discover the tragedy of trusting Arthur. Bee, in a final effort to find work on the stage attempts work as a chorus girl in a revue but discovers she is expected to pose in the nude as part of an 'art" presentation. She flares up, leaves the job and is readjusting her philosophy as this instalment begins.

A chapter missed from this point on spoils the effect of a really good story.

CHAPTER THIRTY-ONE.

"Isn't self-interest the most important factor?" asked Bee, intense in working out her newly accented philosophy.

"I thing it is."

"Think nothing! You know it's so. Where's your logic. The sane thing is honest self-interest. Self-pity is a vice. Look at Wilbur's mother!" ("I've been looking at her," murmured Lou.) "This rotten old possessive instinct is another vice. Wilbur's mother again; and Leslie, and Fred. You can't own another human creature. You can only accept what other creatures are moved to give you, and they what you're moved to give them. Isn't that fundamental sense?" (Oh, you," breather Lou, "of course.") "You can't carry other people's lives along without pauperizing them emotionally—any more than you can carry them financially. You can't. This muddled old world hasn't learned that yet, and as a result it's filthy—outraged wives, ruined girls, alimony, all that dirty stuff. Love never ruined anybody. Love's a joy, or it's nothing. Take Delia, now—"

"This I've observed," put in Lou, absorbed by her own deep thoughts, "in the business: I wouldn't for a minute hang onto a stenographer or an errand boy that didn't measure up to the work, I'd discharge 'em quick."

"Exactly. It wouldn't matter to you if they went in for self-pity."

"Not at all."

"You'd know it was the beest thing for them to throw them out to sink or swim."

"That's just what I'm grouping around to. It would be the best thing for them. Certainly I'd know that. Over and over again I've seen some of our boys and girls made, really made, by just that sort of rough treatment. Taught humility, I mean—thrown bang up against the truth, sobered up, tempered. And I've been wondering lately if we shouldn't accept the same philosophy in matters of the emotions."

"That's what I'm telling you, Lou. Isn't it fundamental truth?"

"I'm not sure that it isn't."

"But it is! This Victorian civilization has made the awful mess of things we see around us precisely by going false on that one point. Sentimentalizing life. They're just about wrecked the whole darn thing by going false there. Just as sentimentality would wreck your business in a year. Take Delia, now: She's vague and imaginative and helpless and out for a thrill. All right. Since she's all set for it, let her have it. After all, it's nothing but experience. It'll either make her or break her. She's got to live it out. Likely as not, it'll stir her up to real poetry. Make a success of her. Her own personal happiness or unhappiness doesn't matter. Probably unhappiness is what she needs." And Bee quoted Heine:

"Aus meninen grossen Schmerzon
Mach Ich die kleine Lieder."

"The only out about it—and I'm not wholly convinced yet that you can carry the philosophy of business life over onto the emotional plane—oh, I'm receptive, but not entirely convinced—the out I seem to be struggling with is this old maternal instinct."

"Look out for sentimentality, Lou."

"Yes, of course it may be that I've simply got a weak streak in me. Something I've got to reckon with. I don't know. Mind you, I'm not arguing for it. I'm just trying to figure it out. No use going into the details, but—oh, well, I'm afraid I thought I was independent and strong, and I had this deep impulse to help weaker folks. Yes, carry them emotionally. I indulged it, all over the place! And as a result I'm in a most awful mess. Just a mess! That's why I've begun to feel that you may be right."

"It looks very, very clear to me," said Bee soberly.

"But on the other hand, the mothering impulse is just as strong as ever. It's a fact. It's real. I don't know what to do about it. I'm pretty shaken, Bee." This was a moving admission. "I seem to be living in a paradox. I'll confess it beats me. It's not that what you say doesn't seem logical to me—more than logical; true. But that truth simply emphasizes the complexity of life. Sometimes I wonder if this queer business of life isn't made up of a lot of contradictory truths battling each new line of force that nobody can see now. The eternal biological struggle. I don't know. But it beats me. I'm bang up against a wall, Bee."

This was the real Louise, puzzled, stung, speaking out from a heart that had seldom in their deep friendship found direct voice. "You know, of course, that I'm going through a pretty difficult time with Leslie. He writes. Oh, the reproaches! And no matter how often I settle the thing in my mind, there are moments—it's all coming out now, Bee—when I'm afraid I'll just give up and marry him. Through sheer weakness, I suppose. Surrender to emotion and pity. Though it's an idea I can't face mentally. And then there's Wilbur. Right around my neck. You've no idea what—" She closed her lips on that.

"But you can't marry Leslie to get rid of him, Lou. That wouldn't be honest."

"No."

"And you can't marry Wilbur to save him from his mother."

"No."

"No more than I could marry Fred to save him from himself. I might as well marry for a living, and that's about the lowest thing of all. And the most common."

For a time the two girls gave way to a moody silence that was at length broken by Bee. "I wonder," she mused, darkly, "I wonder what's going to become of us two. I'm just about fed up, myself."

Jewish Zealots Seek To Revive Sacrifices At Ancient Mosque

JERUSALEM—Permission to bring a burnt offering to Mount Moriah, where the Mosque of Omah stands, is being sought by a small faction of Jewish zealots.

They have asked their lawyer to endeavor to persuade the Supreme Moslem Council to allow the erection of altars where a temple once stood in order to revise the sacrifices interrupted when the temple was destroyed 2,000 years ago.

Several Hebron ritual animal slaughters were suspected of conducting secret animal sacrifices in anticipation of a revival of sacrificial worship.

Leads in Rebuilding Grandeur of Roman Social Civilization

In rebuilding Rome as the world's center of culture Premier Mussolini is not overlooking his human material. Hostesses of charm and distnction are necessary. One of the leaders of Roman society is presented herewith, the Baroness Scariglia, whose social functions have long been among the most brilliant in the Eternal City.

BIG FILM HIT AT CERAMIC

"Fascinating Youth" is Paramount's Latest Comedy.

Novelty—thy name is Cinema.

"Fascinating Youth," Paramount's latest comedy, opened at the Ceramic theatre last night. It is no ordinary film—this hilarious concoction. Rather is it unique in that an original idea has been successfully employed.

The principal parts are all enacted by members of the Paramount Picture School. This, you will remember was the outcome of last year's nation-wide hunt for hidden talent. The boys and girls appearing in the film, would seem to be the "cream of the cream." And—strange to say—every single mother's son or daughter, does his or her work in a manner that would win laurels for any experienced player.

Perhaps credit for the picture's success is due Director Sam Wood. Certainly, it takes patience, experience and a whole lot of knowledge to make a flock of amateurs act as though they had lived their lives in front of a camera.

Byron Morgan's story concerns itself with a rich youth who lives in Greenwich Village and has nothing else to do but stage Charleston parties. It must be admitted though, that all his little playmates are agile and dept dancers. Then along comes papa.

"Make good on a job I'll give you—or marry the girl I've picked out."

And so—that he may wed the girl of his own heart, our hero starts to make his father's dreary winter resort a success. How he does this, with the aid of his friends, goes to make a very amusing comedy.

Everything needed to produce a good picture has been included in "Fascinating Youth." We have youth, beauty, action, romance, thrills, sport and a hundred other ingredients—more than enough to go round and satisfy all fans.

In addition to the Junior Stars, a cast of experienced players headed by Ralph Lewis, is seen. And—there's a surprise contained in the film which is too good to divulge. Just go to—and regain some of your "Fascinating Youth."
